ADOPT PLAN FOR SCHOOL PAY

Deny Rail Rate Boost Plea; Offer Substitute

READY TO GRANT ONLY ENOUGH TO MEET INTEREST

Added Income Must Be Pooled.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The interstate commerce commission today denied the application of the railroads for a blanket 15 per cent increase in freight rates as contrary to the best interests of the carriers and as unjustified by the economic condition of the country.

As an alternative the commission granted a temporary increase of 15 per cent on numerous specified commodities for a period ending March 31, 1932, with the understanding that the additional revenue produced by the increase shall be pooled by the railroads to meet deficiencies in interest payments on their bonds and other obligations. The commission estimated that the increase would produce between 100 and 125 millions of dollars for this purpose, against the 300 millions the roads hoped to get.

Raises Wage Cut Issue.

The blanket rate raise denied today is much speculation tonight as to whether the carriers now will reduce their wage cut as a means of increasing their earnings. In their petitions for the 15 per cent rate increase they indicated that they were willing to obtain more revenue as an alternative to reduction of expenses by scaling down wages. The impression was left that if they failed to obtain the rate raise sought they would be compelled as a last resort to reduce the pay of the workers.

Not the adverse decision of the commission react detrimentally to the railroads and bonds on the roads on the stock market President Hoover may issue a reassuring statement setting forth the position he contemplates asking congress to take to enhance their credit and improve their credit. The legislation under consideration would remove numerous hampering restrictions upon the operations of the roads and possibly provide for government loans to the carriers at low rates of interest. The White house stated tonight that President Hoover is studying the decision.

Details of Proposed Increases.

The plan for a temporary rate increase on selected commodities is explained by the commission to the effect that acceptance or rejection of the rate schedule under this plan of pooled earnings follows:

AUTOIST GIVES CLEW IN TRUNK MURDER HUNT

BULLETIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 21. —(Special.)—A woman resembling the description of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, was seen last night on the coast highway near Lagune Beach Art colony. The suspect was hiking and was picked up by a passing motorist. She told him she was bound for San Diego. The description included a bruise under one eye. She was dropped off by the motorist at Laguna Beach. Police of all cities and towns in the vicinity were asked to search for her. Early this morning a woman resembling Mrs. Judd was seized with two men by San Bernardino authorities, but was later released when she convinced the police she was not the one they wanted.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Police hunting Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd for the "trunk murder" of two Phoenix, Ariz., women began tonight a new cross-examination of Burton J. McKinnell, her younger brother, on the theory that he knew where his sister was hiding.

They based their theory on a statement from Jack Iler, a gardener, who said he was standing in front of a grocery at Beverly Glenn, a suburb, at 6 o'clock last night and saw young McKinnell drive toward his shack with a woman. This statement contradicts young McKinnell's earlier story to the police today in which he said the last he saw of his sister was at a downtown street corner about 2 o'clock Monday when he left her out of his car.

McKinnell insisted that his sister did not go near the Beverly Glen shack but failed to explain why he took four sandwiches and two pieces of pie to the shack Monday evening.

Search Wide Area.

Meanwhile an intensive search was in progress all over Southern California for the 27 year old fugitive wife of a physician and daughter of a Methodist minister. Arizona authorities have issued warrants naming her as the slayer of Mrs. Agnes Ann Lerol, 30, and her close friend, Hedvig Samuelson, 25, both companions of Mrs. Judd in the Arizona city.

The bodies of the two women were found in two trunks and a suitcase in a railroad station here after Mrs. Judd, appearing to claim the baggage, was frightened away by the questions of depot attaches, who had noticed blood oozing from one of the trunks. Young McKinnell had driven his sister to the station and it was the license number on his car which gave police their first lead in their hunt for the slayer.

Husband Wires Appeal.

From the cell where he is being held as a material witness, Dr. William C. Judd, 48 year old husband of the fugitive, broadcast an appeal tonight to his wife to give herself up. His message read:

"Ruth—Give up and tell your story. I know you couldn't have done those things yourself. Don't try to protect anybody else. Don't be afraid to come forward. We believe in you."

Dr. Judd said he feared his wife might have already committed suicide. He said that it was obviously impossible for her to have carried out the murders. He pointed out that she was a frail woman incapable of handling two bodies and stuffing them into the trunks.

For a while today suspicion pointed a finger at the doctor himself, when Phoenix dispatches told of the visit of a man answering his general discription to Mrs. Judd's apartment in Phoenix last Friday a few hours before the women were slain.

But Dr. Judd insisted he had not been to Phoenix and was corroborated by Mrs. Ida Foss, who also has been living at the home of Miss Caroline Judd, the physician's sister. Mrs. Foss said tonght that Dr. Judd had spent every night in the last five weeeks in his sister's home and had eaten every dinner there.

Separated Last June.

Dr. Judd who had been two years in Pheonix undergoing treatment for tuberculosis, left his wife there last June and came to Los Angeles in an attempt to resume practice. Mrs. Judd

RICH EVANSTON WIDOW WED TO AUTO SALESMAN

Mrs. Sarah V. Brown, wealthy Evanston widow, and Harry C. Wills, an automobile salesman, were married on Sept. 30, according to an announcement made by the bride yesterday in her Windiknowe castle near the Evanston lighthouse. Mrs. Wills is 66 years old; the bridegroom is less than 30.

The marriage ceremony was read by the Rev. Jacob Pfister, a Lutheran minister, Mrs. Wills said. She added that she met Mr. Wills when he called to sell her an automobile.

Ten years ago Mrs. Brown was married to Jack Deymer, 34 years old, a manufacturer of curtains for shower baths. She divorced him in 1929, alleging that he had been untrue to her. From her first husband, Edwin F. Brown, Mrs. Wills inherited a fortune estimated at $3,000,000. Mr. Brown was a banker.

Reveal Bank's I.O.U. Loans to Druggan

The relations of a gangster and his banker were disclosed yesterday when Andrew H. Dressel, banker for Terry Druggan, the beer baron, was subjected to questioning in the court of Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg.

JUDGE FEINBERG.

Druggan got thousands of dollars for the asking, without security of any kind, it was shown.

Judge Feinberg was seeking to discover assets to aid depositors of the defunct West Central State bank, Ogden avenue and Roosevelt road, of which Dressel was the president.

Summons Other Officers.

No substantial assets were uncovered at the hearing, but Judge Feinberg did expose a condition of affairs of the bank which moved him to order other officers, directors and employés of the bank to be summoned into court for another hearing today.

Jacob L. Fox, attorney for Bernard Horwich, receiver for the closed bank, who began the proceedings before Judge Feinberg, declared that in January, 1930, when the state auditor closed the bank, almost no securities at all were on hand to offset a huge amount in loans.

Quite obviously, it appeared, many other bank customers besides Gangster Druggan were able to dip into the bank vaults for loans without putting up any more security than a simple promissory note.

Security Given as Only $10,000.

When the bank closed the loans outstanding amounted to $479,000, and the assets securing the loans, according to Attorney Fox, were valued at less than $10,000.

At the present time, after nearly two years of strenuous efforts to secure payment of the loans, there is still unpaid a total of $271,000, Mr. Fox disclosed.

Willie Druggan, brother of Terry, who was once tried on a charge of slugging a defenseless old man with a baseball bat, also borrowed on only his signature, it was shown, and so did Simon Murray, attorney for the Druggans and various directors of the bank and their business associates. Among the others still owing the bank is Tom Bourke, a political hanger-on

CHICAGO WILL PAY A FINAL TRIBUTE TO EDISON TODAY

Chicago will pay a farewell tribute to Thomas Edison today as the funeral of the electrical wizard is held at his home in Llewellyn Park, N. J. The forces of commerce, industry, and radio will join in, as will the 500,000 children of the public schools.

The first of a series of intervals of silence will come at noon. As the clock strikes 12 in the Board of Trade building the din in the pits will cease for three minutes.

At 2 p. m. a bugle corps will sound taps in the great hall of the Commonwealth Edison building, 72 West Adams street, and every street car and elevated and suburban train in the city will halt.

In near and distant power houses of the Insull Utilities system all activity will cease for one minute, except for the hum of the dynamos. Samuel Insull will be one of the mourners following the coffin of his first American employer and fast friend.

Evening will bring radio's tribute. At 8:58 p. m., W-G-N and other stations associated with the National Broadcasting company in the Palmolive program will observe two minutes' silence. At 9 o'clock the announcer will cut in, requesting every listener to turn off the lights and reflect in darkness for one minute on the boon of Edison's incandescent lamp.

The suggestion for one minute's darkness was first proposed, it was learned, by Maxwell Howard, paper manufacturer of Dayton, O.

BOMB GARAGE OF RUM SELLER ON SOUTH SIDE

A black powder bomb was exploded early this morning beside a garage at the rear of the home of Andrew Chiarello, 10553 Indiana avenue. The blast broke windows in the garage, in the Chiarello home, and in dwellings across the street. The damage was estimated at $300. Lieut. Arthur Mooney of the Kensington police learned that Chiarello had recently served a federal sentence in the Waukegan jail for violating the dry law in Harvey.

The police said they learned that Chiarello's wife, 31 years old, had been present in the Spanish Tavern at 11851 South Michigan avenue on Oct. 9 when Policeman Joseph Isaacs was shot and killed while he was trying to stop a man from beating a woman in the place. Mrs. Chiarello was being questioned by the police this morning concerning both the shooting and the bombing.

A second bomb was exploded on the front porch of the home of Charles S. Wos, a former real estate dealer, at 2901 Lowell avenue early this morning. Windows in Wos' home and in two neighboring buildings were broken. Wos said he knew of no motive for the attack.

Honor Edison; One Minute Dark Tonight

New York, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison, who made the night brighter for humanity will be buried in Orange, N. J., tomorrow and as a mark of sorrow at his passing, the nation, at President Hoover's request, will plunge itself into one minute of darkness at 10 o'clock tomorrow night [at 9 o'clock Chicago time].

When that hour strikes 52 years, almost to the minute, will have passed since the first electric light, a creature of Edison's inventive genius, cast an incandescent glow over the cluttered objects in his laboratory at Menlo Park, N. J.

The President selected the hour primarily, however, because at that time even the Pacific coast which enjoys three hours later daylight than the eastern states, will be in darkness, thus making possible a simultaneous national tribute. Mr. Hoover left it to each individual citizen to participate in the moment of darkness, pointing out that if the generation of electric current were halted even for an instant, it might cause death somewhere in the country.

Monument to Edison's Genius.

"This demonstration of the dependence of the country upon electrical current for its life and health," the President declared, "is in itself a monument to Mr. Edison's genius."

The signal for one minute of darkness will be given over the radio at one minute before the hour.

President Hoover, despite his efforts to arrange his affairs so that he might attend the funeral services at the inventor's home tomorrow afternoon, will not be able to leave Washington, it was announced at the White House. Mrs. Hoover, however, will attend.

Ford and Firestone Arrive.

Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, who with the late John Burroughs and Mr. Edison spent many chummy hours around a smouldering camp fire, arrived at the Edison home in Llewellyn Park, West Orange, in the afternoon, and accompanied members of the family to the laboratory where the inventor's body was lying in state for the second day. The two old friends of the great inventor had said goodby to him nearly a fortnight ago before his illness became acute, although all knew that the end was not far off.

It had been planned to take Mr. Edison's body back to his home at 11 p. m., but at that time so many thousands still waited in line to see him it was decided to continue the vigil throughout the night and into the early morning hours. His body was not to be moved from the laboratory until 5 a. m. when his two sons, Charles and Theodore, and his son-in-law, John Eyre Sloane were to escort it home.

The funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Stephen J. Herben, a friend of Mr. Edison and former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Orange, will officiate. Burial will be in East Orange cemetery. Both the services at the home and at the cemetery will be private.

CONFEREES ACT TO RAISE FUND OF $7,000,000

Tax Warrant Sale to Give Relief.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A plan was devised last night to provide soon for the payment of back salaries to teachers, janitors, engineers, and other school employes, some of whom haven't received real money since the first part of last April.

If the plan works, which its authors deem probable, $6,985,000 should be available for school employes in about 10 days. This sum is sufficient to meet the school board's payroll for about one and three-quarter months.

Every interest concerned, board of education trustees, teachers, engineers, janitors, other school employes and Judge Philip J. Finnegan, before whom the scrip injunction suit is pending, agreed to the plan through representatives in a meeting at the Union League club.

Outline of the Plan.

The plan may be summarized as follows:

Last year the surplus funds of the city purchased $6,985,000 of the 1930 tax anticipation warrants of the school board's educational fund.

These warrants now bear 4 per cent interest, and the rate is to be increased to 6 per cent. Then they are to be sold and the $6,985,000 in cash returned to the city treasury. The cash will then be available to purchase the same amount of the board's 1931 tax anticipation warrants, for which so far no buyers have been found.

The 1931 warrants will be deposited in the city treasury and the cash taken out and distributed among school employes in payment of back salaries starting last April and continuing as far toward the present as the cash will permit. It was estimated last night that the sum will be sufficient to pay all salaries owing for April [which are principally due substitute teachers], all salaries for May and also for a part of June.

Two Hurdles Remain.

There are only two important hurdles to be negotiated to make the plan effective. The first is an opinion of the law firm of Chapman and Cutler, advisers on bonds and municipal securities, that the plan is legal, especially the raising of the interest rate from 4 to 6 per cent. That has been done heretofore a number of times and it is expected the legal experts on city securities will be able to draft a form which they will assert is legal and valid.

The other possible difficulty is to find purchasers for the $6,985,000 of 1930 tax warrants. It was planned by the conferees last night to request Mayor Cermak today to call a meeting of representatives of the banks and investment houses and civic minded residents of wealth to aid the teachers and janitors by purchasing these 1930 warrants.

These can be utilized for the payment of 1930 taxes to the extent of about 22½ per cent. The educational fund is about that percentage of a total tax bill of any property owner within the city. These warrants will draw 6 per cent interest while waiting to be used for 1930 tax payments, which are now scheduled for Jan. 1.

Predict Approval by Board.

The board of education must adopt the plan to make it effective, but the two school trustees at the meeting last night said they thought the board would adopt it. The city council at its meeting this afternoon will be asked by Ald. Jacob Arvey [24th] to adopt a resolution calling on the school board for its approval. The city council itself did its part of the work on Aug. 14.

Last night's meeting was initiated by Judge Finnegan who last week decided that the scrip plan of the school board is illegal. But the judge did not stop there. He urged the factions fighting for and against scrip to get together and work out a plan by which the teachers could get some money.

Those at the Meeting.

The meeting last evening was the result. At the session were:

Thurlow G. Essington, attorney for the teachers' unions.

I. T. Greenacre, James A. O'Callaghan, and Allan Carter, attorneys for the teachers' federation.

Thomas V. Sullivan, Frank Righelmer,

Plan is Agreed Upon.

As a preliminary, Chairman Busch prevailed upon every one present to refrain from speech making. Each agreed to the plan as it was unfolded, and Judge Finnegan will be asked this morning to hold the court proceedings, as at present.

Then Chapman and Cutler will be asked by Mr. Busch and Mr. Essington to prepare a valid resolution for the board of education to pass which will authorize the increasing of the interest rate on the 1930 tax warrants and their sale to the public.

While they are preparing the resolution, plans will be made to get buyers for the 1930 warrants. If there appears a good prospect that the warrants can be sold, in the opinion of the school trustees, they will be expected to pass the resolution at their regular meeting next Wednesday. Then will follow the sale, and the payment out of the cash to the school employés.

All Employés to Share.

Under the agreement this money is to be shared in by all employés who have not received compensation, regardless of whether they have accepted or rejected scrip. All are to be treated alike with no discrimination. Those who have taken the scrip from school employés will get the cash for it.

It was the opinion of the conferees that by the time the cash has been distributed the state legislature will be in special session, or about to convene. Further relief is expected from that source.

Representatives of several banks, meeting yesterday with City Controller Szymczak, would not agree to purchase the city's 1930 tax warrants offered. Employés of the city proper have been paid their salaries until the last two weeks and have not suffered the distress of school workers.

It was not thought last night that the banking interests will refuse so bluntly the school teachers but no one at the meeting claimed to be authorized to speak for the banks.

Controller Szymczak announced that he intended to ask prominent citizens to buy warrants—the plan also adopted by the conferees at the Union League club meeting.

OFFERS STOLEN BONDS FOR SALE; HELD BY POLICE

Olaf Anderson, 7411 Dante avenue, was taken into custody by police of the detective bureau yesterday after it had been reported that he offered a broker in the loop bonds valued at $3,000 which had been stolen from the Wicker Park Safe Deposit and Vault company at 1566 Milwaukee avenue.

Acting on information furnished by Anderson, who asserted that he came into possession of the bonds through a legitimate trade, the police stationed guards at two places on the northwest side in the hope that some of the participants in the actual looting of the safe deposit vaults would be captured.

The men who broke into the vaults opened 122 boxes. They are believed to have escaped with jewelry, money and securities worth more than $100,000.

Executed Gunman's Widow Held on Robbery Charge

Mrs. Gladys Carlson was held last night at Toulon, Ill., on charges that she participated in two bank robberies with her husband, Carl Carlson, alias Frank Jordan, who was electrocuted in the county jail last week for the murder of a policeman. Mrs. Carlson was locked up when she was unable to furnish bonds of $6,000. The Toulon grand jury is hearing testimony that she helped in the robbery of the Farmers State bank in Neponset, Ill., and of the Lafayette, Ill., State bank.

Ancient Galilee Is Put on London-India Air Route

JERUSALEM, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A seaplane of the London-India air mail line alighted today on the Sea of Galilee, prominent scene of New Testament history. Galilee henceforth will be a regular stop, air mail to India having been rerouted by way of Palestine instead of Egypt.

500 WEST SIDE TEACHERS ADOPT RELIEF PROGRAM

Call for Unification of Taxing Machinery.

Five hundred west side school teachers adopted a platform designed to hasten payment of their salaries at an afternoon meeting yesterday in the Crane high school, Jackson and Oakley boulevards. They rejected a suggestion that they condemn Mayor Cermak for reports that he was refusing aid to the teachers because of political feeling against the present board of education. The teachers went on record in favor of these projects:

1. Abolition of the present "antiquated" taxing machinery in Cook county by substituting one assessor for the present board of five, this assessor to serve with two other persons as a board of review.

2. Adoption of the legislation which the teachers understand is contemplated by the governor's revenue commission—a sales tax, a tobacco tax, and an amusement tax.

3. Approval by the board of education of a city ordinance calling for the sale of $6,985,000 of 1930 educational fund tax warrants, the proceeds to be used by the city to buy 1931 warrants and the cash thus derived to pay teachers' back salaries.

Bell Attacks Assessments.

Hayden Bell, attorney for the county board, opened the meeting by explaining the present taxing troubles which he laid to "an illegal tax assessment roll." The only permanent relief, he said, will come through a legal roll. He said he believed the governor's revenue commission favored the simplification of the assessing machinery, "although every political racketeer in the city is on a street corner denouncing the commission."

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], Mayor Cermak's floor leader in the city council, denounced the scrip payment plan of the school board as "not a legal means of providing cash for the payment of salaries." He suggested that the teachers urge the board to raise the interest on the tax warrants from 4 to 6 per cent, without delay, in order that the warrants might be offered for sale.

Criticism of Mayor Stopped.

The criticism of Mayor Cermak came from Joseph Belous of John Marshall High school who said he had heard "that if the board of education resigned, the mayor would find money with which to pay the teachers."

"To condemn others is not a solution of our problem of getting money," he said in reply to Belous. "I don't see how the mayor can be condemned when he proposes to aid in the purchase of the $7,000,000 in warrants which would help us."

The petition of 15,000 teachers and other school board employés asking a special session of the legislature by Nov. 1 was sent to Gov. Emmerson yesterday by executives of the Principals' club.

CHICAGO ENJOYS SUMMER WARMTH; NO FROST NEAR

Chicago basked in an unusual warm spell yesterday as the mercury rose to 71 degrees at 1 p. m. A year ago, on Oct. 20, the temperature was 24 degrees.

C. A. Donnel, official government forecaster, announced that no records have been broken. In 1920 the temperature mounted to 80 degrees on Oct. 20. Cooler weather was predicted for today, but no indications of frost or freezing temperatures are in sight.

Mr. Donnel said the term "Indian summer" is not usually applied to warm spells this early in the season. The true Indian summer comes after the first hard frosts.

JARECKI TO GIVE SWIFT HEARINGS IN TAX HOLDOUTS

Advances Cases of Big Property Owners.

County Judge Jarecki indicated yesterday to 25 tax attorneys that he will have little sympathy with the large property owner who is figuring his taxes in court and refuses to pay any part of his bill.

JUDGE JARECKI. [Moffett Photo.]

"Under our law every property owner is required to contribute a tax for the support of the governments," said the judge. "If an owner believes his tax is unfair, he should pay the part of it he believes is equitable and just. That is one indication of his good faith.

"A recent statue has conferred upon me the power to reduce the penalty on property owners contesting their taxes, who indicate good faith."

Attorney Adds Comment.

"Certainly an owner who refuses to pay anything does not indicate a fair attitude toward the community," added Hayden Bell, county attorney.

"I am asking the county treasurer, through his representative here, for a list of the largest property owners who have not paid their taxes—the income producing properties," said the judge.

"We have some data on that subject," volunteered Assistant States Attorney James Clancy.

"From it prepare a list of 15 or 20 of the property owners who owe the most in taxes," said the judge, "and place them on call for 10 a. m. Friday."

Attorneys for some property owners protested to the court yesterday that their cases had been called out of turn.

"I directed that they be placed upon the call," said the judge. "They have not been called out of turn, because the large income producing properties should be first to be heard.

Speakes of Coercion.

Morris Schaeffer, attorney for more than a dozen owners of real estate asked if the property owners were going to be coerced into payment.

"Have your clients paid any taxes on account," asked the court.

"Our contention is that the tax levy as a whole is illegal," replied the lawyer.

"But you must still admit that your properties owe some taxes," said the court. "Assume there were a new assessment, you would still owe some taxes."

"The total illegality of these cases is pending in the federal court, and we will probably have to go to the United States Supreme court," said the lawyer.

"I think I read in the newspaper that the federal court told you that you could find your remedy in this court," said the judge who requested the lawyer to pick the case he desires tried in the next week.

CLASH IN RELIEF PLANS IMPERILS SPECIAL SESSION

Demand for 20 Year Tax Bonds Is an Issue.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The prospects of financial relief from Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission were reported yesterday to be less promising than they were several weeks ago. The chief difficulty arises from the alleged lack of united support, which the governor desires, on the relief program.

One stumbling block is said to be the plan for the relief of the taxpayers, which the commission has been considering for several weeks and which was discussed again at its meeting last night. This plan is to fund for five years the 1930 taxes, minus those which go to the state and also minus those levied for the payment of bonds and interest.

Protest to the Governor.

This is not satisfactory to the Chicago Real Estate board. Mark Levy, president of the board, and H. H. Haylett, executive director, have made a trip to Springfield to tell Gov. Emmerson that they will fight the funding project in that form. The governor is said to have replied that he will not call a special session of the legislature unless there is united support behind the relief program.

The real estate board desires to have bonds issued for the tax anticipation warrants outstanding for not only 1930 but also 1929 and 1928, and wants these bonds stretched over a period of 20 years, instead of five.

The real estate board believes that the tax forum and other organizations, which have been holding meetings for a month, have won more than a majority of the legislators residing on the south side of Chicago to the 20 year bond plan. A campaign to get similar pledges from west side legislators is starting this week, with a north side campaign to follow soon.

It is said that the real estate men hope to have a majority of the Cook county legislators lined up against the commission's temporary relief plan before the legislature meets.

Governor Urges Action.

Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of the commission, has said that Gov. Emmerson has been urging him to turn over the commission's recommendations. Mr. Brittain is said to have tried to hurry along the discussion in the Union League club last night, while others took the view that it is practically useless to make recommendations which are certain to meet stubborn opposition.

The Chicago Real Estate board's view is that the home, farm and other real estate owners cannot pay the tax burdens imposed. They are reported to have pointed out that about 702,000 property owners have paid their taxes in Cook county, but that 397,000 have not paid. And they claim that nine-tenths of them haven't paid because they haven't the money.

It was reported last night that at the commission meeting, which was secret, it was decided to go ahead with the formulation of its recommendations and in the meantime get direct word from the governor, if possible, on his attitude toward calling a special session in the face of the real estate board opposition.

It was suggested that two courses are open, if it is determined that the opposition of the Chicago Real Estate board is a serious matter. One is to report the commission's five year plan to the legislature and then seek a compromise with the advocates of the 20 year plan. The other is to seek a compromise at once and report the compromise at the commission's recommendations.

Cutmore Charges New Tax Rules Foster "the Fix"

Harry S. Cutmore, formerly director of appraisals for the assessors, head of the staff which produced the 1928 reassessment, in a letter to the county commissioners yesterday challenged the assertion of the assessors and their present appraiser, Charles E. Fox, that he had made many undervaluations of skyscrapers.

In the case of his worst mistakes, Cutmore said, the miscalculations alleged by Fox did not exceed 3 per cent of the given value of a building. Referring to the new system of appendices to the 1928 tax manual to bring it up to date, Cutmore charged that, instead of reducing tax bills for the small home owner, as the assessors assert, it will make the bills higher than in the 1928 assessment.

Charges "Fix" Will Operate.

Asserting that the new system would complicate the appraisal operations ten times and, if correctly done, would take seven years and $7,000,000 to complete, Cutmore said:

"The job, of course, will be done in less time and with less money. As a result confusion will be created which will serve as an invitation to and cover of 'the fix' in assessments and will enable the real culprits in the business to charge the blame for all that happens to the county board because of insufficient appropriations."

In commenting on the 106 buildings where the assessors charged the errors had existed, Cutmore cited a few instances.

"In the case of the Continental Illinois building," he said, "the 1928 building assessment was $4,155,597, as compared with the 1927 assessment of $3,859,805, an increase of one-third. Further, the leasehold was assessed by us at $1,300,000 for the first time in the history of Cook county, and we made it stand.

"The Furniture Mart was measured and appraised for me by L. W. Ellwood, former head of the building department. Our cubic foot total is 24,278,887, which Mr. Fox claims is 841,819 cubic feet short. The National Survey service, a reputable concern, made a complete survey of this property in 1929 and found the cubic feet in the building to be 24,304,040, or 74,827 less than ours. The reassessment increased this assessment 100 per cent over 1927 and the present criticism alleges that we failed to increase it 102 per cent."

CHIEF GREETER PENS LIBRETTO OF LAVAL VISIT

Everything and Every One in Their Place.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Everything is set for the arrival Thursday of Prime Minister Laval, and that "everything" includes the crease in the official pants of the official greeters.

U. P. ROBBINS. (Acme Photo.)

Warren Delano Robbins, new chef de protocol [that means chief greeter], tonight announced the completion of plans for the four day performance, and the state department gave out the librettos to the cast.

These librettos were much shorter than those issued two years ago when England's MacDonald came to us. Somebody dared to ask Mr. Robbins if he intended issuing a supplementary document of details.

Get Bill of Particulars.

At this time, well tailored pockets don't bulge with bits of paper that state department officials, embassy officials, and White House aids have to pull out for a secret consultation to see just where to stand.

Even in its shortened form, the bill of particulars is pretty long. The first one issued Oct. 6, called M. Laval, the "prime minister." This one, released today, calls him, "the president of the council of ministers of France." It tells him that fourteen times in two days. Once it calls him "prime minister," once "premier," and once it is completely democratic and dubs him rather "Mr. Laval."

The instructions contain somewhat amusing details about the welcome of the Frenchman, down at the station Thursday afternoon, with the French ambassador, President's Hoover's aide, and the state department aides all fitted into a happy mosaic of greetings, and Brig. Gen. Edward S. Gillis acting to it that military honors are paid.

At Guest House Number One.

Then M. Laval is hurried over to guest house, Number One [the program provides for three during his two nights]. Number One is the manor of Ambassador Edge, our envoy in Paris.

But a little while and the visitor will go to the White House to pay his official call. Here's where the ceremonies accumulate. The general floor plan, Mr. Robbins declared, will be almost identical with the MacDonald affair two years ago.

But's the way it will be.

At ten minutes to six the naval aid to the President will call at the Edge mansion with the presidential automobile. Ruling sovereigns and prime ministers and ambassadors, rate the presidential auto; lesser lights get a state department car. M. Laval, the French former, accompanied by the host, and the French ambassador, Claudel, will ride in the car with the diplomatic seal on the door, arriving at the White House a few minutes before six. At the door they will be met by the President's military aid.

At this time a White House usher will take M. Laval's hat and coat, and the aids will hurry away to tell the President that company's come. These aids will escort Mr. Laval to the Blue Room.

When the president has taken his position in the Blue Room, with Secretary of State Stimson at his left and the military and naval aids to the right, one pace in the rear, another White House aid will come and escort Ambassador Claudel to bring M. Laval with him. With a quartet of aids in front of them, two abreast, the pair of Frenchmen will proceed to the Blue Room. At the door the aids will break formation and take symmetrical positions either side of the central group. Then Secretary Stimson will come forward and present M. Laval to President Hoover.

The going home is almost as complicated as the coming.

Duplex Set of Servants.

M. Laval will go back to the Laval home to dress for a formal dinner at the White House. As a matter of fact, he won't eat a meal in the guest house No. 1, unless it's a French breakfast of chocolate and rolls.

But his entourage will be housed there during the entire visit. They ought to get good service, for at 5 o'clock tonight it looked as if there were going to be a duplex set of servants.

A local real estate office in charge of the negotiations for the Edge home scurried 'round the town and got seven French servants. Meanwhile, Mrs. John Williams of Baltimore, sister to Mrs. Edge, scurried around and got seven fine servants, "more or less French."

The prime minister sleeps in the Edge bed Thursday night, Friday night he tries one at the White House, Saturday night Secretary Stimson gives him hospitality.

To Reach America Tomorrow

Premier Pierre Laval of France and his daughter, Josette, who is accompanying him on his visit to the United States, about to enter their auto in Paris on Oct. 9. Mlle. Laval is a student of the classics and is studying law to be of more use to her father. They will reach the United States tomorrow. [Acme Photo.]

SHAKESPEARE BOOKS WORTH MILLIONS GO TO WASHINGTON LIBRARY

New York, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The great Shakespearean collection of the late Henry C. Folger, valued at $4,265,000, is being removed from New York to Washington, D. C., for installation there in the Folger Shakespeare memorial library. This institution, a gift to the nation, was begun by Mr. Folger shortly before his death in 1930 and was endowed with $10,000,000 in his will. An armored car with five guards, left New York, with 350 of the most valuable books in the collection and reached Washington safely.

Laval Good Sailor

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

ABOARD THE STEAMSHIP ILE DE FRANCE, Oct. 20.—Premier Laval of France today had the first real test of his life as a sailor and he came through the experience with flying colors. After four days of June-like weather, the Ile de France early this morning encountered rough seas, high winds and rain, forcing scores of more experienced passengers to remain in their cabins.

Mlle. Josette Laval, the premier's daughter, also proved her capacity to withstand the angry moods of the Atlantic. Commandant Blancart, when taken to task about the adverse weather, as skippers usually are in such cases, explained that the storm was ordered by Mlle. Laval, who desired very much to see what it would be like.

The premier was pleased with his record, this being his first Atlantic crossing. Nor did the pitching and rolling seem to interfere with the labors of his staff of eleven experts. They spent many hours in consultation among themselves and with the premier, not a small portion of the time being occupied with deliberation on security and disarmament.

Thousands See $50,000 Fire Raze Waukegan Plant

A spectacular fire in Waukegan last night attracted thousands of onlookers. The three story brick structure housing the Factory Supply company was destroyed, with damage estimated at $50,000. The building contained hundreds of tons of baled rags and the fire was believed to have started from spontaneous combustion. Several companies of firemen worked until late at night preventing the flames from spreading to adjoining buildings. Fireman Walter Franke's knee was broken by a falling brick.

BANK BANDIT AND BOY HOSTAGE ARE SLAIN IN BATTLE

Bodies Found After Gang Escapes.

Menomonie, Wis., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Two men were slain, a bank employé and a bandit, when robbers shot their way out of town after robbing the Kraft State bank of about $10,000 today. Another bank employé was shot and seriously wounded when the bandits refused to believe there was no more loot in the bank.

James Kraft, 19, an assistant cashier and son of W. F. Kraft, president of the bank, was kidnaped by the bandits in an attempt to protect them from the fire of Menomonie residents who were pursuing them. His body and that of one of the bandits were found beside a country road near Wheeler. They had been killed in the running battle between vigilantes and the escaping bandits.

W. R. Kraft, 22, also an assistant cashier and a son of the president, was shot in the back as he lay on the floor of the bank. His condition was said tonight to be serious.

Townspeople Periled.

All marks of identification had been ripped from the body of the dead robber. However, a tattoo mark on the left arm and finger prints are expected to furnish a clew.

The dead bandit wore a steel vest which had been punctured by a bullet but no wound could be found on the body corresponding to the hole in the vest. It was seen as the mark of a previous gun battle. A bullet wound over the right eye had caused death.

As the alarm was sounded and armed citizens started toward the bank, the bandit leader cursed and urged his men to hurry. All apeared to have taken drugs and the leader's nerves began to fray at the sound, witnesses said.

The robbers cleaned out the cages and the vault in a few minutes, but they were disappointed and evidently had expected more.

Shoots Assistant Cashier.

"That's all there is," the assistant cashier replied.

"The hell with you," the man said, and fired at Kraft. The bullet entered the banker's left shoulder and lodged in the ribs.

Meanwhile the vigilantes began to crowd in on the lookout and he opened fire with the submachine gun. James Kraft and Mrs. Alex Uchaeffer, an employé, were ordered up from the floor and forced in front of the three men to act as a shield as they left the bank. The woman was pushed aside as the men climbed into the auto, but young Kraft was made to accompany them.

Start Running Battle.

Winfield Kern, the owner of a restaurant two doors from the bank, heard the alarm. He ran for a rifle and began firing through the plate glass window of his place at the robbers. The machine gunner swung around at the restaurant, riddling its window and that of the Farmers' store next door.

The bandits then were under the fire of Edward Grudt, a clerk in a store, with a deer rifle. All the robbers returned Grudt's fire and 13 bullet holes were counted around the window after the fight was over.

As the car raced down the street and passed a filling station on the outskirts, Edwin Trinko fired five shots at it with a small calibre rifle. Whether Kraft was killed by the bullets of his fellow townsmen or shot in revenge by the bandits could not be determined.

EDISON WILL NOT BE ELIGIBLE FOR HALL OF FAME TILL 1960

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—In 1960, when 100 business and professional leaders vote on whether the bust of Thomas A. Edison shall be placed in the hall of fame, Robert Underwood Johnson, director of the hall, says he is sure the vote will be unanimous.

No one has been given the honor so far without a dissenting vote. The selection of George Washington by 96 of the 100 electors is the record.

Dr. Johnson explained today why the great inventor cannot be honored by the hall of fame for 29 years.

"We have decided it takes 25 years to judge a man's greatness properly. We vote only once every five years. That will make Mr. Edison's name eligible in 1960. It would be possible to break our rule, but it would open the way for trouble in the future."

There are only five inventors in the hall of fame so far: Joseph Henry, who gave the world the electro-magnet; Robert Fulton, who invented the steamboat; Samuel Morse, inventor of the telegraph; Eli Whitney, famed for his cotton gin, and Elias Howe, who lightened women's labors with the sewing machine.

Dr. Johnson and Edison were fellow telegraph operators in Indiana in the sixties. "We called him the terror of the line," Dr. Johnson said. "He was the despair of all the expert telegraphers, who had to break in repeatedly and ask him to go slower."

Dr. Johnson was also at Menlo Park when Mr. Edison was inventing his incandescent lamp and procured the first magazine article on the globe that was to alter the life of the world.

BISHOP CANNON GIVES UP WORK PENDING TRIAL

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, under indictment by the district of Columbia grand jury for alleged violation of the corrupt practices act, tonight asked that he be relieved "for the present" of his duties as bishop of the Brazilian and Belgian Congo conferences, adding that he had "not resigned from anything."

The bishop said he had "not resigned as a bishop," and had "not resigned as a chairman of the board of temperance and social service."

He issued a statement which, he said, was the only one he would make regarding his indictment and the indictment of Miss Ada L. Burroughs, which grew out of his operations in the 1928 presidential campaign against Alfred E. Smith, Democratic nominee. Miss Burroughs was treasurer for campaign funds used by the bishop.

Referring to his indictment, Bishop Cannon said: "I believe that no indictment would have been found had the Roman Catholic district attorney summoned the witnesses I gave him, just as he summoned other witnesses without asking the grand jury whether it desired to hear them."

TALKING CROW LEADS HIS FLOCK WITH COMMANDS

Mentone, Ind., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Mike, a pet crow which belonged to Isaac Miller for three years, today returned to the wilds to lead a flock of his own species with commands in the English language.

Mike, an unusually large crow, following capture was subjected to an operation on his tongue and was then taught to talk. In time his proficiency exceeded that of the average talking parrot.

"Beat it," and "let's go," and similar expressions heard far overhead are said to be attracting the attention of many farmers in the northern part of Kosciusko county. It is Mike at the head of a flock of fifty of his own kind.

RAILROADS ARE DENIED FREIGHT RATE INCREASE

products not otherwise specified, rosin, turpentine, refined petroleum oils, all other gasolines, residual oils [fuel road and petroleum], lubricating oils and greases, petroleum products, not otherwise specified, Portland or natural cement, common brick, brick not otherwise specified, building tile, common lime [quick or slacked], ice, fertilizers not otherwise specified.

On all other commodities including all less than carload freight, an increase of 2 cents per 100 pounds.

Provisos Under Plan.

The increases set forth in the foregoing are subject to the following provisos:

1. In no event shall the increase levied on any carload be in excess of 10 per cent of the carload charges which would be assessed in the absence of the increase.

2. In the case of less than carload freight no increase shall be assessed for hauls for which the applicable or corresponding class rates are assessed on a basis of not more than 175 miles and the increase for hauls over 175 miles and not more than 250 miles computed in like manner shall be 1 cent per 100 pounds.

3. Where rates are stated in schedules in dollars per car and the increase as shown above, is an amount per 100 pounds, the increase shall be $7.50 per car if such amount per 100 pounds is 1 cent, and $10 per car if such amount is 2 cents.

4. In the case of rates on petroleum products and on furniture, covered by the orders in No. 179000, parts 4, 4-A, and 5, they shall not, on and after the date when the rates covered by such respective orders become effective, exceed the maximum rates therein prescribed.

Chicago Terminal Rates Unchanged.

All switching charges may be increased 10 per cent, subject to the exception that in the case of the Chicago switching district [Illinois-Indiana] the charges, on and after the date when the rates covered by the order in No. 19610 become effective shall not exceed the maximum therein prescribed.

It is not intended to increase the proportions of joint through rates to or from points in foreign countries accruing for the transportation in such foreign countries; the proportions of such rates accruing within the United States may be increased to the extent herein approved for domestic rates.

The increases herein suggested may in like manner be applied to rates of the boat lines subject to the act.

No Pyramiding of Increase.

It is the intention to authorize but one increase on any particular shipment however the total rate is constructed or ascertained.

If the adoption of the different rates of increase herein suggested results in any violation of the aggregate of intermediates or long and short haul provision of section 4 [1] of the act, the carriers should take prompt steps to remove the violation or promptly make applications for relief.

It is contemplated that the increases herein set forth will be superimposed upon the rates now in effect whether established by order of the commission or the voluntary act of the carriers [including rates held under investigation and suspension orders] and also upon rates prescribed by outstanding orders of the commission not yet in effect when and as the rates therein prescribed become effective subject to the exceptions noted above.

The paragraph relating to the Chicago switching district has reference to the recent increase of switching charges in that district allowed by the commission. The temporary 10 per cent increase is not to exceed the maximum previously fixed. The commission today denied the petitions of shippers for a reopening of the Chicago switching case.

The commission calls attention to several rate advances on classes and commodities which it has authorized to go into effect in the near future and offers suggestions on other rate changes which would increase revenue. But these measures will not fully meet the needs of the present situation, the decision adds.

"The further step which we are now about to propose," says the commission, in discussing its proposals under the pooling plan, "is offered for the consideration of the railroad executives in the immediate emergency and only as a temporary measure of relief. It is motived by the thought that the distrust of railroad securities in rapidly gaining such elements of panic that a slight charge on the traffic of the industries of the country best able to stand it may justifiably be imposed, through freight rates, for the purpose of increasing confidence and avoiding developments which might further disturb an already tremendously shaken financial situation and to avoid impairment of an adequate system of transportation.

Tempers Burden to Industry.

"This plan is designed to avoid imposing burdens on industry which cannot reasonably be borne under present conditions, to limit the danger of diversion of traffic to other forms of transportation and to disturb business conditions as little as possible by preserving generally existing rate relations. Therefore certain commodities have been excluded from any increases and the increase has been tempered on others. The basis has been made as definite as possible in order to minimize disputes and as simple as possible in order that the increased rates may be made effective speedily."

The pooling plan was suggested by the carriers and the commission regards it with favor.

"The standing of railroad obligations and the consequent credit of the carriers, even those enjoying adequate earnings," says the decision, "will be improved if a plan can be devised which will give reasonable assurance that fixed interest obligations, not now in default, can be protected generally from default."

Told to Submit Apportionment.

The roads are given until Dec. 1 to submit a plan for apportioning among them the additional revenue from the increased rates for application to interest payments.

Reviewing the arguments for and against the blanket increase the commission said the average earnings of the railroads have been better than those of many private industries and not much less favorable than others. It is the slump in passenger rather than freight traffic that has proved a drain on net earnings.

The abrupt decline in railroad credit the commission found to be a very recent development. It pronounced the credit situation of the roads ominous, observing that it reflects a popular loss of confidence in rail securities which if prolonged will have serious results not only for the carriers but for the financial fabric of the country.

Explains Decline of Credit.

The decline in credit, the commission holds, is due to the business depression accentuated by the sudden awakening to the fact that the roads are faced with the competition of new forms of transportation and by the calamity howling of the carriers and security holders in their efforts to procure legislative restriction of buses and other competition and to obtain the 15 per cent rate increase.

"The final result," said the commission, "is that the situation now has in it the element of panic."

This pessimism the commission predicts will be dissipated as surely as was the optimism of 1928 but in the meantime the question is whether the 15 per cent increase is an effective, reasonable and lawful way to meet the situation.

Peril Through Competition.

The commission then went on to say that "there are elements of plain peril to the railroads in such an increase in freight rates as they propose."

"The chief dangers," said the commission, are [1] that at a time when transportation costs are of vital consequence to every industry it will stimulate new competitive forces already rapidly developing, [2] that it will alienate or impair the friendly feeling toward the railroads on the part of the people of the country which is essential to adequate legislation for their protection and the proper regulation of all forms of transportation in the public interest, and [3] that it will disturb business conditions and an already shell-shocked industry, and accelerate the tendency toward a localization of production."

"It should be borne in mind that traffic once lost to a competitive agency, is far more difficult to regain than it is to hold before it is lost. And it should also be noted that disturbance to industry would be caused, not only by the immediate increase in charges, but also by the slow process of inevitable readjustment to a lower level of rates which would be necessary in many instances and which the railroad executives themselves concede that they anticipate."

Industry, said the commission, is burdened as never before by the item of freight rates and is seeking every means of saving on transportation. That is an important reason for the increase of waterway competition for the roads of which the Panama canal furnishes an instance.

"The steamship lines which operate through that canal, although not subject to any effective public regulation, are not increasing their rates, but, on the contrary, have been reducing them as a result of intense competition," says the decision. "This waterway competition is now a controlling factor on most transcontinental traffic, not only between the coasts, but also reaching far inland. Pacific coast lumber, for instance, moves extensively by rail as far as the middle west from eastern ports, which it reached by boat through the Panama canal. As yet the boats have not been a controlling factor in the fruit and vegetable traffic, but certain of them, anticipating some increase in rail rates, are proposing to shippers that they will install refrigeration systems if transit is offered. This would be a menace to rail traffic if rates are increased.

Other Water Competition.

"Besides the Panama canal traffic there is important waterway competition along the Atlantic coast and gulf, on the great lakes, on the Mississippi and Ohio rivers, and on the Hudson river and New York barge canal. Very important movements on these waterways are of petroleum and its products, coal, newsprint, sulphur, and grain. Import traffic brought by water from foreign countries to our ports often menaces domestic movements, as in the case of wood pulp, petroleum, nonferrous metals, cement, coal, sugar, and iron ore."

Bus competition the commission regards as serious and underrated by the railroads. A blanket rate raise would divert traffic to this and other competing means of transportation and result in lessening railroad revenue, the commission thinks.

The commission concludes its decision with a discussion of the railroad future. It does not share the opinion that the railroad is doomed "in anything like the near future to go the way of the stage coach and canal." It looks for an improvement of rail credit soon.

Favors Modifying Recapture.

The commission says it will renew its recommendation to congress for modification of the recapture clause of the transportation act and for adoption of a more stable basis of rate regulation. It proposes federal and state regulation of waterways, buses, trucks and other competing means of transportation so as to impose upon them a fair share of the expense of construction and maintenance of canals and highways.

The railroads, says the commission, must readjust themselves to new conditions. It suggests that the falling off in passenger revenue can be met by a more extensive pooling of competitive train service by rival lines.

"On some lines," says the commission, "it may be necessary for the companies to retire from the passenger service entirely. On others it may be that better service with lighter trains at greater speed and at lower fares will revive patronage and reduce expense."

SPEAKS FOR SON

LADY BEATTY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Countess Beatty, wife of Admiral Lord Beatty and the former Ethel Marshall Field of Chicago, entered the British political fray today and for the first time in her life addressed an open air political meeting. She spoke from the rear of a large motor truck in the shopping center of Rye lane in behalf of her son, Viscount Borodale, a Conservative party candidate for a seat in the house of commons.

WALL STREET PONDERS EFFECT OF RATE RULING

Labor and Pooling Items Add to Confusion.

New York, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Wall street accepted the decision of the interstate commerce commission in the freight rate case with mingled feelings of chagrin, disappointment and confusion.

Authorities in railroad circles reserved decision as to the effect of the verdict, while presidents of the various large systems withheld comment, awaiting the study of the full text of the decision.

Advances by leading rail issues early in the day charged financial circles with expectancy of the imminent decision, and when the news came out on the tickers on the close of the New York stock exchange, varying interpretations of the announcement were current.

Many observers were inclined to interpret the verdict as a medium by which the credit position of the smaller roads would be strengthened. Others were firm in the belief that such a suggestion of pooling as the commission attached to its refusal would be met with dissension on the part of the carriers, and that the chances of the commission's plan becoming effective were practically void.

Wage Question Uppermost.

The question of wage cuts was uppermost in most minds, it being felt that this problem will now have to be met by immediate conferences between labor heads and representatives of the Association of Railroad Executives. A general slash through the ranks of railroad labor is now inevitable, it is believed, but messages from Washington and elsewhere said labor would fight any cuts.

Considerable importance will attach to the meeting of the railway executives in Atlantic City on Friday for their annual convention inasmuch as a definite pronouncement may be forthcoming from it.

It is expected the announcement of the commission's decision will be followed by a revelation by President Hoover of his plan whereby railroad credit will be relieved. Whether or not the President will ask for the establishment of a general revolving fund out of which forthcoming bond maturities of railroads in weak positions may be met is believed to depend on whether the roads will adopt the pooling suggestion of the interstate commerce commission. Should they do so it is felt that a revolving fund especially for bond maturities would not be necessary.

The question of pooling revenues received from the increase in rates met with some opposition from the larger and stronger roads. At one time pooling of any kind was against the law, but under the transportation act some forms of it were permitted. Thus railroads between Duluth and St. Paul agreed to eliminate duplication of passenger trains by each agreeing to run one train daily and contributing the proceeds therefrom to a common fund.

Tells of Labor's Position.

Sacramento, Cal., Oct. 20.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today organized labor would make serious objections if reductions of wages of railroad workers was made as a result of the failure of the roads to obtain a flat 15 per cent increase in freight rates.

Shorter working time and allocation of available work to as many workers as possible were urged by Green instead of wage cutting during the present economic depression. He declared lower wages would only decrease the buying power of labor and would injure, rather than benefit, business.

ROADS HERE STUDY EFFECT.

Railway executives last night declined to comment on the significance of the rate increases allowed by the Interstate Commerce commission before analysing the proposed schedules and determining their value as shown by haulings. Fred W. Sargent, president of the Milwaukee road, H. A. Scandrett of the North Western, and James E. Gorman of the Rock Island all said they had requested their rate experts to prepare an analysis of the commission's decision.

One executive stated informally that the proposed increases are obviously a small fraction of the blanket increase of 15 per cent sought by the carriers. It was pointed out, for example, that the cost of shipping a carload of coal from southern Illinois to Chicago is about $100 and that the proposed increase of $3 a car for carrying coal would be only 3 per cent. The cost of shipping citrus fruits to Chicago is about 90 cents a hundred, so that the increase of 1 cent a hundred would be less than 1 per cent. The increases according to carloads are expected to result in heavier loading, it was said.

WAGE ACT VOID; 13,000 TO GET HIGHWAY JOBS

High Court Ruling Frees $32,584,000 for Roads.

BY HAL FOUST.

Following a decision of the Illinois supreme court yesterday, holding the prevailing wage act unconstitutional, Director Cleaveland of the state department of public works announced last night that the state will begin at once the award of $32,584,000 in highway contracts to furnish employment to 13,000 men this winter.

DAVID MARK.

Civic organizations sponsoring the litigation hailed the decision as a victory for the taxpayers, declaring that nullification of the act will save millions of dollars in the cost of public improvements and that the lowered cost will increase the volume of construction and the number of men employed.

Issue Statement on Act.

A statement concerning the act was issued over the signatures of Clayton Mark, president of the Civic Federation of Chicago, and Graham Aldis, chairman of a joint committee on economy in public construction.

"The prevailing wage act," said the statement, "was put through the legislature by a combination of a small group of organized contractors and some of the leaders of organized labor, who, we believe, did not foresee the economic character of the legislation nor the bad effects on employment which have followed.

Pending Bids Canceled.

"The first result of the act was to cancel all bids pending on July 1. The second was further to delay the advertising for new contracts, due to dispute as to whether the 'prevailing rate' should be the union scale [regardless of whether the union scale was in general operation] or the rate of wages actually effective in a given community.

"The act represented an attempt to make the taxpayer pay more dearly for his requirements than would the private builder. It followed in principle a federal act which, unless the interpretation of the secretary of labor is definitely challenged, will add much to the cost of federal construction."

Delivers Court's Ruling.

The supreme court's ruling was announced from the bench by Chief Justice Stone in a suit brought by Attorney A. M. Fitzgerald in the name of a Springfield taxpayer and a suit brought by Attorney S. S. Du Bond supported by the Civic federation, the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Illinois Manufacturers association, the Illinois Agricultural association and the Motor Truck Owners association. The formal opinion of the court will be filed within a few days.

Chief Justice Stone said the basis for the decision would be contained in the formal opinion to be handed down within a few days. The ruling overruled Judge Briggle of the Sangamon county Circuit court, who held that the law was unconstitutional because it was class legislation, because it was an irregular repeal of the statute requiring contracts to be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder, and because the wage act was so vague that it could not be administered.

Ready to Let Jobs.

Gov. Emmerson, who signed the wage bill last spring, announced that the highway department was ready to advertise for $7,000,000 worth of road work at once and that the remaining $25,000,000 in the program would be awarded as rapidly as possible late this fall and this winter. Later spring, he added, the road work will employ 24,000 men. The governor spoke before a gathering in Lincoln, where the recently completed highways 120 and 121 were dedicated.

The decision of the Supreme court, releasing $32,000,000 in county road money as well as $32,000,000 in state highway funds, is expected to do much to relieve unemployment downstate this winter. Chicago, which pays 44 per cent of the states' road bill, has little hope of any material aid for its jobless unless Gov. Emmerson decides to support the proposed construction of the west side elevated highway, which could employ from 10,000 to 20,000 men this winter.

Calls Road Committee.

President Whealan of the Cook county board called a special meeting of the roads and bridges committee for tomorrow morning to revive this county's highway work, which has lagged during the prevailing wage litigation.

In the metropolitan area there are state contracts totaling $2,037,800 awarded under the provisions of the prevailing wage act. These contracts, it was said, are now null and void and the contractors will have to look to the legislature for pay for their work.

DELAYS EVANSTON WORK

The Supreme court decision on the prevailing rate of wage law yesterday delayed plans again for Evanston's ornamental lighting system, construction of which has been pending for six years.

Bids from six companies had already been received by the Evanston board of local improvements. The contracts were to be awarded today, but now they will be thrown out, according to Arthur W. Hanford, commissioner of public works. Mr. Hanford said that it would be a week or ten days before advertising would be made for a new set of bids.

After the announcement of the court's decision, the division of architecture in the state department of purchases and construction called for bids on Nov. 3 on eight construction projects for which the appropriations total $342,569. Among these are work at the Illinois Eye and Ear infirmary in Chicago, estimated at $180,000, and the flood light project for the Douglas monument in Chicago, estimated at $5,510.

Gang in Car Shoots Up Garage on South Side

Several shots were fired last night at the Hackel garage, 1948 East 71st place, shattering a large plate glass window. It was reported that the garage houses "Machine Gun Jack" McGurn's automobile and a possible motive was seen in this circumstance. The shots were fired from a speeding yellow roadster containing four men, according to witnesses. S. E. Hanson, manager of the garage, denied that McGurn's car is kept in the garage.

BOARD OF TRADE DELAYS HEARING OF DAVID WEISS

David D. Weiss, tailor-broker, who has been indicted as an alleged accomplice of Walter E. Wolf in Wolf's embezzlement of $3,666,939 in securities from the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company, gained a ten day respite yesterday in his trial before the board of governors of the Chicago Board of Trade for alleged unethical conduct. Weiss owns a membership on the board.

In presenting a petition to Superior Judge Michael L. McKinley for a writ prohibiting the governors of the board of trade from continuing the trial, Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson, counsel for Weiss, averred he had information that the governors, under pressure from the bank, were prepared to expel Weiss forthwith. Such action, the lawyer argued, was in contravention of the regular policy of the board in dealing with indicted members and would tend to prejudice Weiss in his criminal trial.

Without ruling on the petition, Judge McKinley said, in view of the crowded calendar in his court, that he would continue the hearing to Oct. 30. A representative of Winston, Strawn and Shaw, counsel for the board, thereupon communicated with the governors of the board. They agreed to hold the trial in abeyance until Judge McKinley rules on the petition.

Evanston Resident Killed by Auto Fumes in Garage

Ira Shearer, 38 years old, 3215 Hartwell avenue, Evanston, was asphyxiated last night by motor exhaust fumes in the garage at the rear of his home. His wife went to the garage to call him to dinner and found him dead. Her husband had been in ill health for four months, she told the Evanston police.

TEACHERS FIND 3 MEALS CURE "PROBLEM BOYS"

Hunger Turns Many Into Delinquents.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1324 East 63d street, and 4753 West Madison street.

A teacher at the Moseley school, 2248 South Michigan avenue, so expressed her belief yesterday that free school lunches may avert a future crop of delinquents. The school is one dealing with "problem" boys exclusively, the majority of them colored, whose home conditions figure largely in their behavior difficulties. Persistent hunger is at the root of many of their troubles, the teacher added.

The Case of William.

There was William M——, the hungriest looking lad one would encounter in many a day, whose case illustrates the instructor's theory. William is a boy of 15 whose 128 pounds are so thinly distributed over his six feet of height that he resembles a trolley pole. He was a deserted child, living on the scant charity of a stepmother who had been in desperate need herself, when he was taken to the Moseley school.

His record was deplorable, and his conduct, as one of the teachers expressed it, "was that of a wild thing." He seemed like a tremendous problem, especially in view of his size. One of the first things that happened to William was that he was given a ten cent lunch ticket regularly each day.

Yesterday, as he sat in the office agreeably answering questions, William didn't look like a problem, nor did he act like one. He has not missed a day of school in many a week, and his manner is as docile as one could wish. The interest and kindliness of the teachers, coupled with the regular meal, has given him the ambition to earn his own way and to make good.

Why School Needs Funds.

"That's one reason why we think this school needs funds for free lunches as badly as any in Chicago," explained the instructors. "It undoubtedly will have a direct effect on our attendance, and when the boys are in school they can't get into mischief. Usually when one doesn't show up we know where to call. Two were absent this morning. We telephoned until we found them—one in the Juvenile Detention home for trying to steal a truck and the other in the county jail, rounded up with a bunch of older boys who were staging a robbery."

Out of eighty boys whose homes were investigated by the visiting teachers it was found that fifty-one came from broken homes, and that of that number twenty-four mothers were working. These boys were left without supervision, and so drifted naturally into trouble.

Average Incomes $5.86 Weekly.

Average weekly incomes in these homes were found to be $5.86, although there were virtually always two or three other children and one parent to be supported out of that meager amount. This is cited by Harold H. Postel, principal, as one of the main reasons why the Moseley school is in existence.

"Hunger makes children ill natured and unhappy," one of the young women commented, "and when they get regular, nourishing food their conduct improves in proportion."

More Funds Contributed.

Funds to supply the Moseley and more than 65 other Chicago schools with the free lunches the pupils cannot afford are being raised through the Hungry School Children's Fund opened by this newspaper. Contributions received yesterday were:

Golf Ball Breaks Auto Windshield, Hits Cop

Policeman August Fruster of the Maywood force went out yesterday afternoon to play golf. But before he could smack a ball, a ball smacked him. As he was approaching the Harlem course at Roosevelt road and Circle avenue the pellet came over the fence, broke the windshield of his car and struck him on the nose. Instead of going to the tee he went to the Forest Park police and had them put his experience in the accident book.

LAUD JEFFERSON AS CHAMPION OF FREE PRESS

Monticello Speakers Say He Unshackled Mind.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Monticello, Va., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—It was not Jefferson the President, or Jefferson the secretary of state and ambassador to France, or even Jefferson, author of the Declaration of Independence, who was memorialized here today with the red brick, ivy clad walls, and the tall white columns of Monticello as a sunlit background.

Rather, it was Thomas Jefferson, champion of personal liberty and defender of the right of all men to speak and to print freely, who was remembered fittingly by representatives of the class for whom he fought most vigorously.

For today's exercises, culminating in the dedication of Jefferson's own study as a perpetual shrine to the freedom of the press, were sponsored by the freedom of the press committee of the Jefferson Memorial Foundation, consisting of more than 200 editors and heads of schools of journalism from throughout the United States.

Message Is Broadcast.

And the message that was broadcast from the stately west portico of Jefferson's old home to the gathering on the lawn below and over the radio to the country at large was a reminder that the liberties of speech and action which modern Americans enjoy have been bought and maintained only by zealous struggle and constant vigilance.

It was largely to celebrate the victorious conclusion of the most recent great battle for the freedom of the press that today's ceremonies were conducted.

In law books the battle is listed as Near vs. the State of Minnesota. It was the case of a Minneapolis editor whose paper was suppressed under the notorious Minnesota "gag law." THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE espoused the editor's cause. Last June 1 Chief Justice Hughes handed down the decision of the nation's highest court. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, as chairman of the freedom of the press committee, told today how the fight had been pushed because "it was feared that a method of curbing the press having been found in one state would be copied in other states whenever the corruption and effrontery of the politicians in power reached a sufficient debasement."

Quotes Chief Justice Hughes.

Col. McCormick in concluding his address quoted as follows from the opinion of Chief Justice Hughes in holding the "gag law" unconstitutional:

"The administration of government has become more complex, the opportunities for malfeasance and corruption have multiplied, crime has grown to most serious proportions and the danger of its protection by unfaithful officials and of the impairment of the fundamental security of life and property by criminal alliances and official neglect emphasize the primary need of a vigilant and courageous press, especially in great cities. The fact that the liberty of the press may be abused by miscreant purveyors of scandal does not make less necessary the immunity of the press from previous restraint in dealing with official misconduct."

Warns of Attacks on Liberty.

From the hilltop looking gorgeously down upon the panorama of the Piedmont plateau like messages were sent out by other speakers on the program.

Claude G. Bowers, newspaper man, author, and keynoter of the 1928 Democratic convention, declared:

"In these days when liberty and democracy are the objects of a mass attack from every quarter of the globe, and when miners and sappers are at work on the foundations of American institutions, it is proper that we should assemble upon this hilltop to rededicate ourselves to the preservation of American ideals.

"Thomas Jefferson was a militant champion of the rights and liberties of man. He went forth many times in the shining armor of his genius in defense of the liberty of the press. He knew that tryanny thrives on darkness and that liberty lives on light. He held that any government that fears publicity is unfit to live: and that any policy or system that cannot stand the arbitrament of debate is better dead.

"It was because of his insistence upon the liberty of the press that he was forced to fight some of the most bitter battles of his life. Too few Americans realize that the freedom of the press did not come to America without a struggle. Jefferson was one of the few conspicuous leaders of his time who had firm faith in the ultimate wisdom of the people."

"When we speak of the 'liberty of the press,'" said James M. Beck, representative from Pennsylvania, former solicitor general and noted constitutional authority, "we mean the liberty of thought, the inalienable right of every man, not merely to think, but within reasonable limits to express his thought in any medium he chooses.

Long Struggle for Freedom.

"To attain that freedom has been the supreme struggle of mankind from the dawn of history, and the significance of this occasion lies in the fact that the battle is an unending one and must be fought by every generation."

Representative Beck recalled how Jefferson had termed the press "the tocsin of the nation," and he repeated some of Jefferson's famous phrases on the subject—how, writing to Elbridge Gerry in 1799, Jefferson said:

"I am for freedom of the press and against all violations of the constitution to silence by force and not by reason the complaints or criticisms, just or unjust, of our citizens against the conduct of their agents."

Again, how he wrote to President Washington:

"No government ought to be without censors: And where the press is free, no one ever will."

Free Press Secures All.

And how towards the end of his life, he wrote to the Marquis De La-Fayette:

"The only security of all is in a free press. The force of public opinion cannot be resisted when permitted freely to be expressed. The agitation it produces must be submitted to. It is necessary to keep the waters pure.

Radio and movies also come within the field of freedom of expression, said Mr. Beck, and like the press, they must fight against attempts at restraint.

Discussing the 5 to 4 decision in the Near case, he pointed out how the change of one vote might have swept aside the protection of the first amendment to the constitution.

Spirit of Pragmatism.

"The spirit of pragmatism is always at war with the spirit of constitutionalism, pragmatism deals with the ponderables of a problem and measures the value of any action by its immediate, practical consequences. The true spirit of constitutionalism asserts that there are underlying principles of government, the great verities of liberty, which must be vindicated, even though the exercise of given liberties will at times result in evil or injustice. In other words, the eternal principle must never be sacrificed to present considerations of expediency.

"In this spirit of pragmatism, many of us who claim for ourselves the liberty of thought are quite intolerant of its exercise by people whom we regard as evil in purpose and act. We recognize the right of freedom of thought among the well disposed, but we deny it to a radical agitator, whose views are abhorrent to us, especially where the agitator is a man of evil character, and yet history has repeatedly shown us that the greatest battles for liberty have been won by men whose private lives were a just affront to their fellow citizens.

"There is another and more pernicious form of such pragmatism. It is the idea that, while most men have a right to express their thoughts, yet that certain thoughts, held only by a minority, are so inimical to the public welfare that they must be suppressed. This is a very dangerous doctrine.

Right to Suppress Crimes.

"Like all fundamental rights, the state, if it is to preserve itself, must have the right to stop the perpetration of crimes, or the dissemination of immoral ideas, or the overthrow of our government by violence, but, with these exceptions, the state has no power to put the human mind in shackles. This was the philosophy of Mr. Jefferson, and it may be well to remember his statement that 'the natural progress of things is for liberty to yield and government to gain ground.'"

Other speakers were Stuart G. Gibboney, president of the memorial foundation, who, in introducing Col. McCormick, lauded his and THE TRIBUNE's part in the Near case, and Dr. George J. Ryan, president of the New York City board of education and chairman of the patriots' pledge of faith committee.

A feature of the exercises was the landing of an autogyro, piloted by James G. Ray, on a lawn of the estate, bringing from Washington Patriot's Pledge No. 1, signed by President Hoover.

Those who sign the pledge promise their belief in and their support of the basic ideals of liberty enunciated in the Declaration of Independence, and they promise to contribute toward the preservation of Monticello as a national shrine.

Jefferson's Writing Desk.

The room that was dedicated was Jefferson's study—designed, like the whole of Monticello, by himself. His "Lazy Susan" writing table was there, a table so constructed that it might be pulled across the legs of a lounger in the chaise longue, which also has been preserved. And there, too, was the writing desk on its high shelf, which Jefferson must have used when he went to the opposite extreme and wrote standing up.

At one side of the room was the famous bed, constructed in the broad doorway, so that Jefferson might get out on one side and be in his study, or on the other and be in his dressing room.

The "Monticello Guard," in colonial uniform, and women in the full, flowered silks of the day of powdered hair, harked back to Jefferson's own period. Mayors from Virginia cities from which have come presidents were in attendance or had sent representatives.

WITNESSES ACCUSE 2 SUBURBAN COPS OF BEATING 4 MEN

Thirteen witnesses yesterday accused Police Chief Otto Miller and Policeman Martin Wagner of Willow Springs of beating four persons and then accepting a $100 bribe to dismiss charges against them. Magistrate Martin H. McGrath of Oak Park continued the hearing until Nov. 2 to allow further testimony.

The four persons who say they were beaten by the policemen are Otto Reinmuth, 10514 South Maplewood avenue, president of the Mid West Motor Service company, 4915 South Campbell avenue; his father-in-law, Water Barnasek, 4922 South Campbell avenue; Frank Sklanar, 3210 South Campbell avenue, a disabled war veteran recently discharged from a hospital, and Fred McDougall, 2605 West 61st street.

They testified that when an automobile ran into a ditch near Willow Springs last Sept. 27, Chief Miller insisted upon calling a towing truck despite protests of the owners. A fight followed and the four men were arrested. At the station, according to testimony, the men were beaten up one by one, two of Sklanar's ribs being broken. Reinmuth then was forced to pay $100 to Wagner, he testified.

JURY IN MAIL FRAUD CASE, DEADLOCKED 5 DAYS, IS STILL OUT

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 20.—(AP)—A long deadlock remained unbroken today as the jury in the trial of W. B. Foshay and six others on mail fraud charges completed its fifth day of deliberation without having reported a verdict.

Shut away from all contacts, except for one another and guardian bailiffs, members of the panel were showing signs of extreme weariness as they trudged from the conference room where they spent the day fringed with stacks of documentary evidence in the case.

MAYOR WALKER'S AID DEFIES WRIT IN GRAFT PROBE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20.—Papers were served this afternoon on Russell T. Sherwood, financial secretary to Mayor Walker, by Sidney Handler who, with Phillip Haberman, arrived here in a plane, subpoenaing him to appear before the legislative committee now investigating graft in New York City.

Sherwood received the papers, but refused to accept service on the plea that he is now residing beyond the jurisdiction of the New York Supreme court which issued the summons for him to appear in New York to give evidence concerning his duties.

EDGE SAILS HOME TODAY; MAY GET MORROW'S POST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 20.—Ambassador Walter E. Edge will sail for America tomorrow, ostensibly for a vacation, but actually, according to rumors, to take up his old post in the senate, and possibly as a Republican candidate for the vice presidency next year.

Persistent reports from New Jersey declare that Ambassador Edge is slated to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dwight W. Morrow. Because the appointment is only for a year's duration, it is reported that he is seeking the nomination for vice president in return for giving up his post in Paris.

Wilmette Resident Shot in a Duel with Burglar

Joseph A. Klein Jr. was recovering yesterday from a wound received two nights ago in a duel with a burglar in his home at 2003 Chestnut street, Wilmette. Klein was locked in a closet by the burglar. A shotgun was in the closet and Klein fired through the door at the burglar. The latter, irritated, fired back through the door, wounding Klein in the hip. The burglar escaped with about $3. Klein did not report the burglary at the time but admitted the encounter last night.

Mrs. Ferdinand A. Bunte

Still a bride from all appearances, despite her five years of housekeeping, Mrs. Bunte plans to keep her handsome French house always lovely as new—by using the same cleansing method that has kept her trousseau beautiful.

"These rough-painted walls—why, the merest wiping off with American Family Flakes keeps them spotless," says Mrs. Bunte. "My painter tells me that American Family's purity protects their soft color and luster—puts off redecorating!

"The same may be said about my woodwork, my colored tile and porcelains." Her kitchen—all green and cream-colored porcelain—is the kind guests simply can't stay out of. "Dishwashing is almost fun in this long green sink, especially with the fluffy suds of American Family Flakes."

And what exquisite table settings! For luncheons, priceless Venetian lace runners and doilies on gleaming mahogany, set with flowery Dresden china...for dinners, heavily embroidered banquet cloth with Baroma lace inserts, green and gold Bavarian china, brilliant cut-crystal from Sweden—all wedding treasures. And still as beautiful as the day they were bought.

"You see, I found most women with fine things used only American Family Flakes. So I started using it, too. And what a revelation!"

Delay is sheer extravagance. Begin saving today by using the pure double-suds of American Family Flakes. Each package means longer wear to your clothes...more efficient work in cleaning...more leisure hours. Greater economy, too, because you get double the suds!

Avoid thin hair!

..get rid of DANDRUFF

When loose dandruff gets the upper hand, hair begins to fall out. Baldness often follows.

A quick, pleasant treatment for a dandruff condition is full strength Listerine, used systematically several days. You simply douse it on the scalp full strength and massage vigorously, using a little castor or olive oil when scalp or hair is excessively dry. Keep this treatment up for several days. You will be amazed at the quick improvement.

If infection is present on the surface of the skin, Listerine attacks it. A powerful germicide, it kills bacteria in 15 seconds, the fastest killing time accurately recorded by science.

Listerine helps to dissolve oily crusts and quickly removes them, as well as horny scales. And Listerine quickly relieves that burning, itching sensation. It soothes inflamed or irritated areas of the scalp.

If scalp is excessively dry, a little olive oil may be used in connection with the Listerine shampoo, or independent of it. The oil aids in dissolving crusts and scales and keeps hair from drying out. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Missouri, U. S. A.

DOOLITTLE LINKS THREE AMERICAN CAPITALS BY AIR

Ottawa to Washington to Mexico City in 12 Hrs.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 20. — (AP) — Twelve hours and 24 minutes out of Ottawa, Canada, Maj. James H. Doolittle brought his biplane down on lofty Valbuena field at 3:16 p. m. today, completing a three capital flight which he described as "uninteresting."

The flyer calculated he had made the trip in 12 hours, 24 minutes, but an unofficial log of his flight indicated he had taken a few minutes longer, his elapsed time actually being 12 hours, 36 minutes.

"The biggest thrill I got out of this flight was landing this baby powerhouse at this altitude and speed," he said.

Held Up by Fog.

Maj. Doolittle, who left Ottawa at 4:40 a. m. [eastern standard time], and stopped en route at Washington, D. C.; Birmingham, Ala., and Corpus Christi, Tex., said he would have reached Mexico City 40 minutes earlier had he not been held up at Washington by ground fog.

"When I came in over Boiling field I hit a rather heavy ground fog and lost 40 minutes there in trying to get down to my supplies," he said. "Finally I had to go to another field and make special arrangements. Otherwise I would have been here in eleven and one-half hours."

Otherwise, he said, the weather was fine and he was happy "to set a new mark by making an international flight in remarkable time."

Asks for a Drink.

He was tired, he said, and a little "groggy" because an exhaust pipe had leaked, letting some carbon monoxide fumes into the plane. Because of the speed, he added, it was a hard trip. Although he had eaten nothing since last night, he refused food. "No, thanks," he said. "Three fingers of brandy will do fine."

About 500 persons, including many Americans, Mexican pilots and a representative of President Rubio, met the flyer upon his arrival.

"I had a slight quartering tailwind until I hit Washington and then had easy headwinds the rest of the way," he said. "I saw no storms."

"It's pretty hot here," he added, as he wiped perspiration from his face. He was scarcely able to hear for the first ten minutes.

"I am sorry that I am a little dirty," he apologized as several women presented themselves.

Speaks Spanish to Officials.

Col. Fierro, chief of the Mexican civil air force, who flew from New York to Mexico City without stop last year in 14 and one-half hours, was one of the first to congratulate him. They spoke alternately in Spanish and English.

Doolittle bettered by 1? hours, 22 minutes the time of Col. Lindbergh for a Washington to Mexico City flight when he covered the distance today in 9 hours, 48 minutes, elapsed time. Col. Lindbergh took 27 hours 10 minutes for a nonstop flight from Bolling Field, Washington, to Mexico City in 1927.

Flying Conditions on Chicago Routes

Following are the flying conditions along the various air routes out of Chicago as given out by the United States aerological station at the Chicago airport at 3 a. m.:

Chicago-Kansas City—Clear, dense ground fog eastern half; ceiling unlimited; visibility, zero to 6 miles; wind, south, 8 miles an hour.

Chicago-Omaha—Clear, dense fog eastern half; ceiling unlimited; visibility, zero to 8 miles; wind, south, 9 miles an hour.

Chicago airport—Clear, light ground fog; ceiling unlimited; visibility, 1½ miles; calm; temperature, 52; dew point, 49; barometer, 30.13.

Air lines in the United States carried 9,000 more passengers in August than in July, about 500,000 more miles were flown and 60,000 more pounds of express were carried, the department of commerce reports. In July, 23 lines carried 47,756 passengers, while in August 24 lines carried 56,517 passengers. The August express totaled 133,296 pounds and 4,041,143 miles were flown. The August passenger total is 20,000 more than in the average month in the last half of 1930.

During September Universal division of American Airways carried 33,000 pounds of mail and 1,000 revenue passengers. More than 200,000 miles were flown. The division operates from Chicago to St. Louis, New Orleans, and Atlanta.

Violations of federal air commerce regulations totaled 438 in the third quarter of this year, an increase of 128 over the second quarter. Fines totaling $370 were assessed and collected, and $747 was collected on previous penalties. Of the violations, 103 were low flying; 75, acrobatics; 27, unlicensed pilots flying licensed planes; 13, flying at night without navigation lights; and 3, flying without identification numbers. There were 202 miscellaneous offenses.

Col. Halsey Dunwoody, vice president of American Airways of St. Louis, yesterday told a luncheon meeting of the Prosperity club at the Chicago Athletic club that twenty-four hour air travel between New York and Los Angeles, through Chicago, will be in effect within two years.

Col. Dunwoody, who was in charge of supplies for the air service of the A. E. F., made a prediction as to what cities of 1981 will be like.

"In the center I believe there will be a great circle three miles in diameter, surrounded by a broad boulevard, bordered by beautiful parks," he said. "Across the circle, joining at its center, will extend runways 300 feet wide and 12,000 feet long. On one side of the circle a gigantic white terminal, long and low, and around the perimeter of the circle deep hangars will extend."

HOOVER HEARS FIRST PROTEST ON NAVAL CUTS

Philadelphia Group Calls on Him.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.] — President Hoover returned from Yorktown early today and immediately plunged into a series of conferences, first with members of his cabinet and later with several delegations who called at the White House to bring the President's attention to a number of subjects, including emergency relief measures, taxation, the navy economy program, and methods of aiding the farmer.

Among the delegations was one from Philadelphia, which registered a protest against the postponement of construction of the $3,000,000 naval hospital at that point. The four congressmen who discussed the matter with the President said that they felt work on the hospital should go ahead regardless of what other cuts were made in the naval establishment. The President told the group that no definite decision had been reached on the hospital project.

Reed and Sales Tax.

Another caller was Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], who discussed the general situation as it looked to him with the approach of the next congress. Upon leaving the executive's private office Senator Reed said that he would support a bill for a sales tax in the next session to meet the growing deficit in the federal treasury. He said that any sales tax adopted by the coming congress probably would be limited to exclude foodstuffs.

The Pennsylvania senator said that a sales tax, by whatever name it may be called, would receive much criticism, but added that the tax base must be broadened to include more taxable sources. Even though income taxes on the wealthy classes are raised, he said, no reasonable increase would produce sufficient additional revenue to meet the emergency requirements.

Credit for Farmers Asked.

Another group which included Senators Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], and Lynn J. Frazier [Rep., N. D.] asked White House aid in relieving the farm land credit situation in the western and northwestern farm regions. Later the two senators said that the President had promised to aid the federal farm banks by recommending an increase in capitalization.

They said they told the President that the present capital of the twelve land banks is tied up in farm land that cannot be sold, and hence the farmers in this time of stress are not able to avail themselves of the credit facilities which congress intended when it created this particular branch of the treasury system.

Rome C. Stephenson of South Bend, Ind., former president of the American Bankers' association, told the President the plan for a $500,000,000 national credit pool, launched as part of his program for general economic relief, had met a favorable reception in the central west. He said that depositors who had drawn out their money in anticipation of runs or bank failures were redepositing.

3 RECOVERING FROM GAS.

Victor Pucci, 6 years old, and Olympia Pucci, 10 years old, children of Mrs. Alvira Pucci, 37 years old, who died Monday from gas escaping from an unlighted water heater, and their cousin, Angeline Ritto, 13 years old, were reported as recovering from the effects of the fumes yesterday.

'MISUNDERSTANDING,' SAYS WHITE HOUSE OF ANNAPOLIS 'GREETING'

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—White House officials today explained that no slight had been intended when President Hoover sped through Annapolis last Saturday without stopping to accept the greetings of that city at the hands of Mayor Walter Quenstedt. The White House termed the whole affair a "misunderstanding" and indicated that President Hoover regretted the incident.

The "misunderstanding" came while the President was en route to board the battleship Arkansas for the trip to Yorktown. The mayor, at the head of a caravan of Annapolis officials, had stationed himself at the highway on the outskirts of the city expecting the presidential party to slow down and pick him up, the whole cavalcade then to go on through the city. Instead, the White House party sped past.

EXTRADITION CASE OF FACTOR NEARS DECISION

The extradition hearing of John [Jake the Barber] Factor before United States Commissioner Walker moved swiftly toward a conclusion yesterday. Attorney Franklin R. Overmyer, counsel for the British government, concluded the opening statement of his final argument with an attack on all the main points raised in defense of Factor by his attorneys.

Factor is wanted in England for trial on charges of swindling British investors out of approximately $7,000,000 in African mining stock deals.

At the close of yesterday's session, defense counsel indicated that they would take only two or three days for final arguments. This would place Factor's fate in the hands of Commissioner Walker by Saturday at the latest.

REVEALS BANK'S I. O. U. LOANS TO TERRY DRUGGAN

Judge Quizzes President of Closed Institution.

and promoter, now said to be connected with the so-called Cook county fair being staged at the Stadium.

A representative of State's Attorney Swanson, who has promised prosecutions of bank officials found lax in protecting depositors, was present in Judge Feinberg's court during the questioning of Dressel. He said the state's attorney's staff was investigating the Dressel bank as well as many others.

Bank Started 10 Years Ago.

Dressel, who lives at 1115 Parkside avenue, started the West Central State bank about ten years ago, and according to Attorney Fox, the site of the bank is at a place where Dressel's father formerly operated a saloon. Dressel is now in the real estate business at 203 South Dearborn street.

In asking the court to conduct a search for assets, Mr. Fox announced that he believed the bank officers had sanctioned many transactions which were conducted under assumed names or in secrecy. Dressel was then placed on the witness stand, and asked if he had made a bank loan of $16,000 to Terry Druggan which was unsecured.

"Yes, the bank made such a loan," Dressel said.

"Did Druggan also get personal loans from you?" asked Fox.

Dressel replied that he had loaned $12,000 personally to Druggan, and the attorney brought out the fact that this loan was secured by a mortgage on property owned by Druggan at 7084 Greenview avenue.

"In other words," interpolated Judge Feinberg, "you loaned the bank depositors' money to Druggan without security, and on your own money you got an apartment building of Druggan's, is that right?"

"Well, yes," Dressel said. "Terry insisted that he wanted to give me that security."

Attorney Fox stated that Druggan owed the bank $7,000 in other deals, also without having posted any security, and that none of the bank's notes had been paid.

"Do you think this was good banking, Mr. Dressel?" asked Judge Feinberg.

Says Terry Will Make Good.

"O, I've been president of other banks," Dressel replied. "I'll make it good myself if necessary. But Druggan has plenty of assets, and he'll make it good."

"That's just what we want to find out," the court said. "What are Druggan's assets?"

"Well, he has the Standard Brewery, Campbell and Roosevelt; Stege's Brewery, Ashland and 15th; the Mutual Brewery, and the Gambrinus Brewery, Albany and Fillmore. The government has some kind of lien on the Mutual Brewery in connection with its claim for income tax payments from Terry."

Q.—How can Druggan operate the brewery when the government has a lien on it? A.—I don't know. I walked by there two weeks ago and it was going then.

Judge Questions Banker.

Judge Feinberg then resumed the questioning of Dressel as follows:

Q.—When did you last see Druggan? A.—Two weeks ago, in the Foreman Bank building.

Q.—Where does he live? A.—The Seneca hotel. [Inquiry at the Seneca hotel showed that Druggan had lived there a short time under an assumed name, but had been identified and ordered to move.]

Q.—Is he operating the Mutual Brewery now? A.—Yes.

Q.—How do you know? A.—I saw it going full blast. Nobody but Terry would operate it.

Q.—Where's Frankie Lake? [Druggan's beer partner]. A.—In Detroit, operating the Consumers Public Service company, an ice company.

THE COURT—It's nice to know Frankie's back in public service again. I suppose he's troubled with frozen assets also.

On Willie Druggan's Debts.

The questioning then went to the debts of Willie Druggan. Dressel admitted that Willie had borrowed $3,500 from the bank on unsecured notes, on two notes signed within two months of the day the bank was forced to close.

THE COURT—Is there any possibility of getting that back? A.—Willie's as good as gold.

Q.—It is easy for you to say that, but where's the gold? A.—Well, Willie has 12 Mack trucks in his teaming company at Harrison and Kedzie.

Q.—You knew you were dealing with police characters, did you? A.—Yes.

Q.—Where did you keep a record of the personal loans you made to Terry. A.—I didn't keep no record. I gave him money when he wanted it, and when it amounted to $5,000 he gave me a note for it. Then he borrowed some more and finally it got up to $12,500 and he gave me a note for the whole amount and the mortgage on his building in Rogers Park.

Balks Attorney's Objection.

Attorney Peter Sissman, brought to court by Dressel, began to protest at this point of the questioning, but Judge Feinberg cut him short.

"This witness is not entitled to any counsel," the judge said. "I want no irregular interference."

The judge then questioned Dressel on the loans made to Attorney Murray, counsel for Druggan. Dressel admitted Murray had borrowed $6,500 on three notes, none of them secured.

Q.—(By the Court)—Did Murray ever furnish you with a financial statement? A.—I think he did.

Q.—Would it surprise you to know the receiver has found no such statement? A.—Yes.

Q.—Why didn't you press for payment of Murray's notes? A.—Well, he had $5,000 in the bank under another name.

Q.—O, he did? What name? A.—Toms Morrow.

Q.—Then he still owes $1,500? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is he still a practicing attorney? A.—Yes.

PROSECUTOR QUIZZES POLICEMEN IN HUNT FOR JOB GRAFT RING

A number of policemen yesterday were promised immunity if they would testify that they had paid money to obtain positions as patrolmen, sergeants or lieutenants. Assistant State's Attorney Harry P. Gabel, who interviewed the policemen, told them they would not be prosecuted and could keep their jobs.

W. J. McGINNESS.

However, none of the policemen would agree to give evidence, it was reported. At the end of the day's investigation State's Attorney Swanson reported that the only evidence indicating that jobs and promotions were sold in the police and fire departments came from Wilbur J. McGinness, an attorney, former stenographer in the employ of the civil service commission.

McGinness remained a voluntary prisoner and was in custody at a hotel last night.

The syndicate, which is alleged to have sold civil service jobs for prices ranging from $1,000 to $4,000 had operated over a period of six years, the prosecutors said.

$4,500 Loan Is Revealed.

E. T. Evans, described by the witness as running the Southern club in the Morrison hotel, borrowed $4,500 on her personal note just before the bank closed, the judge was informed. Dressel was asked what kind of club it was and Dressel said "Judge Williams" was one of the members, that it was a social club.

A. J. Harms, one of the directors of the bank, borrowed large sums from the bank without security, it was shown, and Attorney Fox charged that Harms was a "dummy director." The attorney charged that other "dummy directors" had been placed on the board, and that one of them was a janitor.

Asks About Loans to Bourke.

Then the judge inquired into the loans made to Tom Bourke, the political promoter. Two loans, aggregating $1,899, were made to Bourke by the bank in September, 1929, both without security, it was said.

Q. [by the court]—Where can I find this Bourke? A.—He lives in Beverly Hills.

Q.—Well, the receiver has been trying to serve these judgments on him for a long time. Can you bring him in? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Where can we subpoena Bourke? A.—I heard he was promoter of the Glenview Race track. He's also got something to do with this Cook county fair at the Stadium. He drives around in a Lincoln car with a chauffeur.

Pressed as to why he had loaned money to Bourke without security, Dressel asserted that Bourke had brought in a large deposit from some race track, and for this favor had been granted the loan.

Q.—You had a very choice line of customers, didn't you? A.—Yes, I guess every bank has some.

Q.—Did you think you were justified in loaning the depositors' money to a man like Bourke? A.—Yes.

Describes Robbery of Bank.

Dressel described a robbery of the bank, which insurance officials refused to pay because of suspicious circumstances. The bank lost $12,000 in the robbery, and Attorney Fox asserted that the insurance company refused to pay because it was shown that the bank officials had permitted funds of the bank to be accessible during a period of some repairing at the bank, when a sizable hole in the bank wall was covered only with canvas.

At the end of the hearing Judge Feinberg ordered Dressel to return this morning and to bring with him for questioning H. H. Shoena, former cashier of the bank; Attorney Murray; Tom Bourke, and Georgia O'Shaughnessy, a niece of Dressel, who is said to hold in her name the mortgage on Druggan's property put up as security for the personal loan.

Dressel has long been associated in ventures with Terry Druggan. When the government put the gangster's properties up for sale to satisfy the income tax liens, Dressel bid them in. He also was believed to have acted for Druggan at another time when he bought a controlling interest in the Arlington race track, an interest which was later acquired by wealthy sportsmen interested in keeping the track on an honest basis.

IDENTIFY TWO AS ROBBERS.

Anthony Sandusky, 32 years old, and his wife, Beatrice, 25 years old, 43 West Huron street, identified as robbers, were held to the grand jury by Judge Leon Edelman in the South Chicago court yesterday.

Ex-Convict Gets Year for Teaching Boy to Steal

Essie Kendricks, 1307 South Morgan street, a Negro ex-convict, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell and fined $200 yesterday by Municipal Judge Joseph A. Graber, on the charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 15 year old boy. The boy, Stanley Wosny, 15 years old, testified that he left his home at 3111 Milwaukee avenue and that Kendricks taught him to steal.

Motor Official Kidnaped; Holdup Gang Gets $1,500

A gang of gunmen robbed the Motor Transportation company at 1201 West Lake street of $1,500 early yesterday after holding Edwin M. Berg, an officer of the concern, prisoner for three hours. Berg was kidnaped as he drove his automobile into the garage at the rear of his home at 3050 Franklin boulevard. The bandits drove around with Berg, gagged and tied on the back floor of his car, until all the drivers of the company had gone.

U. S. CALLS ON JAPAN AND CHINA TO KEEP PEACE

Urges Them to Respect Kellogg Pact.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—Identical notes calling the attention of the governments of Japan and China to their obligations under the Kellogg anti-war treaty were dispatched to Tokio and Nanking by the United States today. This action was taken in response to the suggestion of the five league of nations powers which last Saturday took similar action following a session of the league council at Geneva. Thus far Great Britain, France, Italy, Spain, Germany, and Norway, in addition to the United States, have sent communications to the Asiatic governments recalling to them their promises to refrain from warfare.

The move to mobilize world public opinion against war in the orient through the use of the Kellogg-Briand treaty, which pledges the signatory nations to resort to pacific means in the settlement of international disputes, has been favored by the American state department since hostilities began in Manchuria.

Text of Notes Kept Secret.

The text of the notes was not made public. The state department simply stated that on the receipt of an official statement from Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, outlining the action taken by the league powers, this government had sent identical notes to China and Japan along the same general line of the notes sent by the other powers.

Reports from Tokio indicating a new Manchurian independence move excited little interest in state department circles, where it was remarked that such movements represent normal developments during periods of unrest. Confidence was expressed that it would lead to no serious results.

CHINA PLEADS FOR ACTION

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 21 [Wednesday.]—One o'clock this morning arrived with the Chinese pleading desperately for action by the league of nations to halt the Japanese aggression in Manchuria, with the league's council still helplessly marking time, and with the Japanese still awaiting a note of instructions from Tokio, in which Kenkichi Yoshizawa, the Japanese delegate, whose standing plea is that "I can't do anything without instructions from home," will be told what policy to follow in regard to Aristide Briand's latest proposal for a settlement of the dispute. The exact terms of Briand's proposal have not been made public.

Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese delegate, made a desperate appeal today to Briand to do something, and do it quick.

Briand Is Stumped.

Briand, however, was unable to act in face of Yoshizawa's refusal to negotiate without instructions. All he was able to say was:

"Every day lost at the negotiations here is a day gained for peace."

A member of the Chinese delegation snorted contemptuously when told what Briand had said.

"As far as I am concerned, it is contrary to the truth," he said.

The Japanese delegate, meanwhile, announced that all was well. He declared he expected "good news" from Tokio. He said the Japanese were withdrawing from Manchuria as fast as Chinese authorities "who act reasonably and responsibly," can be set up.

Independence Move Grows.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Movements under Chinese, Mongol, and Manchurian sponsorship to separate the vast area of Manchuria from the rest of China were reported today developing spontaneously in various parts of the three eastern provinces.

Exact information, however, still was lacking. The few dispatches reaching here were from Japanese sources, since the Chinese no longer control the Manchurian communications systems. Chinese officials continued to allege and Japanese spokesmen to deny that the movements for Manchurian autonomy are encouraged by the Japanese government.

Concerning the cities of Mukden and Kirin there is no argument. There the Japanese have openly set up municipal governments to replace those which collapsed when Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang was forced out.

Adventurers Lead Move.

But elsewhere the situation is extremely confused. The Japanese admit the presence in Manchuria of Japanese adventurers and volunteer empire builders. They say it is possible some of these are encouraging ambitious Chinese leaders to establish régimes hostile to Chang, but deny any of these movements have the support of the Tokio government.

The latest independence movement is that of Lin In-Ching, who was a military leader in Manchuria when Chang was a boy of 10 or 12, and who through the years since the fall of the empire has been an unvarying enemy of Chang and his late father, Chang Tso-Lin.

Gen. Ling, Japanese press dispatches say, is rallying an army already numbering 60,000 men at Panshanhsien, a little town on the Yinkow railway between Newchwang and Kowpangtze. He calls it the "northeastern self-defense army" and apparently is planning to march against Chinchow, where the remnants of Chang's once finely trained army are holding together what is left of his civil and military government. Chang himself and most of his assistants are refugees in Peiping.

GIRL'S HOME WON PROPOSAL, HE SAYS, BUT CHANGES MIND

New York, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Maurice Rothschild of Chicago, who is defending a $250,000 suit by Vera McCord, former actress, for breach of promise, testified today before Supreme Court Justice Valente and a jury that he proposed marriage to her in 1923 because he was impressed by the homelike atmosphere in Miss McCord's home at Great Neck, L. I. He was disillusioned, he said, after attending the Equity ball that year when she had frequent quarrels with her brother.

Mr. Rothschild, who is 64, and has been a widower since 1921, is president of the American-Canadian Properties corporation of Chicago. He said his income last year was only $27,000.

Continuing her testimony, Miss McCord said she felt "outside influences" had brought about Rothschild's refusal to keep his promise to wed her.

WOMAN BEATEN AND RAPED BY A YOUTHFUL MORON

Mrs. Philip Myer, 52 years old, 8245 Ardmore avenue, was seized by a youthful moron yesterday afternoon near Indian road and the Milwaukee railroad tracks, struck on the head when she resisted, dragged into a box car and raped.

Leaving her in a semi-conscious condition, the attacker fled. Mrs. Myer, after she had recovered slightly, made her way home. The outrage was reported to the Irving Park police and Capt. Ira McDowell sent out all available men with orders to shoot and kill the man if he is found.

The attack occurred near the Forest Glen station of the Milwaukee road. Nearby Mrs. Agnes Lavander, 35 years old, was murdered on Feb. 18, 1930. The spot is a lonely one, a part of the Cook county forest preserve lying along the railroad.

ADMITS PROMISE TO WED, BUT ONLY TO SAVE HER LIFE

Says Ex-Priest Wanted Only Her Money.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Betty Randolph peeped out of her furs on the witness stand today and murmured to the court the workings of her thrice won heart—and why it failed to throb in the case of Bartholomew J. Chudacek, erstwhile Czecho-Slovakian clergyman.

BETTY RANDOLPH.

Chudacek is asking $50,000 because, he alleges, the former Follies beauty let him stand twice at the altar with a bouquet for a bride, but no bride.

She did promise to marry him once, she admitted.

"He came to my apartment smelling of liquor and tried to throw me out of the window, so I promised to marry him the next day to save my life," she said.

Chudacek's wooing, which began with a letter of "I saw your lovely picture in the paper," came right after her third divorce, Miss Randolph said, and she was lonely and nervous—and he seemed sincere.

"I thought if you can't trust a minister, who can you trust?" she asked.

Always the Hospitable.

"Did you ever offer him a drink?" her lawyer asked.

"I always offer drinks," she came back and added: "I was born in the south."

Later she said she was born in Baltimore and was 32 years old. She changed her name from Elizabeth Bailey to Betty Randolph when she entered the Follies.

Miss Randolph was a bit perturbed by Chudacek's assertion that he interested himself in her and resigned his pastorate at Johnstown, N. Y., because "she wanted to be saved from the night life."

She said he wanted her money. Her income is purported to be $62,000 a year.

"He was always asking me for money," she said. "Once he asked me for $100,000 and said he wouldn't marry me unless I gave it to him."

Denies "Fortune Hunter."

"When he asked for the $100,000," she related, "he said he was poor and didn't have any church any more and he wanted it in case anything happened to me so he could write checks without embarrassment. It was about that time I realized he didn't really love me."

Prior to Miss Randolph's testimony, Chudacek enumerated the flowers he bought for her and the general expense of courting her, and denied the defense allegation that he was a "religious gigolo, male flirt of Johnstown and fortune hunter."

Two letters to him from Miss Randolph were introduced. The first was penned just prior to their first meeting. It said:

"Dear Reverend Chudacek,—

"Your letter was very fascinating. I shall be happy to hear from you any time before noon. My telephone is Rhinelander 8270. Sincerely,

"Betty Randolph."

The next one called him "Dear Revvie," it was dated July 14, 1928, and said:

"Very thoughtful your sending me those gorgeous roses. You are so kind. I shall never forget you. Very sincerely,

"Betty Randolph."

U. S. ORDERS TAX LIENS ON REALTY OF AL CAPONE

Claims May Reach a Million Total.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Steps to collect income taxes owed the government by Al Capone, Chicago gangster, were taken by the treasury today. Collectors of internal revenue at Chicago and Jacksonville, Fla., were directed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to place liens on all property owned by the racketeer as a preliminary move toward the collection of taxes ranging from $200,000 to a million dollars.

The action by the treasury department followed swiftly upon the conviction of the Chicago gang leader last Saturday on charges of income tax evasion.

Among the properties against which a federal lien will be put is the palatial Capone winter home in Palm Island, Fla.

But It's Still His Home.

Officials said, however, that if Capone appeals his case and he is freed on bond until the final decision there will be no interference with his going to Florida and spending the winter on his southern property. The lien will restrain Capone from disposing of the estate.

Just how much tax Capone actually owes is a question of discussion. The government is certain that it can establish a claim of $215,000.

Many investigators of the internal revenue bureau are still on the case, headed by Elmer E. Irey, chief of the special intelligence section, in an effort to unearth more sources of income and thus to pin additional taxes on Capone.

Government After Million.

Some officials claim that Capone owes the government more than $1,000,000 in income taxes and every effort will be made to prove that amount is due. It was believed that property valued at more than that sum will be levied on within the next few days.

Just what properties would go under lien in Chicago and vicinity was not known here until official reports are received from the internal revenue collectors.

PLANS TRIAL OF TORRIO.

While federal prosecutors yesterday were preparing to withstand arguments for a motion in arrest of judgment on behalf of Al Capone on Friday, internal revenue agents interested themselves in Johnny Torrio, Capone's predecessor, who was brought here from Long Island as a witness and not used.

Torrio called at the federal building with the hope of being released from his subpoena, but he was told to return. This order was reported to have come from Frank Wilson, special agent of the intelligence unit. The income tax investigation against Torrio is said to be well under way, the agents having gone as far as Honolulu, where Torrio spent some time, tracing the former gang chief's financial trials.

Torrio has filed returns, both in New York and in Florida, and if criminal action is taken against him the indictment would be voted at one of those places, the agents said.

The prosecutors are hopeful that Capone will be sentenced by Judge James H. Wilkerson on Friday and they will oppose the granting of a writ of supersedeas to the gangster pending his appeal. Capone could apply to the Circuit Court of Appeals for a supersedeas, but this court usually follows the judge below in such matters.

Jury Chosen for Trial of Calabrese Murder Case

Selection of a jury qualified for the death penalty was completed yesterday in Judge Desort's court for the trial of Thomas Calabrese, 47 years old, who shot and killed James J. Hill, 54 years old, 5426 West Congress street. Calabrese charged that Hill had attacked his 18 year old daughter, Rose.

JUDGE GRANTS LENIENCY TO 22 CANAL LAWYERS

Final Report Will Go to Supreme Court Today.

Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor yesterday made public the final draft of his findings as commissioner of the Illinois Supreme court in the disciplinary proceedings brought by the Chicago Bar association against 55 lawyers who were members of the sanitary district law department during the "whoopee days."

JUDGE TAYLOR.

The recommendation that nine lawyers be permanently disbarred still stands, but 22 lawyers were granted a modification of the lesser penalties recommended in the preliminary report released last July 8. Of those William Scott Stewart, well known criminal lawyer, and Eugene L. McGarry, former assistant state's attorney, won complete discharges. Both had been recommended for suspension from the practice of law for one year in the previous report.

Leniency for 20 Others.

Three lawyers were granted reductions in suspension recommendations from two years to one year, seventeen others, who had been listed among those to receive one year suspensions, escaped in the final report with censure. The classification of censure was not included in the preliminary report. The final report is to be presented to the Supreme court today.

The nine lawyers recommended for disbarment are:

Frank J. Brewbaker,	Klaefus Jurgeleit,
Jacob M. Laventhal,	Stephen A. Maisto,
George E. Mason,	Harry Mantell,
James C. O'Brien,	Adam E. Patterson,
Joseph Paulissen,

The lawyers recommended for two years' suspension number eight, as against eleven in the first report. They are:

Arthur Donaghue,	Daniel Gallery,
John C. Garriott Jr.,	Thomas F. Grant,
Henry H. Jacobs,	Maclay Hoyne,
Nathan A. Lawrence,	Medard A. Kunz,

The lawyers recommended for one year's suspension number eleven, as against twenty-seven in the first report. They are:

Al F. Gorman,	Philip A. Lozowick,
Bernard J. Mahoney,	Harry J. Berman,
David S. Cheerow,	Mark G. McNamara,
G. Edwin Mitchell,	Victor I. Ohrenstein,
Joseph A. Kolb,	Carl H. Lundquist,
Wm. S. Newburgse,

Robert H. Eberle,	Eugene M. Hinz,
John S. Hall,	Edward P. Lozak,
Meyer D. Kaufman,	James J. McDermott,
Sidney Lyon,	John J. Dillon,
Ivor L. Smith,	John F. Higgins,
Roy J. Egan,	Arthur F. Manning,
John R. Horan,	Leo V. Reeder,
Abraham L. Miasner,	Augustus L. Williams,
John M. Beverly,

The lawyers recommended for clearance number nine, as against seven in the first report. They are:

Eugene L. McGarry,	Wm. Scott Stewart,
Hector A. Brouillet,	Charles F. Brown,
Samuel J. Graff,	A. Paul Hollab,
John H. King,	John M. Lowery,
John R. McCabe,

Judge Taylor recommended that the case of Edward H. Luebeck, the 55th lawyer, be sent back to the Supreme court for further directions.

Case Begun Two Years Ago.

The bar association presented its petition for disciplinary action to the Supreme court two years ago. The court appointed Judge Taylor as commissioner to hear charges that the lawyers countenanced or profited from padded pay rolls. The judge opened his hearings on Jan. 13 and delivered the preliminary report six months later.

The case is expected to establish for the first time in legal history the ethical duty of attorneys in public office to their governmental clients. On this point the judge stands by his original opinion, that an attorney for a public body owes even a higher duty than that he owes an individual client, since the lawyer for a governmental body must safeguard public welfare.

Changes Made in Report.

On presenting the draft of his original recommendations Judge Taylor set time for arguments against his findings. These were heard for two weeks late in September and early this month. The changes in the draft resulted from the arguments attorneys made against the original findings.

In recommending clearance for Attorney Stewart, who received $6,000 on the sanitary district pay roll, Judge Taylor said:

"If his services were fairly worth more than he got, he testified, the charge in the information that he did not do his duty would not be sufficiently proved. Although in the mind of the commissioner strong suspicion arises that the respondent accepted and sanctioned his employment as a regular assistant attorney, the commissioner does not feel after further consideration of the evidence that proof is quite sufficient to measure up to the rigorous requirements of the law."

McGarry Gets Clearance.

In recommending the clearance of Attorney McGarry Judge Taylor held that additional evidence failed to show in fulfillment of legal requirements that McGarry was derelict in his duty. McGarry received $4,000 from the district.

In the cases of Al F. Gorman, former city clerk; Bernard J. Mahoney and Philip A. Lozowick, the judge held the original recommendation of suspension for two years to be "too severe" and reduced the recommendation to one year's suspension after objections had been presented in their behalf.

The censures in each case were explained as being recommended after reconsideration of the evidence which led Judge Taylor to believe the one year suspensions against the lawyers to be too severe. In each case the judge explained his change.

Among those who failed to win clemency the more conspicuous are former State's Attorney Maclay Hoyne, chief of the sanitary district law department from 1926 to 1928, and James C. O'Brien, former assistant state's attorney. In both cases Judge Taylor overruled objections, maintaining the punishment recommended in the draft to be just.

Report to Be Filed Today.

The report, 200,000 words in length, is to be filed with the clerk of the Supreme court this morning. At the same time Attorney W. R. Matheny, representing the bar association, is to present a series of motions suggesting a form of procedure because the action is unique in legal annals.

The Supreme court is expected to hear oral arguments from the 55 attorneys or their representatives and from Attorney Matheny about Dec. 1. The hearing may last 20 days, after which the court will take Judge Taylor's report, the oral evidence and the final recommendations of Attorney Matheny under advisement. The court's decision is expected at the end of the February term.

On the final action of the court rests a similar action against downstate lawyers who were on the sanitary district pay roll. The Illinois State Bar association, which has been investigating the conduct of these lawyers, is awaiting final action on the Chicago lawyers before making public a course of action.

Wilmette Home Wrecked by Explosive, Says Chief

Police Chief Henry Bratigan of Wilmette said yesterday he was convinced that two charges of nitroglycerin had been responsible for the blasts, followed by fire, which caused $35,000 damage Monday night to the home of Nunzio Russo, at 925 Sheridan road, in the suburb. Russo is the head of a macaroni company at 466 West Chicago avenue. He and his family left Wilmette Saturday for a visit in Minneapolis. Chief Bratigan said he could learn no reason for the blast.

Are they as good as when the ruffles came down to the ankles?

GOOD?... You bet they are! Maybe the girls are even better. Anyhow, cigarettes are a whole lot better. No doubt about that.

They used to be made by hand—
Now it's machines; no hand but yours ever touches them.

They used to be packed in expensive, highfalutin' cardboard boxes—
Now the quality is in the cigarettes.

The U. S. Revenue Tax used to be a penny a package of twenty—
Now it's six cents a package of twenty.

Tobacco used to be dried by air—
Now Liggett & Myers alone has thirty-five drying machines of the latest type, with a daily capacity of over 2,000,000 pounds—and over four miles of warehouses for tobacco storage.

BETTER—they're miles better! Everything used in the manufacture of Chesterfield cigarettes is the best that money can buy or that Science knows about.

CHESTERFIELD TOBACCOS—both Turkish and Domestic—are mild and ripe, the best that money can buy.

AND THE WAY Chesterfield tobaccos are blended and cross-blended is like making a new and better-tasting kind of tobacco, with greater smoothness, more mildness and a more pleasing aroma—a fragrance and flavor not to be found in any other cigarette.

CHESTERFIELD gives you the benefit of all the world knows about the production of better cigarettes. Nobody smokes a better cigarette than Chesterfield.

Nothing less than a six can give you built-in smoothness

CHEVROLET

The whole question was settled long ago—as to how many cylinders it takes in a motor car engine to give satisfactory smoothness. Science definitely established the fact that at least six are necessary. Engineers confirmed this by repeated test and experiment. Manufacturers soon took the cylinder question so completely for granted that, one after another, they changed over to the building of sixes and other multi-cylinder cars exclusively.

So today, the public accepts the multi-cylinder engine in the same way that it accepts 4-wheel brakes, parallel-mounted springs and every other principle of proved and acknowledged superiority. Everybody knows that nothing less than a six can give built-in smoothness.

This general acceptance of the multi-cylinder idea has had a great deal to do with the fact that the Chevrolet Six, month after month, during 1931, has been the largest selling automobile. For Chevrolet, though one of the lowest priced cars in the market, has a 50-horsepower six-cylinder valve-in-head engine. And once you get behind the wheel of a Chevrolet, you will know in a minute what a big difference built-in smoothness really makes.

When you step on the starter, the power flows quietly, steadily and smoothly, even when the engine is idling. Open the throttle, sweep to higher and higher speeds, and the power stays quiet, steady and smooth. No matter what you do, or under what condition you do it—creep along, travel fast, throttle down, climb hills—the response you get is a steady, smooth response. Gone is all objectionable vibration.

In driving a six, you can't help but feel what this built-in smoothness means in the long run! Free from the constant friction and wear of vibration, not only the motor itself but the whole car lasts longer. There is actually less need for repair.

Today, this six-cylinder smoothness and dependability are within reach of every new car buyer. For Chevrolet has produced a quality car, powered it with a firmly mounted six-cylinder motor—engineered it to run at less expense for gas, oil and upkeep than any other car—and priced it right down among the very lowest-priced cars in the market.

Consider these facts when choosing your next automobile; and remember—nothing less than a six can give built-in smoothness.

ROAD POLICIES IN ILLINOIS.

The other day THE TRIBUNE reprinted an editorial from the Danville Commercial-News in which an appeal was made for a forty foot road from Danville to Chicago. It was a significant editorial because it indicated that at last the more progressive of downstate communities are coming to realise the importance to them of the radial roads from Chicago.

Chicago motorists and their spokesmen have been demanding additional road appropriations for the metropolitan area for many years with indifferent success because downstate representatives wanted their pet projects advanced. Downstate had its way with the result that there are magnificent pavements carrying next to no traffic throughout rural Illinois while the metropolitan area and the trade routes leading to it have been neglected. When Chicago's spokesmen said the neglect was at least as costly to downstate motorists and business men as it was to Chicagoans, the argument was discounted as special pleading. It did not occur to the downstaters that they had frequent occasion to visit Chicago and send their goods here to market; and they overlooked, as well, the fact that Chicago motorists cannot spend their money outside the metropolitan zone if they can't get outside of it.

Perhaps it will not take quite so long for downstate to become aware of its interest in the construction of an elevated highway westward through Chicago. A candid and unprejudiced examination of the facts will reveal that nowhere else in Illinois can the money which the superhighway will cost be spent to nearly as great advantage for the state as a whole.

REPUBLICANS IN WISCONSIN.

Wisconsin, which claims the birthplace of the Republican party, has seen its child come upon strange days. It doubts whether it has raised up a child or a stepchild. It hears the princes of its dynastic family publicly opposing the principles of Republicanism and denouncing its leaders and rewards them with the two greatest offices in its gifts.

It has reached a point where those professing the beliefs of the Republican party are important only to give the winners some one to push around.

Distinguishing themselves as stalwart Republicans as against the La Follette or successful Republicans, they have distinguished themselves for little else. Even with the national party whose principles they profess and whose candidates they support, the report is they are regarded as weak sisters who can't agree on their postmasters.

The election just concluded for the selection of a congressman to succeed the late Henry Allen Cooper in the First congressional district, regarded as stanchly conservative, testifies to the superior generalship of the radicals, who emerged with the victory, although the conservatives, distributing their votes in the primary among at least three candidates, polled in the aggregate 2,500 more votes.

Political analysts, looking for excuses rather than reasons, attributed this to a variety of things, but the fact remained that 13,760 progressives voting for one candidate won with him against 16,320 stalwarts distributing their votes among three.

Thomas R. Amlie, a former organizer of the Nonpartisan league of unhappy memory, was elected to congress on fewer than 15,000 votes in a district which cast nearly 70,000 in the Republican primary a year ago.

While the stalwarts were disagreeing on a candidate, the La Follettes, Senator Bob and Gov. Phil, in addition to United States Senator Blaine, were out in the district whooping it up for votes.

They didn't talk much about the candidate and didn't talk much about beer, in which the district was really interested. They found fault with the Hoover administration and discoursed a good deal about prosperity, the presumption being that the election of Mr. Amlie would set the wheels agoing. After that it was in the bag.

There is talk in Milwaukee that the national Republican committee, looking toward Mr. Hoover's nomination in 1932, wants to open state headquarters in Wisconsin at once, but it is not satisfied with the state organization and will not act until some past obligations are cleared up.

If the stalwarts can do no better elsewhere than they have in the First district, hope for the rejuvenation of the Republican party in Wisconsin lies in the shock of a few Democratic victories. Nothing short of it will awaken them, and out of tribulation a leader may develop who can return the party to the standing in the state to which its numbers and traditions entitle it.

Progressives have party discipline. They don't believe in it for the Republican party, but they believe in it for themselves and win by it.

GOVERNMENT AND SICK NATIONS.

Soviet dumping of goods has been scored off as sabotage of international economy. Soviet dumping of ideas has had more effect. The initiative genius of occidental statesmanship has done more than may be apparent to borrow the substance while refusing the clothing of the socialistic soviets. That shows in the staggers in which the supposedly great nations of the world are tottering down hill.

The little cells of Reds in these countries, the United States included, have not been responsible for it. The governments show great apprehension of the rhetoricians and plotters who attempt the infiltration of the masses with the doctrines of Lenin and the works of Stalin. These governments have not put any guard on themselves, but with an imitativeness which must make the commissars grin they undertake the destruction of their own principles by grafting on the parasitic growths of communism.

The results have been [1] paralysis of the private initiative which is not intended to coexist with the socialist state and which could not, even if it were not to be exterminated by edict; [2] the strangulation of the use of private property by excessive taxation designed to throw activity under bureaucratic control, to furnish public works of a magnitude not needed by public service and to make punitive levies on productive wealth and absorb it into wasteful political action; [3] the fatty degeneration of government itself so that it becomes incapable of the functions needed to carry on the essential national service and keep the nation as a nation above the water.

The common sense of Americans tells them that the socialistic soviets of Russia cannot succeed in conditions of their own creating and control. Time works for the human elements temporarily in subjection to dictatorship, and these elements, even among Russians, are more persistent and durable than the rule imposed on them. What, then, will common sense say of the grafting of communistic ideas upon institutions entirely unprepared to receive such modifications? The parasites cannot live, but they may nearly destroy the organism upon which they have been fastened.

Socialistic schemes are adopted by infatuated governments incapable of operating under them and given to people whose training has been hostile to them and whose instincts reject them. The processes of life thus thrown out of gear have taken their revenge by breaking down. Government has put its heavy hand on private industry, taking from it first the freedom to seek profit and stability and then the returns which its enterprise may give it in spite of the restrictions imposed on it. Industry thus weakened by government drains upon its revenue and checks upon its means of getting revenue has gone sick. Its strength is gone. Its confidence is gone. It is bewildered and frightened, unable to sustain the injuries already done it and apprehensive of the injuries it will yet receive.

This is the illness which has laid prosperous countries prostrate and the proposal is to cure the patient by making the disease worse.

WE TAKE ON THE BALKANS.

And now we are told that our chief of staff, Gen. MacArthur, has been discharging a diplomatic mission in Jugo-Slavia. What we are doing in the Balkan trap will puzzle most Americans. They will be informed that the distinguished head of the American army was engaged in trying to console the government at Belgrade for the loss of ready cash imposed by the moratorium.

Thus the sword is turned into the plowshare and the spear into the pruning hook. Our Mars labors in the vineyard of European politics. Whether the grapes of wrath are stored remains to be learned in due time. Meanwhile this little unregarded event, which the modesty of our state department has refused to celebrate, will remind the American people of the beneficent expansion of our altruistic statesmanship. They have not suspected they were marching into the cockpit of Europe, but they are well on their way. We have lately watched our secretary of state in his perambulations among the European capitals, from Rome to Berlin. His soft footfalls are known in every chancellery in Europe, here a plan for Sig. Grandi, there a word to the wise for Bruening, an invitation for Laval, a nod of approval from Lossiemouth. But the European net is wide and even the most tireless of diplomats cannot reach all its knots. So Gen. MacArthur is borrowed to invade Belgrade. Whether the choice as emissary of our army chief will have a special significance for the Serbs we can not know. Whether indeed it has for us we may learn in due time.

Certainly the mission of the head of the American army to a Balkan power is a curious enterprise of American diplomacy under its present direction. Secret diplomacy, castigated by the statesman from whom our President seems to have derived most of his diplomatic inspirations, is blooming strangely at Washington today.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Sun.]

EUROPE, Oct. 12.—The strange case of Mrs. Ida Wood of New York, whose hoard of about $1,000,000 in currency has been discovered, interests all the chancelleries of this continent. It is generally agreed that Europe will continue to drift toward ruin unless it receives at least one-half of Mrs. Wood's cash. Mr. Herrmann Dupres-Jones, who speaks with authority on all financial matters, informed your correspondent today that the European powers at first considered a direct demand on Mrs. Wood for the money, but later decided, in view of the old lady's strong will, that it would be easier to deal through the regular diplomatic channels.

The European claim is based on the soundest reasoning. Apparently Mrs. Wood did not invest in Liberty bonds during the war. Therefore she made none of the sacrifices which the American war bond buyers endured when they reduced the war debts due from Europe anywhere from 25 to 75 per cent, paying the difference in income taxes. Now, in view of the report that the war debts owed to the United States are again to be readjusted [downward, of course], the best minds of Europe believe that it would be a great injustice if Mrs. Wood were permitted to escape. Yet they do not wish to treat her more severely than other Americans are treated.

From another high source it was learned that Europe will not accept the musty old bank bills of which the Wood treasure consists. "The payment must be in gold," this statesman said, "and surely there will be no objection to that in view of the fact that we are letting her off so lightly." Our informant added, as he stepped into his car on the way to a week-end of golf and shooting, "Europe must be saved!"

ARE ALUMINUM PRODUCTS POISONOUS?

THE evidence accumulates that cooking in aluminum vessels is not a dangerous practice. Of course, the wild statements as to eating foods thus cooked had no basis whatever, but they did have the earmarks of propaganda inspired by somebody. The wild-eyed foolishness had one good effect. It was so expensively and so industriously pushed that it reached a great many people and thus, indirectly, caused several research laboratories to undertake investigations.

Since so little is known about the cause of cancer, scientific research on that angle of the question could not be expected to get far. There were other charges that could be inquired into with due regard to scientific requirements. These have been covered and the evidence is conclusive.

Whenever food is cooked in any kind of a metal utensil some of the metal goes into solution. This is true of aluminum utensils as well as those made of iron, copper, and brass. The amount of aluminum that goes into solution in the food is far below any dose which could possibly do any harm.

The indirect confirmation which has piled in an abundance of facts relates to the use of alum carbonate in baking powder. De Tourtelette and Raak did experimental work with this preparation of alum, which proved to them that it was harmless from the practical standpoint. They found that aluminum salts pass through the digestive tract without being absorbed.

This is essentially true of most of the heavy metals. They do not irritate the wall of the digestive tube, nor are they absorbed by it. This is best known as to iron. To get a grain of iron absorbed when it is given internally it is necessary to give Blaud's pills by the hundred and tincture of iron by the pint.

People who drink iron spring waters know that they void iron, as the black sulphide and other salts, and they must stick to the job of drinking to get any amount of iron into the blood. Those who take lime preparations in efforts to increase the lime in the blood know another illustration.

The second point made by these investigators was that aluminum in any practical quantities is not poisonous, nor is it detrimental to any bodily function. The amount that could be gotten into the tissues was always much below the level where harm began.

YOU WERE BORN WITH IT.

Miss E. S. writes: 1. The doctor tells me I have gall bladder. Is that very serious?

2. What can I do to cure myself of it?

REPLY.

You quit listening too quick. Everybody has a gall bladder except those who have lost theirs by operation. Your doctor probably told you the name of some gall bladder disease. Ask him again, and write it down. Since the answers to your questions depend on the disease, ask them of your physician.

CUBAN ITCH.

B. W. B. writes:

1. What is Cuban itch?
2. How does it differ from rabbit itch?
3. What are the remedies for these pestiferous afflictions?
4. Do you answer correspondents by mail for postage or fee?

REPLY.

1. Soon after the Cuban war a mild form of smallpox prevailed. It was camouflaged under the name "Cuban itch," and was supposed to have come from Cuba. The Cubans said they never heard of Cuban itch. Since then no one has heard of it. Now you dig it up.
2. Smallpox was once known as Cuban itch. Scabies, or seven year itch, is sometimes called itch. You will have to invent something for rabbit itch. I am helpless.
3. Smallpox calls for medical care. Scabies calls for a good sulphur ointment properly used. I pass on rabbit itch.
4. Yes, if stamped addressed envelope is enclosed for reply. There is no fee.

NOT IF VALIDLY DEEDED.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father died leaving no will, but his property was left to his son and daughter of a second marriage. This property has been in the name of these children for the last five years. Can the two sons of a previous marriage have any claim on this property? B. G.

If the property had been validly deeded to these children, then you could not take it away from them, but the fact that you still call it "his" property tends to indicate that additional facts are involved, which it might be advisable to discuss with an attorney in a personal interview.

ILLINOIS STATE EXAMINATIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—Is there a state civil service examination for stenographers given in Chicago, or is it necessary to go to Springfield to take it? When will the next examination be held? F. V. A.

All of the assembled civil service examinations given by this office are given in Chicago. We should suggest that you watch for our examination notices as they are published and make application for any position whose requirements you can meet, giving the exact title of the position as stated in the printed notice.

COLLECTING DAMAGES.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been obliged to lay out a sum of money for repairs to my car due to being hit from the rear while at a standstill due to a forced stop. The bill for repairs, after being paid by me, was mailed to the party who damaged my car and he in turn mailed it to his insurance company. The agent offered me two-thirds of the repair bill in settlement and made the statement that they never paid 100 per cent on claims and especially as I was partly to blame for having stopped too quickly. 1. What can I do? 2. Is there any government agency I can appeal to besides the courts? 3. It seems to me an insurance company should not be allowed to exist following a policy of business such as this. H. C. D.

1. It seems probable if the amount involved is such that it would be to your advantage to accept a settlement.
2. No.
3. The courts are the recognized government agency for determining whether a liability exists. Until the liability of the insurance company is determined by a court, it can hardly be said that they are to blame for refusing to pay.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

The World Is Indeed Growing Better. And How!

The little gay jockey, painted in all sorts of brilliant colors, and standing in the front yard of an antique shop on the near north side, is reaching out his hand as though he had a message. Of course he hasn't a message, he's just iron, and he is holding out his hand because in it is a ring, and in days long gone by the jockey was a hitching post and people used to tie their nags to the ring. Now that people don't cavort around on hosses any more, except when they chase anise seed bags or ride in the park without their hats to cure their baldness, the iron jockey is not needed any more and has become an antique.

But, dear friends, the lesson we glean from the dear little jockey standing so boldly out in front of the antique store is that the world has grown better; oh, so very much better. It's such a sweet, honest world now compared to what it used to be in the days gone by. For time was when that jockey wouldn't stand outdoors day and night for more than a couple of hours, or maybe not ten minutes. In those days college fraternities seemed possessed to capture every wooden Indian that stood in front of a cigar store or every iron jockey used as a hitching post.

In those degenerate days as you entered a fraternity house you were invariably greeted either by a stately Pocahontas, holding out a box of wooden cigars, or a haughty Hiawatha with his arm upraised and grasping a cruel tomahawk, which he seemed to be about to smack right straight into your dome. And none of those wonderful statues were bought and paid for. A fraternity wouldn't have had such a thing on the place. They had to be souvenired, usually at dead of night. It got so that the cigar stores didn't dare keep any Indians out in front of their shops, and so after a while they dropped them as signs altogether.

That's why the gay little jockey standing in front of the antique store on the north side is proof of the fact the world is growing better and much honester. All around the neighborhood where the gay little jockey stands are any number of fraternity houses. Yet none of the merry collegians have taken the little jockey for a ride. But in the olden days the Eatta Hunka Pi or the Lambda Dambda Slamda or the Hootcha Kootcha Oocha would have had that little jockey standing in their front room at the side of the fireplace.

Ah, let us cheer up, friends; this world is not such a bad place after all. For, as the poet has well said, as round and round we run, ever the right comes uppermost and ever is justice done.

And, besides, although the merry fraternity boys snoop around the gay little jockey every night and try to drag him from his place, their work is all in vain, as he is anchored deep down in the world to just twelve hundred pounds of cold and very hard cement.

QUANTUM SUFFICIT.

So many days have come and gone,
So many moons have missed
The moment since my mouth was drawn
To your lips over-kissed.

Bury the blur of backward glance,

Down honey-yielding years.

What little more you may,
Extract with delectation from
The beauty of today!

AND NOW the filling stations are giving dishes, dolls, lamps, sofa cushions, and other bric-a-brac away as presents to all and sundry who buy gasoline. "We noticed," said we as we paid for the ten gals., "that you are giving away handsome presents to the gladsome customers." "Yes," sezze, "and if business don't pick up pretty quick I'm going to give away the whole damn station." So we drove away right hurriedly before he could wish it on us.

SWAMP SKETCHES.

VI.—BROTHER DONNER.

Say what you will, this is a man of God;
Forget the shouting and the frenzied whoops,
The maniac exhortations, and the sod
Of wailing seekers on the mourners' bench;
This is the only preaching that he knows,
And always in his nostrils is the stench
Of the world's rottenness and the world's woes.
And if you saw him lonely, with the Book
Reading, with tones that rose and fell and shook
To the majestic measures of the Word,
You would find in him the unmistakable look
Of one who sees the glory of the Lord.

LONDON.—Great Britain has made a formal offer of the island of Cyprus to Greece as soon as Greece undertakes to intervene in the war on the side of the allies, according to the Daily Telegraph, which says that Greece has not replied to the offer. A Rome dispatch reports that the entente allies will send an ultimatum to Greece, insisting that it define its position.

LONDON.—Continued progress by both the Austro-German and Bulgarian forces which are invading Serbia is reported in Berlin official statements. Latest reports here indicate that Serbia is in great danger of being overwhelmed by Bulgaria and the Teutons. No less than eight Bulgarian forces are said to have crossed the frontier. The Serbian capital has been transferred again, this time from Nish to Prisrend, near the Albanian frontier.

ON BOARD S. M. BATTLE CRUISER MOLTKE, AT SEA.—With decks cleared for instant action, coal bunkers always filled, steam ever wholly or partly up, and even with the guns of the outermost advance scout squadrons loaded, Germany's high sea fleet, strategically placed for offense or defense from beyond Helgoland to the Baltic, is awaiting England's challenge on the sea. For almost a year and a quarter the German fleet has been waiting to accept the challenge. [Since the war began the strength, movements and dispositions of the German fleet have been hidden in even greater mystery than has covered that of England. For the first time since August, 1914, this veil has been lifted by this story.]

DETROIT, Mich.—The big passenger steamer City of Cleveland, bound for this city from Cleveland, ran onto a rock or sunken anchor in the Detroit river and sank within a few minutes after its officers had succeeded in beaching it in shallow water. All the passengers, numbering 126, were saved. The City of Cleveland is a steel sidewheeler and is counted among the best passenger steamers on the lakes.

MANILA.—The secret service department has frustrated a plot for another massacre similar to the one which resulted last month in the killing of forty men of Company C, Ninth infantry, at Balangiga, in the southern part of the island of Samar. Eighty of the conspirators were arrested.

CHICAGO.—Booker T. Washington, as a guest at dinner at the White House, formed the text on which at least four Chicago ministers constructed their sermons yesterday. They were as of one mind in commending President Roosevelt and in the forcefulness with which they pointed to the error in southern criticism. Bishop Samuel Fallows, Dr. H. W. Thomas, the Rev. A. L. Murray, and the Rev. A. J. Carey are the four who upheld Mr. Roosevelt's action.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Attorney Scoville will ask for an order tomorrow to have additional counsel for Guiteau assigned to him by the court and will ask for an allowance for attorneys' fees. It seems probable that he will secure a considerable allowance for necessary fees, and it is expected the court will assign Gen. Henkle and R. D. Mussy as counsel. Gen. Henkle is a criminal lawyer of good standing. Gen. Mussy was an intimate personal friend of President Garfield and if he accepts the assignment, as he must if the court asks it, it will be a difficult task for him.

DUBLIN.—Earl Cowper, lord lieutenant of Ireland, issued a special proclamation declaring the Land league to be an illegal and criminal organization and warning the Irish people that its meetings of all kinds will be dispersed by force. All law abiding subjects of the queen are warned to abandon the league. When the news of the proclamation reached the Land league's office, books and documents of the league were carted to places of safety and the executive officials left, fearing arrest.

A WAY TO RAISE MONEY.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—In place of choice automobile numbers being doled out by politicians to their personal friends, put a premium on them, this premium to be placed in the unemployed fund. This would mean that men desiring special numbers would inclose with their applications two checks, one for the regular license fee and the other the premium required for the certain number requested. "First come, first served," would be the plan under which this would be operated. These numbers would then belong to the purchaser and could be renewed every year provided they are applied for within the proper time limit.

I think there are plenty of people willing to pay from $20 to $100 for the privilege of obtaining a certain automobile number especially in view of the fact it would belong to them forever. The little numbers, say from 1 to 1,000 would naturally have a higher premium price than others.

Personally I would be willing to contribute a few more dollars in order to get a number corresponding with the home or business address, and I know there are thousands of others who think likewise. M.

SHALLOW CHAUVINISM.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The asininity with which you treat the world court is to be deplored. Nowhere have I been subjected to such shallow chauvinism. What puzzles me is how the World's Greatest Newspaper can be so stupidly insular.

Don't you think that it is about time that we consign the suggestions of George Washington and Monroe concerning foreign entanglements to the dead letter office and well realize that the twentieth century is the twentieth century and that the thoughts of preceding centuries are, for the most part, quite anachronistic today?

Just as you once displaced the demagogic outcry of Stephen Decatur with a quotation from John Milton, so do I earnestly hope that you will replace your frothy world court editorials with editorials that are reasonable and which befit the century in which we live.

C. T. ENGDAHL.

WHERE THE TALL CORN GROWS.

Lime Springs, Ia., Oct. 18.—I wish to report that "out where the west begins" also has flowers in bloom! In my wild-flower garden yesterday I found violets, both violet and yellow, and have roses in bloom on ten bushes which, because of lack of rain, have not bloomed before this year.

We are only three miles south of the Minnesota state line, so we are a bit more wonderful in new flowers than Illinois, I think.

Only hats off to old Illinois! May she bloom and thrive always. She is my home state. THE TRIBUNE comes rushing out to our home every day.

N. P. K.

A PROGRAM.

Aurora, Ill., Oct. 14.—If I were governor of Illinois I would energetically facilitate the use of the state treasury for the Chicago school teachers' scrip; I would authorize the use of the state armories for the use of the homeless unemployed. A man's reward for unemployment should not be a cold floor. Army cots are cheap and seldom used by our guardsmen, so why not go over the top for the army of unfortunates?

ONE WHO WAS.

THE SCHOOL SURVEY.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—As a taxpayer I wish to say something about the school situation. We are told that Dr. Georg D. Strayer and fifty experts have been engaged at a cost of $100,000 to analyze the situation and find out why the school board cannot pay the teachers' salaries.

This, it seems to me, is only camouflage on the part of certain members who know full well why the board cannot pay its way.

Get rid of the grafters on buildings and supplies. Get rid of the engineers and janitors in every school who do no work but hire assistants to do the work they are supposed to do. Get rid of teachers who are teaching fads merely for the purpose of employing more teachers. Why should boys as well as girls be taught sewing and cooking in the public schools? This can be better taught at home. Foreign languages should not be taught in the public schools since they are no longer needed for entrance to a college. Time enough to teach such things when we have a surplus after teaching the three R's.

Get rid of the idea that the public schools are merely a clearing house for the normal school. Pupils when they go there know that there are more teachers than are needed. Close the normal for two years if necessary.

Cut a year from the school term, making it only seven years. This would eliminate an eighth of the teachers.

C. G.

TO END HOARDING.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—The impression seems general that many millions of dollars are being hidden away by persons who have lost confidence in banks as a safe place for their funds.

To again bring this hidden money into circulation, why would it not be a good plan to have the custodians of the proposed $500,000,000 revolving fund guarantee depositors who place their money in approved banks against loss?

Under the Hoover plan, it is proposed to loan money to substantial banks. It seems that by adopting the simple expedient of guaranteeing depositors against loss in these banks sufficient funds might be deposited to amply take care of their needs. HENRY WILCOX.

SIGNALS.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—In your recent editorial, "Traffic Officers and Traffic Cops," I think you omitted one of the little things which help differentiate the two. That is the cockeyed system of hand and arm motions used by the cop variety to direct traffic. Each of these ingenious lads has his own private system, which is supposed to be interpreted, and correctly, damn you, by the individual motorists. For instance, how would you decipher a rotary movement of the wrist with a slight waggle of the opposite elbow, while the cop is gazing soulfully at a platinum blond in a Whoosis sixteen? Well, just try it.

EDUCATING THE RADIO PUBLIC.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Canada, Oct. 14.—Would that the powers that be, in radio circles, could be persuaded to realize the golden opportunities, the God-given privileges, they have of educating the public to care for the better things in music by reducing to a minimum the broadcasting of jazz, that pet aversion of music lovers. SPAIN ARMS SELF WITH A DICTATOR TO FIGHT ENEMIES

Cortes Approves Act to "Protect Republic."

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Oct. 20.—By acclamation the cortes tonight voted one of those iron bodies laws called, "For the Defense of the Republic," arming Manuel Azana, provisional president, with dictatorial powers.

These powers are to be used, beginning now, to smite the republic's enemies on both fronts—the Monarchist-Clerical and the Syndicatist-Communist elements—as well as smiting within the ranks of its own functionaries where sabotage is said to be rampant.

Wields Extraordinary Powers.

Acts of aggression against the republic are defined elaborately. The government can deal with labor, political and religious disorders with extraordinary powers. It is privileged to dissolve any organization considered a menace to public order, suppress a hostile press and fire any public official whom it finds lax in enforcing the law.

The government is also empowered with the right of search and seizure of arms. Anyone convicted of possessing firearms, or even of eulogizing the ousted monarchy is liable to imprisonment. Strikes will be illegal unless preceded by an eight-day notice.

The public will say this is dictatorship," said Azana, the stocky, bespectacled president of the new government, who made a name for himself by ousting former King Alfonso and his gang, when he asked the cortes to vote on the new law. "But it is not, because it is under parliamentary control. Parliament can repeal it at any time, or censure us for its arbitrary enforcement.

In Defense of Republic.

"This law is not in defense of the government, but in defense of the republic. The republic is not in danger, but to prevent it being so we must have these defenses. Our experience has shown us that we lack proper means to cope with our little enemies. We cannot go on giving the impression that the republic is impotent. The only trouble with this project is that it comes six months too late."

But the defense act makes up for lost time. The new minister of the interior, Santiago Casares Quetroga, who looks like Mr. Coolidge, but talks less, is to wield it.

POINCARE RESIGNS PRESIDENCY OF PARIS BAR; HEALTH IS BAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 20.—Raymond Poincare, war time president of France, today resigned as president of the Paris Bar association on account of failing health. M. Poincare had been critically ill for several months, but believed he had sufficiently recovered last June to accept the honor which Paris lawyers conferred on him. In his letter of resignation, read at the bar association meeting today, however, he expressed regret that his health was "not sufficiently reestablished."

His retirement caused a flurry in political as well as in judicial circles, and now Paris is finally reconciled to the fact that this great politician, who hitherto constituted a pillar of strength during a crisis, is no longer available.

The last time he was called upon was in 1926, when he rescued the franc during a period of inflation, but he was still considered the "ace in the hole" last spring before Premier Laval succeeded in forming a cabinet after Andre Tardieu had resigned.

Pilsudski Taken Ill with Flu on Rumanian Visit

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, dictator of Poland, is ill of influenza here, but was reported progressing favorably tonight. The marshal, who came here from Warsaw several days ago in search of rest, suffered the attack of illness at Constanza and his condition at first was regarded as serious. He is visiting Prince Bibescu here.

RUSSIA SEEKING MORATORIUM ON DEBTS TO WORLD

Germany Alarmed; Fears Loss of 250 Millions.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—Russia has started sounding out her creditors in an effort to obtain an extension on her drafts, and possibly even a moratorium. These reports are causing alarm in Berlin inasmuch as business men estimate that Russia owes Germany 250 million dollars for orders for manufactured goods which have been carried out in recent years or which are being carried out now.

The report is echoed in tomorrow's "Germania," the organ of Chancellor Bruening of Germany. This paper states:

"The soviet trade delegation, upon receipt of orders from Moscow, very carefully approached some of their chief creditors inquiring about the possibility of an extension on their drafts.

"Though it cannot be foreseen whether a full moratorium will develop, the secret instructions issued by Moscow to its trade delegations in foreign capitals indicate that soviet finances are approaching an acute crisis which may easily lead to a moratorium or to an open failure in the communistic economic plans.

"The third year of the five year plan increased Russia's new foreign goods and currency commitments tremendously at a time when drafts for purchases made during the two previous years have become due."

"Germania" states that the Russians must pay Germany 120 million dollars in the immediate future, and that it also has to pay America 60 million dollars.

"Germania" adds that feverish efforts were made by the Russians to obtain loans to pay their obligations but they failed. Dictator Josef Stalin's five year plan is doomed unless Russia succeeds in prolonging her drafts is the "Germania's" conclusion.

It overlooks the fact that a Russian moratorium would spell ruin to hundreds of German plants.

Arnold Rechberg and other political leaders of Germany, who have been warning against coöperation with Russia for years, assert that the soviets have systematically placed orders in Europe, preparing to refuse to pay for them at a critical moment when a Russian moratorium is bound to upset the finances of a tottering Europe.

EMPLOYMENT IN 15 INDUSTRIAL GROUPS GROWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Employment in the fifteen major industrial groups of the country increased by 0.1 per cent from August to September, while earnings decreased by 2.8 per cent during the period, the bureau of labor statistics announced today. The decrease in earnings, according to the bureau, was "partly due to the wide observance of the Labor day holiday, which materially affected the earnings of employés."

In the manufacturing industries, however, employment decreased by 0.6 per cent during the August-September period, while pay-roll totals declined 5.3 per cent, the bureau stated. Six of the twelve main groups of manufacturing industries, according to the bureau, reported gains in employment during the month, while twenty-four of the fifty-four separate industries reported more employés in September than in August.

The middle Atlantic and the south Atlantic sections, according to the bureau, reported increased employment in September, while the remaining seven geographical divisions of the country reported a falling off in the number of workers during the month interval.

AUTOIST GIVES CLEW IN TRUNK MURDER HUNT

Sees Woman Who Looks Like Mrs. Judd.

and the two murdered women were all connected with Grunow institute, a Phoenix tuberculosis hospital. Mrs. Leroi was an X-ray laboratory assistant, Mrs. Judd was a nurse and Miss Samuelson was a patient.

Dr. Judd was questioned for eight hours today. From letters exchanged between him and his wife, following the couple's separation last June, and from bits of information which the physician added, police here arrived at the conclusion, stated by Inspector David Davidson and Lieut. Paul Stevens, that unusual jealousies between the three women marked the crime.

Mrs. Judd had roomed for some time in Phoenix with both her victims. Mrs. Leroi met Miss Samuelson several years ago in the northwest, and the two lived together in Oregon and Alaska.

Followed Her to Phoenix.

When Miss Samuelson contracted tuberculosis and moved to Phoenix for treatment, the older woman gave up her position in Alaska and went to the Arizona city to be near her friend.

Mrs. Leroi, it was learned, took a vacation of several weeks last summer, and visited relatives in Oregon. During her absence Miss Samuelson shared Mrs. Judd's apartment.

When Mrs. Leroi returned to Phoenix, letters of Mrs. Judd today revealed, there was an argument, and Miss Samuelson returned to Mrs. Leroi's home.

Later Mrs. Judd moved into Mrs. Leroi's apartment with the two women, but another quarrel occurred three weeks ago and Mrs. Judd took a room of her own at another address.

Brother's Stories Conflict.

Police who were grilling McKinnell tonight pointed to the various contradictory stories told by the young college student as evidence that he knows more about his sister's plans than he has revealed.

Policeman Arthur Bergeron, who arrested McKinnell here, quoted the student as telling him that "Sis told me there were bodies in the trunks." McKinnell later denied that he had admitted to Bergeron that he knew the contents of the trunks.

McKinnell said, "Sis told me the less I knew about anything the better. I gave her five dollars—all I had—and let her out of the automobile on Main street, Los Angeles, and I haven't seen or heard of her since."

McKinnell told Inspector Davidson and Lieut. Frank Ryan that his sister "had an insane temper," and that her letters had been incoherent for a year. Later McKinnell wrote out the following in jail:

"Never have I said my sister is guilty. She never at any time told me she was guilty. I do not think she is in her right mind. I wish her godspeed. My sister is innocent."

Dr. Judd said he had noticed no evidence of irrational mind either in his wife or the two murder victims.

The double murder was discovered here last night when a woman appeared at the railroad's freight room for two trunks, one larger than the other, which the station master had set aside as suspicious because of blood oozing on the station floor. When a woman appeared to claim the trunks Andrew Anderson, the baggage master, informed her that she would have to open them there for inspection, because it was suspected she was illegally conveying venison into California from Arizona.

"She made the excuse she had forgotten her key and said she would come back," Anderson said.

Police Open Trunks.

Four hours later police were summoned and opened the trunks, finding Mrs. Leroi's body, clad in a pink nightgown, shot once through the head, crammed into the larger trunk. Miss Samuelson's body, nude and dismembered, with the middle portion of the body, from lower abdomen to knees, missing, was in the second or smaller hand trunk. An hour later a suitcase containing the missing portion of Miss Samuelson's body and a 25 caliber revolver were found in the women's retiring room at the station. Tracing the license number of the automobile in which the woman appeared at the depot, police arrived at the quarters of McKinnell, who has been working his way through the University of Southern California by acting as janitor at a high school. McKinnel had driven to see his brother-in-law, Dr. Judd.

Post-mortem examinations showed that Mrs. Leroi, a large, broad shouldered brunette of about 150 pounds, had been shot once in the head and her head beaten in. Miss Samuelson, a slight woman weighing about 100 pounds, with reddish blond hair, had been shot through the temple, chest and arm, and had been dissected with a long kitchen knife with saw teeth, which had been thrown into the trunks along with the bodies, photographs, letters, articles of attire, cartridges, and other objects.

Mrs. Judd is described as a brown haired, slim figured 27 year old woman, 5 feet 4 inches in height, weight 110 pounds.

Letters Hint at Quarrel.

Holtoia showed daily letters to him from Mrs. Leroi which hinted at possible friction between the two women and Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, hunted in connection with the slaying.

On Sept. 28 she wrote:

"Ruth [Mrs. Judd] is leaving us in a few days. Dr. Judd is coming home, so she will take an apartment. It really hasn't worked out so well, having three of us. We are very fond of her and she is a sweet girl, but there just seems to be a wrong number when one is used to living by oneself and just one other very congenial one."

Cut Rug Adds to Mystery.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—County Attorney Lloyd I. Andrews and Chief of Police George Brisbois led a search here early today of both Mrs. Judd's home and the apartment in which the two murdered women had resided. In the former they found a suitcase filled with surgical instruments belonging to Dr. William C. Judd, the suspect's husband.

An investigation of the girls' apartment revealed that a corner of the rug, about four feet square, had been hacked out very laboriously with a pair of manicure scissors which were found lying between the twin beds in which the women slept. The missing piece was from a part of the rug directly under Mrs. Le Roi's bed. Fragments of the carpet were found in the fireplace and the missing piece apparently had been burned.

Attempting to trace the movements of Mrs. Le Roi and Miss Samuelson, police learned that they had a guest at dinner in their home Friday night. Miss Evelyn Nace, another employé of the Grunow clinic, where Mrs. Le Roi was also employed. Miss Nace left their home at 9:45 o'clock, and as far as is known that is the last moment the women were seen alive. Miss Nace said that before she left Mrs. Le Roi already had started to retire and was dressed then in silk pajamas.

That Mrs. Leroi was a woman of many loves was indicated by more than half a hundred letters, some replete with fervent phrases of love, found in her home.

"Emil," a traveling salesman, was the most frequent correspondent. His letters came from various cities throughout the northwest. Occasionally Emil would be near enough to Phoenix to visit her.

One letter dated Sept. 20, 1931 from Pasadena was signed "Nat." There were other fervent letters with other signatures.

Mrs. Leroi is believed to have been an assumed name, the dead woman being identified as Agnes Imlah, 30 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Imlah of Oregon.

She was married in Portland to Dow Leroi Smith and was either divorced or separated from Smith about two years ago.

Reports from Oregon state the woman was married and divorced prior to her marriage to Smith, her first husband being an automobile salesman.

BROTHER WRITES LETTER OF COMFORT TO PASTOR FATHER

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Burton MacKinnell today sent the following letter by air mail to his parents in Darlington, Ind.:

"Dear Folks: I suppose the greatest catastrophe imaginable has come across our lives. You folks have lived so near God all your lives that I am sure he will be near you and comfort you when you need him so much.

"I know that my old gray-headed dad can get hold of God as no one ever has.

"Ruth is accused of a great crime. Circumstantial evidence seems to be against her. She has told me nothing and I want to know nothing unless she is caught by the law or gives herself up and is brought to trial. That will be soon enough to learn the facts.

"I want you, Mom, to go through what back letters you have of Ruth's which would be evidence to show her insanity. Many of her letters are incoherent and contradictory.

"The girl is mentally off balance, I am sure. She is innocent in the eyes of the higher court, I am sure. I wish it were possible for you folks to come. Love."

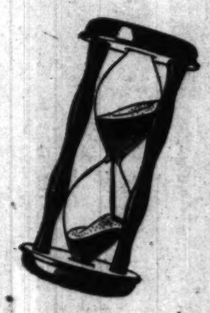
No can of Hills Bros. Coffee will ever "go stale." The vacuum can keeps it FRESH ALWAYS!

The matchless flavor of Hills Bros Coffee can't possibly vary!



As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . .

a little at a time

. . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time.

"A little at a time," instead of in bulk, insures perfect roasting

• • •

Hills Bros is the only coffee roasted by the patented, Controlled Roasting process

A look and a guess decide the degree of roast for bulk-roasted coffee. And it is impossible to always guess the same. That is why such coffees often vary in flavor. But Hills Bros. Coffee never does! It is roasted a little at a time . . . evenly, continuously, by the patented, Controlled Roasting process which creates a rich, uniform flavor in every pound. No disappointing variations!

No stale coffee, either! For air, which makes coffee go stale, is removed and kept out of Hills Bros.' vacuum cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee is ever-fresh!

Try Hills Bros. today. You will still drink it a year from now! Its exquisite flavor . . . the perfect flavor of the coffee-berry . . . never varies. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

PASTOR FATHER SURE MRS. JUDD ISN'T MURDERER

cial.]—The Rev. H. J. McKinnell, 72 Darlington, Ind., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The 72 year old father of Mrs. Ruth Judd, firmly asserted this evening that "It was impossible for Ruth to have committed Arizona's double trunk murder.

"I'm firmly convinced that my girl is innocent of the things they say she has done," he said.

The father, a retired Free Methodist minister, had been cutting his winter's supply of kindling in a woods north of here when a reporter found him and told him of the murders. He hurried back to his home to solace his 69 year old wife, who has been an invalid for the last three years.

"There has been a terrible tragedy," he said, "But somehow I firmly believe it will work out all right. Ruth is a good girl. She wouldn't commit a crime."

Mr. McKinnell told of his daughter's marriage to Dr. Judd in their home at Lafayette seven years ago and of their trip a few days later to Mexico, where they made their home.

Doctor's Health Falls.

He stated that his daughter and her husband had been forced to leave Mexico when the doctor's health broke down. The couple met at Evansville while the girl was taking a nurse's course in a hospital where the doctor practiced. They were married in Lafayette the following spring.

Mrs. Judd visited her parents only once since her marriage, about five years ago, when she stayed three weeks. Her husband did not come east.

"My daughter never spoke of any trouble with her husband or with her roommates. In fact, she always was loud in her praise of the women who lived with her," the minister said.

Mr. McKinnell has held pastorates at Olney, St. Francisville, Danville, Urbana, West Point, and Neoga, Ill., and at Pinevillage, Lafayette, Vincennes, Clay City, and Evansville, Ind.

Career in Lafayette.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Lafayette friends of Ruth McKinnell Judd, sought for the murder at Phoenix, Ariz., of two women companions, recall the former Lafayette telephone operator as a dainty blond, quiet and reserved.

Twenty-seven years old now, she was seven when she first came here, with her parents, from Oxford, Ind., where she was born in January, 1905. Her father came here to take over the pastorate of the First Free Methodist church.

Worked in Insane Institution.

ROB WOMAN IN APARTMENT.

Returning to her home from a shopping tour, Mrs. Clara Hajek, 5043 Crystal street, found two 17 year old youths walking through her apartment. They drew a revolver, took $5 from her handbag, and a $35 gold watch, then fled.

SISTER OF TRUNK MURDER VICTIM BARES QUARREL

Friction with Suspect Told in Letter.

Miss Hedvig Samuelson, whose body was found with that of Mrs. Agnes Ann Le Roi in two trunks in the Southern Pacific railroad station at Los Angeles Monday night, had been bedridden for a year, her sister, Mrs. Anna Anderson, 5129 Nevada street, said yesterday.

"I can't even believe this awful thing," Mrs. Anderson said. "Why, my sister had tuberculosis and had been taking the rest cure at Phoenix, Ariz. As a result of staying in bed continually, she must have been helpless and unable to defend herself from the murderer.

Sister Tells of Letter.

"I got a letter from her in August that indicated there was some friction between Mrs. Ruth Judd and Mrs. Le Roi, but there has never been a hint of any trouble that could lead to something as terrible as this. I should think the killer or killers would have spared my sister out of pity. Just recently the doctor told her she might get up at Christmas, as she was showing signs of improvement."

Mrs. Anderson resides with her husband, Philip, a machinist. She received messages from her brothers, Dr. Sam Samuelson and Arnold Samuelson, both residing in Minneapolis, that the identification of their sister's body "evidently seems positive." Arnold Samuelson, who is 18 years old, is a student at the University of Minnesota. He will probably go west in behalf of the family, Mrs. Anderson said.

Met in Alaska.

Miss Samuelson and Mrs. Le Roi became friends, Mrs. Anderson said, when they both lived in Juneau, Alaska, where Miss Samuelson taught school and Mrs. Le Roi worked in a hospital. When her sister contracted tuberculosis, Mrs. Anderson said, Mrs. Le Roi voluntarily transported her to Phoenix, at her own expense, and cared for her.

Miss Samuelson attended the Chicago Normal college for seven weeks in the summer of 1930, Mrs. Anderson said.

EXECUTE SLAYER OF WOMAN AND HER 2 CHILDREN

Chester, Ill., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Murley James Johnson, 25, who said, "I thank you," when Circuit Judge George W. Bristow of Mattoon sentenced him to death for the murder of Mrs. Carrie Bowers, with whom he lived, and her two small sons, was executed in the electric chair of southern Illinois penitentiary early today.

Johnson showed no emotion. "So long, boys," he said, as he was brought into the death chamber. "So long, boys," he repeated just before the current was turned on.

SAYS ERLANGER INQUIRED ABOUT DEEDS OF TRUST

Lawyer Witness in Suit of Former Actress.

New York, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Testimony showing that the late Abraham L. Erlanger feared that his brother, former Supreme Court Justice Mitchell L. Erlanger, "might make trouble" for Charlotte Fixel, former actress, after the theater man's death, was admitted today by Surrogate O'Brien when trial of Miss Fixel's suit to establish herself as the decedent's common law widow was resumed. The evidence was given by William H. Conger, a Philadelphia lawyer, who is a vice president of the Integrity Trust company. He was put on the witness stand by Max D. Steuer, counsel for Miss Fixel.

Ex-Judge Erlanger and his two sisters, who share virtually all of the Erlanger fortune, estimated variously at from $825,000 to $75,000,000, are opposing Miss Fixel's suit. If Miss Fixel wins she can contest the theater owner's will.

Inquired About Wills.

Mr. Conger said that when he and his wife, an old friend of Miss Fixel, visited the Erlanger home in 1929 or 1921, the testator took him into his library and questioned him regarding wills and deeds of trust.

"Mr. Erlanger told me he feared that if he did not make provision for Mrs. Erlanger in his lifetime in addition to his will, his brother might make trouble for her after his death," Mr. Conger testified.

Mr. Erlanger seemed pleased, he said, when the attorney spoke of deeds of trust as "not easily attacked."

Under cross-examination by Samuel Untermyer, who with Isidor J. Kresel represents the Erlanger estate, Conger declared that the contestant and a Mrs. McCullough, his sister-in-law, were old friends and had lived together when both were actresses. He said that around 1919 his wife received a letter from Miss Fixel announcing her marriage to Mr. Erlanger. He did not recall any details in the letter as to the time and place of the "marriage."

Physician Is Witness.

Dr. Joseph C. Marshall, a physician of Atlantic City, said he met the contestant as "Mrs. Erlanger" in the Erlanger suite in Atlantic City when he was summoned to treat Mr. Erlanger by Saul J. Baron, temporary administrator of the Erlanger estate. When he went to the hotel, Dr. Marshall said, Baron told him "Mrs. Erlanger had charge of the case and would tell him all about it." Mr. Baron introduced him to the contestant as "Mrs. Erlanger," he said.

COUNTY REFUSES PAY RAISE PLEAS OF ITS EMPLOYES

County officials yesterday turned away scores of employés who have appealed for salary advances, and at the same time repeated their recent announcement that there was no money in sight with which to meet the already over due pay roll for the first half of October, and other pay days until Dec. 1.

Meanwhile President Emmett Whelan of the county board and County Recorder Clayton Smith called a meeting of fifty elected officials and county commissioners to propose that county employés contribute one day's pay a month for six months to the joint emergency relief fund.

At the meeting it also was learned that every county employé has been ordered to buy three tickets at $2.20 each, for the Mayor Cermak Day for Charity at the Hawthorne race track tomorrow afternoon. Those employés who attend, it was said, will be docked for taking their time off. County employés already have had to accept payless vacations.

'BANQUO'S GHOST' STALKS KING AS HE HIDES IN FORT

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

AUSTRIAN-JUGO-SLAV BORDER, Oct. 2.—[By Mail.]—Gen. Douglas MacArthur during his visit to Belgrade last week obtained a glimpse at the setting of a colorful drama of oriental intrigue which surrounds King Alexander—"incipient lead poisoning," or fear of assassination, which has wrecked the king's nerves and is undermining his health.

As he drove up to the royal villa at Dedinya on a high bluff over the Sava river he may or may not have detected the masked gun emplacements for heavy artillery which surround the palace. He probably noticed the fortress-like solidity behind the Byzantine curves of the palace, which site dominates the countryside for miles with the capital spread out as a defenseless target below.

Has Private Air Force.

The American chief of staff couldn't help but see how the barracks of the royal guard division surround the palace grounds, and he could judge the efficiency of the formidable little personal air force of the king, also on the bluffs within easy distance of the palace, for he saw the planes in a special show put on in his honor.

He may have wondered a little, too, at the strength and equipment of those royal guards, who in Jugo-Slavia are no soldier on parade, but a powerful army within an army—a division with the organization of an army corps, including heavy artillery and planes.

The king surrounds himself with this "ring of steel," it is commonly known, because he worries that the same fate which befell one of his predecessors, King Alexander Obrenovitch, who was stabbed to death and then thrown out of the palace window, may be his lot.

King Takes No Chances.

Then, too, the man who opened the doors for the conspirators to kill this king was Gen. Peter Zhikovitch and prime minister of the constitutional monarchy of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes today. Next to the king he is the most powerful man in this Balkan nation and a man who has anticipations of becoming dictator.

So King Alexander is taking no chances.

The fortress-palace where the king received Gen. MacArthur took ten years to build. It is said that it can withstand the heaviest shellfire and is fitted with interior machine gun emplacements, enabling a handful of loyal guards or even the household servants to hold a whole battalion of infantry at bay.

It is significant that almost to the day when the ten year task had been finished, Jan. 6, 1929, Alexander established the dictatorship. Since then he has taken up his regular quarters in what was originally intended to be a summer house and rarely visits his palace in the city.

According to reliable accounts, the king lives the life of a hunted man, constantly fearing a plot against his life, uncertain even of the loyalty of his crack regiment, and still less sure of his chief henchman, the prime minister, who was until recently commander of the royal guards.

Fears Secret Juntas.

But the premier is not the only man the king fears. The Jugo-Slavian army is dominated by the same old secret military juntas that ran the Serbian army—the "Black Hand," which Alexander helped organize; the "White Hand," which he organized throught Zhikovitch to weaken the "Black Hand," and a mysterious republican junta streng among the lower ranks of the military hierachy.

Then there is his elder brother, Prince George, who renounced his rights to the throne in 1912. The opposition and many of the older army officers have never forgiven Alexander for the campaign of whispers they accuse him of having launched against his brother until so much pressure was brought to bear that George renounced his rights.

Until six years ago George was just a nuisance. He was supposed to be chronically ill and lived in semi-voluntary exile at Nish. Suddenly in 1925 George began to take an active interest in politics and started flirting with the republicans. Alexander was terrified, and since then George hasn't been seen. He is said to be kept under surveillance and a virtual prisoner in an old castle near Nish.

Charge "Guilty Conscience."

According to opposition leaders, however, the king's worries arise chiefly from a guilty conscience. They accuse him of complicity in the murder of King Alexander Obrenovitch and of deliberately fixing the court martial which shot the "Black Hand" leader, Gen. Charles Dmitriovitch Apis, on the Saloniki front during the war. The "Black Hand" hasn't forgotten.

Fear of their vengeance keeps him jumping from place to place. All his movements are shrouded in secrecy, and newspapers are forbidden to publish his travels in advance.

The opposition tells a Macbeth-like tale of the sleepless king pacing the halls of his fortress-palace all night and in a sudden burst of hysteria shrieking at an officer of the guard: "Do you think the prime minister will betray me?"

ADMIRAL MAGRUDER, WHO CRITICIZED NAVY, IS ORDERED RETIRED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Thomas Pickett Magruder, who in 1927 unleashed a storm by publishing severe criticism of the navy, today was ordered retired for age at the end of November.

He commands the naval district and yard at New Orleans.

In an article four years ago he attacked the navy for lack of economy and inefficiency, particularly in the maintenance of yards described as "political."

An investigation was made by the navy department. It did not result in discipline.

However, Curtis D. Wilbur, then secretary of the navy, suspended Magruder. He remained unassigned until in July, 1929, when Secretary Adams ordered him to command the fleet base force on the Pacific.

Magruder had a distinguished naval career, winning the distinguished service medal for service in the world war and being advanced five numbers in rank for his part in the Spanish-American war. He holds decorations from foreign nations.

Nicholas Neuhengen, 58 years old, was found dead in the gas filled basement of his home at 3614 North Hermitage avenue yesterday by his wife, Mary.

EXPOSE OF GAS TAX EVASION IS CALLED A DUD

Former Justice Paul Samuell of the state Supreme court, chairman of Gov. Emmerson's commission investigating evasions of the motor fuel tax, announced last night, at the end of the fourth day's session, that commission had failed to find any evidence of any gasoline bootlegging ring such as reported in a recent "exposé."

"All evidence we have been able to obtain to date," said Mr. Samuell, "indicates that only half of one per cent of the gasoline sold in Illinois has evaded taxation, and this evasion was in the early history of the motor fuel excise. Testimony indicates that the state is exercising diligence in the collection of the tax."

FEDERAL JUDGE CARPENTER HAS 64TH BIRTHDAY

Federal Judge George A. Carpenter was congratulated by his friends and associates on his 64th birthday yesterday. Judge Carpenter is the dean of the judges of the 7th circuit.

Judge Carpenter took occasion to explain his new method of going through traffic jams to get to his car on the days that Al Capone appeared in the federal building. "I would get some one to sing out, 'Here comes Al Capone,' and the crowd would open up and let me through," said the judge.

Judge Carpenter is now in his 32d year in the United States District court.

RESTAURANT MAN TO GIVE 100 MEALS A DAY TO NEEDY

Louis Lenoff, 2114 South Harding avenue, owner of a chain of restaurants on the near west side, announced yesterday that he will give 100 free meals a day to the hungry of the city during the winter. The meals will be dispensed between 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. Lenoff started yesterday by feeding unemployed in his restaurant at 773 West Adams street and will continue to give free meals there until Monday when the meals will be given in his restaurant at 919 West Madison street. Mr. Lenoff owns five restaurants and during the winter free food will be served at one of them each week.

"I want to do my part to decrease the suffering," Mr. Lenoff said.

INTESTINES
Always Tired! That's usually a sign of serious trouble inside you!
Poisons that spread from sluggish intestines are usually the cause, doctors say! Correct Intestinal Fatigue.

© 1931, Standard Brands Incorporated

They used to call him 'PEPLESS'

LISTLESS. Touchy. Limp after the least exertion. Too tired at night to join in simple, healthy fun . . .

That's no way to be! And furthermore, it isn't necessary. If you really want to enjoy life to the full, learn this secret of true vitality and "pep."

• • •

Ninety per cent of all cases of loss of energy, doctors now say, are traceable to one very commonplace physical evil. Constipation!

We eat rich foods, lead irregular hours, neglect important body habits.

And as a result, our systems cannot throw off their accumulated waste matter regularly every day.

Then, of course, trouble sets in! Our intestines grow stagnant. Poisons form, seep into the blood, circulate to every part of the body.

We are subject to headaches, to skin blemishes, to frequent sore throats and colds. Appetite falls off. Digestion is upset. We suffer from unpleasant breath, coated tongue, "that tired feeling."

• • •

Now that's a state of affairs you can't afford to neglect! But fortunately, it's very simple to deal with it today.

Eaten regularly, three times a day, Fleischmann's Yeast softens and loosens stagnating material in the intestines. At the same time it actually "tones up" the intestinal muscles, strengthening them to remove this waste matter regularly and completely every day.

Thus, poisons that were seeping into your blood are promptly carried away, or cease to form. The flow of digestive juices is stimulated. You sleep more soundly at night. Normal appetite and vigor return. And soon you notice that those dull, pepless days never happen any more!

It's worth trying, isn't it? Here's the way. Just eat 3 cakes of Fleischmann's fresh Yeast every day, regularly—before meals, or between meals and at bedtime—plain or dissolved in a third of a glass of water.

Why not start today?

The famous French physician and clinic head, DR. EDOUARD AGASSE-LAFONT, of Paris, declares: "Fresh yeast is a food with extraordinary properties . . . It strengthens the intestines . . . restores normal daily elimination . . . improves the appetite . . . has a tonic effect on the whole system."

Important Fleischmann's Yeast for health is sold only in the foil-wrapped cake with the yellow label. It is yeast in its fresh, effective form—the kind famous doctors recommend. At grocers, restaurants, soda fountains. Rich in health-giving vitamins B, G and D.

Tyndham Lewis' Latest Work Reviewed.

"Clarion of Europe," by D. B. Wyndham Lewis. [Coward McCann and B. Y. Mitchell.] Published today.

"WITH profound reverence we approach the altar of humanity. But this must not prevent us from investigating. . . . what we reverently worship. One thing must be avoided . . . the mixture of our wishes and our judgment, the intermingling of our feelings . . . with the results of dubious and painstaking research."

If we are to take seriously these words of the great historian, Lamprecht, we must perforce discard this biography as history. It is primarily a tract and, though it may be argued that no historian ever has written without his own personal ax to grind, books do not lend themselves to the ideal of disinterestedness.

The passing of the Renaissance is one of the most interesting and dramatic periods of western history; and the era is certainly afforded in this biography. Charles the Fifth of the Holy Roman empire emerges, despite his position, a fascinating, powerless, but entirely scrupulous man—a man who begins from start to finish in a mood of bitter disillusion. One by one his ideals of a united Europe and a united religion crash until finally, saddened by life and weary of its burdens, he retires, before his time, to a small house on the edge of a monastery in Spain. The two conflicting figures of the century: those of Charles and Martin Luther, are pitted against each other, and the victory of Luther—a victory, according to Wyndham Lewis, that carried in its train all the destructive elements of our present social order. The charm of boldness with which the author has cast the past draws the reader irresistibly onward. The very human appeal of Wyndham Lewis, his mastery of narrative, and his vital, brilliant style never allow the reader's attention to lapse, no matter how violent his disagreement.

There are several points that cannot pass without comment.

In defense of accepted historical reputation, Wyndham Lewis implies that Luther died in the arms of the church he had renounced. In making a statement as sensational as this one there should be very definite and conclusive proof. But the author is content to let the entire matter pass with the weak and light phrase, "according to the evidence."

The author asserts from time to time that Charles would not hit a man when he is down, as the phrase goes, but he is at some pains to explain away the months imprisonment of Francis the First of France in Spain after the battle of Pavia. Francis got what is deserved, of course, and why courtesy or honor on the part of the emperor should have been called for is not clear. It was not, and Charles accordingly did not give it.

Every one who knows any history realizes that there was no excuse for the atrocities perpetrated throughout the reign of Bloody Mary of England, and to attempt a glossing over of this is carrying tolerance a bit far.

With the evidence of Charles' defiance of the pope (his wars on him, the sack of Rome, the curtailment of papal power whenever it infringed on imperial rights), and his obedience in the suppression of Lutheranism [because he needed their aid], it is hard to believe that Charles accepted, as infallible, the authority of the church, spiritual and temporal, and that he put religious matters above the preservation of his empire.

The main issue, however, is of super importance. Without evidence available to the reader, and with subjective reasoning, Wyndham Lewis states that nationalism was the direct product of the 16th century German Reformation, and implies that the Reformation was primarily provoked by the abuses in the church.

It is the general opinion of scholars that the Reformation was brewing among the intellectuals long before the abuses in the church became so flagrant, and furthermore that one of the primary, if not the primary, immediate causes was economic. It was the natural sequence to the Renaissence, and the Renaissance did not burst upon the world over night.

The ideal of individualism never has flourished under strict observance of authoritarianism. It is generally known that the seeds of nationalism were found in France under Philip the Fair, and in England at the time of the Magna Charta [and in the age of John Wycliff], centuries before the Reformation had taken shape in Germany.

"Charles of Europe" is a popular work and probably the author did not intend it to be taken seriously by historians. Nevertheless, even popular history must not be so inaccurate that readers are led astray from the main truths.

The first and last 30 pages are, by the author's admission, frankly Catholic propaganda. Wyndham Lewis' suggested solution to the problems that beset the modern world is a return to the church.

THE DINNERS ALMOST COOK THEMSELVES AT THE FOOD SHOW

Housewives crowded the aisles of the National Food show at the Merchandise Mart yesterday looking over the latest gadgets that make cooking easier and studying the newest wrinkles in culinary art.

One of the things that pleased them most was the electric stove with an attachment that enables the gadabout housewife to go off shopping in the morning, bridging in the afternoon, and come home at 6 p. m. to find the dinner all ready to put on the table.

This regulative appliance seems to be a relative of an alarm clock. The housewife wants a dinner that requires three hours to cook and she wants it ready at 6 o'clock. She sets one lever so at 3 o'clock the dinner will begin to cook; she sets another lever that will stop the cooking at 6 o'clock. Then she may step out and that's that, until she arrives to put the dinner on the table.

Breakfast for the following morning also may be entrusted to such an educated stove. The regulator can be set the night before.

Then there's the egg beater or drink mixer that runs by water power merely by attaching the hose end of it to the kitchen water faucet. And for the wife who wants to give her husband hot biscuits for dinner, without the task of making them herself, all she has to do is to ask for a can of baking powder biscuits at her grocer's. They come, ten to the can, all ready to pop into the oven.

One of the most popular booths in the show was the one that offered samples of rum ice cream. Customers found this new delicacy quite tasty. It was pointed out that a quart of rum will flavor five gallons of ice cream, and without disasterous consequences as far as the prohibition law is concerned.

Good Morning!

Clara Kimball Young "comes back" in this picture, with a force that startles you. Never in her earlier career as a "silent" star—and one of the most beautiful in filmdom!—did she do anything that could touch her portrayal of Mrs. Daisy Bowman, landlady of a third rate New York boarding house.

Mrs. Bowman is not exactly a lovely character, but, in her way, she's a mighty good sort. A dark, buxom woman, with a flair for showy jewelry, she's hard as nails—and soft as butter. She has a sense of humor that tempers her sense of justice as far as board bills and colored help are concerned. [Awfully funny, the c. h.!] She is a tender and devoted mother to a blind son. She despises men—but can't resist them, and it is SOMETHING to hear her coyly coo to a prospective male boarder:

In a way "Women Go On Forever" will remind you of "Street Scene." Locale and atmosphere are much the same. The people who live in Mrs. Bowman's boarding house, and the police are the characters personae. Sordidness the piece has, tragedy, and much grim humor. Shrewd intelligence was behind the choosing of the cast.

Walter Lang's handling of story material and players places him in the front rank of directors.

Light, amusing, deftly acted and directed and badly photographed movie fare is this French made picture.

The story depicts Mr. Menjou as a gay and not young Parisian dilletante and boulevardier with a youthful wife. Into his carefree existence there plops unexpectedly, a grownup soap king son from America. Ensuing complications serve to make an hour pass most pleasantly.

What a darling that Elissa Landi is! I love to hear her talk. She clips off her words so charmingly!

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

The Grand Coup.

The oft quoted statement that too much money lays a groundwork for evil is certainly debatable. Few among us are unwilling to chance its truth, but too many trumps are at times the downfall of an otherwise righteous hand.

Consider yesterday's hand:

NORTH
♠—8, 3
♥—9, 7, 4
♦—K, J, 10, 9
♣—A, Q, 10, 5

WEST
♠—9
♥—K, Q, J, 10, 5
♦—7, 4, 3, 2
♣—6, 4, 3

EAST
♠—A, Q, 4, 2
♥—A, 3, 6
♦—8, 6, 5
♣—7, 5, 2

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—K, J, 10, 7, 6, 5
♥—8, 2
♦—A, Q
♣—K, J, 9

South dealt and bid a spade. West bid two hearts and North three diamonds. East passed and South rebid the spades. West passed.

South's rebid of spades showed North that he held at least five spades. (Four card suits are never rebid after a denial by partner.) However, a playable declaration should have at least eight trumps between the two hands. Since North had but two small spades a five card suit in South's hand made but seven spades, so North again took out with four clubs.

East passed, and South, having six spades, again rebid them, calling four spades.

West, North, and East passed; North was contented, since he placed South with six spades due to his second rebid.

West opened the heart king and followed with the queen of the same suit. West then led the diamond 3, and South took the trick with the ace. Why not the queen? O, my! O, my! Have you forgotten all our words on the well known entries?

Figuring the five outstanding trumps might split three and two between his opponents, South led the diamond queen, overtaking with king in dummy. Leading the spade 3 from dummy (on which East played the 2) South finessed the 10, which held, but West played the 9 spot.

This was a nasty jolt for South, for it looked like a singleton, and that meant the suit could not be cleared. To be certain South now led his club king, which he overtook in dummy with the ace and led the spade 8. East played the 4, South the 5, and West discarded.

South's worst fears were realized. East sat over him with the ace and queen of trumps. He had expected to lose to the ace, but a loss to the queen meant no game. Since he had four trumps he would be forced into the lead on the tenth trick unless he did something about it. What to do? Get rid of those bothersome extra trumps!

South led the diamond jack from dummy and trumped it in his own hand. He then went back to the dummy by leading the club jack, overtaking with the queen, and led dummy's diamond 10. When East discarded South again trumped. Then leading the club 9 and overtaking with the 10 he was back in dummy.

Now whatever dummy leads, either the heart or the club, the lead is "through," not "up to" East and regardless of the latter's play, South makes one of the two remaining tricks and game. This play is called a coup, and when, as here, the tricks trumped are otherwise good it is known as a grand coup.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer. To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card, cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square at the right [as S3, etc.]. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Frank Brantley Sings "The Fool" with Obendorfer's Setting

One of the interesting features of the song recital by Frank Brantley at Kimball hall last night came about halfway down the program. This was a number called "The Fool," composed by his accompanist, the Chicago pianist, Marx E. Obendorfer. The poem, of unknown authorship, presents a dramatic phase of religion, and it is precisely this dramatic element that Mr. Oberndorfer has caught and translated into terms of music. The song thereby becomes effective, not to say striking.

Mr. Brantley is the possessor of a baritone voice of depth and power. It is so good a natural endowment that he ought to be a better singer than he is. As a matter of fact he is a good singer of vigorous music. It is in the finer, more sustained moments like those of Handel's "Where'er You Walk" and Caldara's "Selve Amiche" that the voice sounds incompletely controlled, and this though his enunciation is considerably better than the average.

Over 50,000 Expected at Charity Football Game

Advance sales indicate an attendance of more than 50,000 at the Mount Carmel-De La Salle football game next Sunday afternoon in Soldiers' field. The proceeds are for the Sisters of Mercy building fund. Both Catholic high school teams have won all games on schedule and Sunday's winner will be considered a serious contender for the Catholic championship.

MRS. RITA WREN.

Mrs. Marie Rita Wren of the Mercy federation is among those promoting the sale of boxes. Sheriff William D. Meyering is general chairman; Peter M. Kelly is west side chairman; Sherman Sexton, north side. Preceding the game there will be a parade.

For Beginners

For the benefit of auction bridge players who have not learned to play contract, Charles True Adams, The Chicago Tribune's bridge expert, is writing a series of articles on the fundamentals of the new game. The first of these articles, which will enable any one interested in contract to learn the game under the tutelage of an expert teacher, will appear in next Sunday's Tribune.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

FRITZ LEIBER'S Civic Shakespeareans, with reinforcements of stellar rank, are giving an aggressive and commanding performance of "The Merchant of Venice" at the Majestic theater as the first of their series of three productions. The good tidings of the occasion are that this company, now beginning its third season of service to the immortal and somewhat neglected works of the First Dramatist, has increased its stature and strengthened its grasp. Here you will find vigorous and full blooded Shakespeare—picturesque and eloquent acting that carries to the last aisle of the spacious playhouse in which it is lodged.

The company claims the title of "all star," and in five of "The Merchant's" important rôles it justifies that claim with sound characterizations and admirable readings. Moreover, it happily waives the right to pose in the customary manner of "all star revivals"; its members work together like a seasoned repertory group. Here is no casual cavalcade of veteran stars, exploiting their own personalities, but a well blended interpretation of the play for everything that is in it, except the fluent grace of its scenes of light comedy.

I have never seen "The Merchant of Venice" treated with more theatrical vigor—and that quality is what any dramatic performance in the buxom Majestic needs. Mr. Leiber's Shylock is, of course, a familiar study; it is still the boldly colored, vehement, and impressive Jewish patriarch that his followers know. In this new staging of the play Mr. Leiber's explosion of bereavement over the elopement of Jessica is too much muffled by the frolic of Venetian carnival that all old school Shakespearean directors love. The trial scene, however, is a decided improvement over last year's in method. It places the duke of Venice, nobly acted by Tyrone Power, in the center of the picture, with decided benefit to the various maneuvers of the litigants and that tricky counsellor, Portia.

Helen Menken's Portia is unorthodox, and all the more welcome on that account. The theory that every Portia should be a pale copy of Ellen Terry's graceful and sparkling lady of Belmont is one of the reasons why there have been many feeble heroines in "The Merchant of Venice" these last thirty years.

Miss Menken's strange, intense personality gives us a Portia that seems somewhat neurotic and over strained, but who is a flame of energy and purpose in the trial scene. Here is a lady lawyer with a mind like a steel trap; who is keen, precise, and, in her attitude toward Shylock, slyly venomous. When she finally turns upon the vengeful Jew, to riddle his suit with technicalities, she is something like a repressed wild cat. Her reading of the "quality of mercy" speech, however—that aria by which Portias stand or fall—carries all the poetry of the lines without any fantastic touches of modernism. It is admirably done, for this Miss Menken has a fine voice for Shakespeare and uses it with great skill.

Mr. Power's Duke gives the trial scene a memorable richness and dignity; Mr. Faversham's Antonio is a suave and winning treatment of a title rôle that is seldom cast with the importance that it deserves; and Pedro de Cordoba's Bassanio brings another excellent voice and alert mind into the performance. The lesser rôles are in capable hands; and Launcelot Gobbo ceases to be a bore as jovially treated, without cuts in his gabble, by Whitford Kane.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

Chicago Passes $3,000,000 for Jobless Relief

More Than Five Millions More Sought.

The joint emergency relief fund passed the $3,000,000 mark last night. The announced goal of the campaign is $5,500,000.

Attainment of the $3,000,000 first objective was announced late yesterday at a meeting of the trades, industries, and professions division in the Union League club. Chairmen of the various teams in this division reported subscriptions totaling $735,135, including a $300,000 gift of employés of the Insull utilities, which had been previously reported.

The day's net gain, therefore, was $435,133. That, when added to subscriptions previously pledged or paid, brought the fund total at the close of work to $3,048,642. This is almost the equivalent of a dollar gift from every person in the city.

Morris J. Trom, Section A.....$ 70,170
Arthur Anderson, Section B.....22,000
John F. Gilchrist, Section C.....294,435
Scott Brown, Section E.....206,000
Charles Rubens, Section F.....166,755

David A. Crawford, chairman of section D, declared his group chairmen would be ready to report at the next division meeting at the close of the week. Charles S. Dewey, division chairman, announced that the appeal to employés for a day's pay monthly for six months was meeting ready response and that most corporations were matching the workers' subscriptions, dollar for dollar.

A $100,000 gift from the Marshall Field estate was announced yesterday morning by Robert M. Hutchins, chairman of the special gifts division. This gift matches the one pledged the previous day by William Wrigley Jr.

Organization of the women's division of the campaign was completed yesterday at a meeting at campaign headquarters in the Otis building. Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy was elected chairman.

Forty Cook county Kiwanis clubs will participate in a rally at the Hotel Sherman tomorrow to consolidate that group in support of the relief fund. More than 1,000 Kiwanians are expected to attend.

Addresses will be made by Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the fund; Samuel Insull Jr., general chairman, and Mr. Dewey. Michael M. Grodsky, president of the Ravenswood Kiwanis, will preside.

Addressing a Rotary club luncheon at the Sherman yesterday, Mr. Insull declared that the overhead of the five principal charities administering the fund is under 4 per cent. Social workers, as a class, are underpaid, he asserted. Results of the campaign to date, he said, indicate that Chicago's wealthy are catching a truly charitable spirit and are donating heavily to help the destitute rather than to endowed memorials and foundations.

The women's relief committee of the 38th ward will give bunco parties this afternoon and evening at the organization headquarters at 5804 Belmont avenue for the relief of unemployed persons in the ward.

Inland Daily Press Members Meeting in Morrison Hotel

More than 150 members of the Inland Daily Press association arrived in Chicago yesterday to attend the autumn meeting of the association in the Morrison hotel. The session will end today. Routine business and committee reports will be considered. Fred Schilplin of the St. Cloud, Minn., Times, president of the association, is the presiding officer.

O. S. Wespe, president of the Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers' association, Louisville, Ky., addressed the group during the morning session. J. W. Greist, manager of the Retail Merchants' institute, Chicago, spoke on the newspaper in relation to the community. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, gave the principal address at the luncheon yesterday.

Bazaar Opens Tonight for Norwegian Home for Aged

Members of the Norwegian Old People's home society will hold their 36th annual bazaar beginning tonight at the Northwest Lions club building, 4306 West North avenue. The affair will end on Saturday night.

Each of the eight branches of the society will decorate booths for the bazaar, according to Mrs. J. J. Thesen, general chairman. The entire proceeds will go toward a fund for the home at Norwood Park. It is hoped that eventually an addition will be built to this institution.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin, while playing a week's vaudeville engagement in Thrace, an upstate New York town, is showered with invitations by Bill Fitzroy, friend of her pianist, and Wallace Graham, a widower friend of Bill's. Before the week is up Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma quarrels with her dancing partner and quits the act. She marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence with him. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the supervision of her Aunt Tessie. A baby son arrives to compensate Irma for any flaws in the marriage system. The baby becomes the center of her universe. Wallace's life-long ambition is a European voyage. A paid up endowment policy makes the trip possible. Irma reluctantly leaves the baby. She is upset by a letter received in Paris from Aunt Tessie. They meet Russell Byrnes, a wealthy bachelor from New York, through friends from the boat. He has a cabin on a boat sailing in two days, which Irma persuades him to sell to Wallace. Back in Thrace they find the baby well, but Mildred planning a surprise marriage with Scott Avery. Wallace refuses his consent to the marriage. He takes Mildred out of school and appoints Irma to guard her.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

AN EVENING TO BE REMEMBERED.

The girls did their shopping in town and returned home. Mildred became interested in a book at once and was no trouble at all. No one could accuse her of being a lovelorn maiden mooning about the house for her lost swain.

"Well," said Irma, "you're not suffering for your Romeo, my Juliet."

"No," said Mildred. "I'm not much on suffering."

"What will he think when he doesn't hear from you?"

"Why, he won't think anything. I told him it would probably be difficult for us to see each other for a while."

"Yes, but he'll probably wait for you at the school at noontime tomorrow."

Mildred looked up from her book then and smiled at Irma. She looked astonishingly like a small girl who has just completed a particularly pleasing bit of mischief.

"No, Irma, my darling, he won't wait at the school. I told him that my father has taken me out of school."

"When did you tell him?"

Mildred laughed aloud. "While you were in the hardware store," she said. "Scott and I met each other in the library. Right beside the volumes on electrical engineering."

"You mean to say it was an accident?"

"Honestly, Irma, my father and you ought to write books. Both of you are full of ideas about undying love and startling coincidences. Of course it wasn't an accident. I phoned Scott while you were getting dressed. You're not such a bothersome detective, Irma. Some day I'll give you the slip quite easily and come back Mrs. Scott Avery."

"Be careful that you don't come back Miss Mildred Graham," Irma said gruffly. "Many a girl has made mistakes."

"Mildred saw Scott today."

"Aha, more plots. A fake minister, the innocent girl, the evil young man and a fate worse, though more exciting, than death."

"Mildred, you put me in a fine position by meeting Scott. What can I tell your father?"

"Do I have to think up something to tell him? Haven't I trouble enough figuring out my next meeting with Scott?"

"You think there'll be a next meeting, eh?"

Mildred sat up and slipped her feet into the scuff-toed tan pumps that stood beside the divan. "Yes, I think there'll be a next meeting, Irma. In fact, if I can get together the right words that will make you understand exactly how serious I am about Scott, you'll refuse to be a party to separating us."

"Possibly," said Irma. She went back to the baby then, wishing heartily that she had not pried into Mildred's business.

When Mildred and Aunt Tessie had withdrawn from the living room that evening Irma came over and sat on the tuffet in front of Wallace's chair.

"Mildred saw Scott today," she said, "and I don't want you to scold her for it. It was my fault. I went to Brussac's while she went to the library. I should have kept her in sight, but I didn't. She has promised you nothing except that she's going to marry him. If you have any rages I want you to let them out now and on me."

"Rages! I don't get rages. I'm just fool enough to trust people, and when they prove untrustworthy I'm disappointed, that's all. Am I to gather that you permitted her to see Scott?"

"I didn't give my permission. I was just too dumb for her. I thought I'd tell you."

"Thanks," he said icily. "It makes it so much easier for me to sleep and attend to business when I know things are going well at home."

"Would you prefer I didn't tell you if such a thing happens again?"

He jumped angrily from his chair and began pacing the floor. "God," he cried, "are you going to let it happen again? Isn't once enough? Won't you know the next time that she can't be trusted out of your sight?"

"Who are you yelling at? I've got my own business to attend to. I can't shadow her every minute, you know. Besides, I didn't want the job. Hire a detective for her. I'm willing to do my best, but I'm positively not responsible for Mildred's actions. I didn't bear her, raise her or forbid her to get married."

"That means that she's apt to meet Scott any day, doesn't it?"

"Certainly, it does."

"I'm not being mean. You're asking impossible things of me. If you'd been one-tenth the father you think you've been all this would be unnecessary. You'd have a kid that you could talk to and understand. You'd know where you stood with her. All you've ever done is to hand her over to Aunt Tessie for seventeen years and then yell like hell because she reveals unexpected sides of her nature."

"Let's drop the subject, Irma. You can't seem to discuss it without getting excited. Being tied to the office as I am, I'll just have to hope that you'll do the best you can for me in this matter. Shall we get the Franklyns over for some bridge?"

"All right. I'll phone them, though Georgia doesn't like auction, and I'm sure no one would like my contract." Irma, despite a decided sulkiness of tone and facial expression, made the call and presently bridge was in session in the Graham living room. It was not a particularly brilliant game. Irma had not underrated her flare for contract bridge. Her bidding was erratic and usually incomprehensible. Wallace's was fine and conservative, but the amount of thought put in before his declarations came slowed the game down and bored the waiting trio prodigiously. The Franklyns' bridge was competent, but their never ending advice, insulting exclamations and uncanny ability for remembering one's errors unnerved Irma so that her mistakes grew more frequent and glaring as the game progressed.

Still it was destined to be an evening that she was always to remember. Years later it was possible for her to recall vividly the frock which Georgia Franklyn had worn, the kind of sandwiches which they ate, and that she and Wallace had agreed to play bridge at the Franklyns' on the following Sunday.

In the morning when Irma and Wallace woke up Aunt Tessie was already dressed for the street. It perplexed Irma for a moment till she remembered that this was Aunt Tessie's day to visit Mrs. Fields, her bedridden friend in Smithtown. Usually she and Wallace sent some little gift to Mrs. Fields, for Wallace remembered when the poor, pale wraith had been a cheerful, smiling friend, full of fascinating stories and new games. Due to the excitement surrounding Mildred, Irma had forgotten to buy a gift for Mrs. Field as she had intended to do. Therefore she gave Aunt Tessie two dollars and instructed her to buy a book.

"Something new," she ordered, "something interesting. No moral tone, remember, Aunt Tessie. Mrs. Fields doesn't need to be preached to."

Aunt Tessie went her way and Wallace left soon after. Being a beautiful morning, Rose took the baby walking, and Mildred and Irma faced each other and asked, "What shall we do?"

"Something constructive," said Mildred. "I'll tell you what. I'll help you clean your bureau. You said the other day you needed help. It would be fun throwing away my father's shirts and hearing him yelp."

"Well, okay. Come on! Get the waste basket. He's got bills from the year one piled up in his collar drawer. I suppose I should wash the dishes, since Rose took the baby out, but it's more fun pulling the bureau apart."

"My God, who's that?" Irma cried. "And the house look terrible."

There was no view of the front from her windows, so she ran with trepidation to Mildred's room. Suppose it was little Mrs. Gardner, whose apartment always looked shiningly clean. But not at this hour.

"It's Jane Malcolm, Mildred."

"Let her in, Irma, will you? I want to clean up a little. I look awful." The bell rang again and Irma flew to answer it.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Louise's aunt lives in a large old home. She seldom airs it or lets the shades up and the sun in; consequently, the home has a musty odor.

When Aunty asked Louise why she didn't come to call on her more often, Louise replied, "O, I don't like the breath of your house." C. D.

Our little Richard, 3 years old, came running into the house after hearing the hurdy-gurdy man playing his organ out in the street with the monkey amusing the children. Excitedly he said, "O, mother, there's a man outdoors with a radio and a great big mouse." E. E. K.

Girl Supports Her Parents, Yet They Do All the Bossing

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is 24 years of age, has an excellent education and makes a substantial salary, all of which goes to her parents because they need it. She is not free to have men callers. Her parents believe a young man should call for a short time only if he intends to marry the girl.

"How can I be sure," the girl asks, "that I'm making the right choice when my contact with young men is so restricted? My male friends, under the circumstances, naturally are few. None are asked to my house because I am not disposed to marry any of those I do know. My social life is limited because I will not stoop to the humiliation of meeting young men at street corners."

Foreign parental training, one gathers from the above disclosure. Either that, or a parental endeavor to hold on to a good meal ticket. But in either event, a program to which a young woman of 24 is under no obligation to conform. It's marvelous the way some parents can inspire obedience to a course in which they are the sole victors, where other parents cannot earn a simple consideration for themselves!

A young woman of 24, sole support of an establishment, regardless of the fact that it is her mother and father she is supporting, should be permitted to dictate her terms. It should be her right to say who, when and how often she might enjoy callers in her home. There should be little interference on the part of her dependents, for such the parents become when daughter becomes the head of the financial machinery.

It's incredible in an era in which young women are permitted so largely to lead their own lives that there are girls forced to subscribe to an archaic parental dictation. Yet, there are more of them than the average person believes and not always daughters of foreign born parents, either. Daughters from whom the last drop of filial obligation is wrung without compromise for the girls' retreating youth and opportunities.

It isn't right. It isn't parentally human. Therefore, the girl should take the helm so far as her future life is concerned and do something with it before all her best years are claimed.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Generous with His Love.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love says he loves me but he tells another girl down the street the same thing. Please advise. LONESOME."

It's just his line, Lonesome. He means that he likes you, and boys can like more than one girl at a time.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Lacks Clothing for Work.

"Is there any one offering a man's suit, size 44, and a pair of woman's shoes, size 4 or 4½? We need these things so desperately now I am having the children say a special prayer that we'll get them. There is a chance that my husband will be able to secure work if he gets decent clothing. MRS. S."

I know you'd be glad to give Mr. S. that suit you've been planning to discard if you thought it would be the means of his obtaining work. Perhaps some one will have a pair of shoes for his wife, too.

Would You Rather Be Called Towhead or Platinum Blond?

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

They were dallying along a country road, talking of this and that, as grownups and children who are easy friends will do.

"When I was a little girl," said a dark haired woman to one of the little girls with pale yellow hair, "I used to have hair just the color of yours. And they used to call me towhead."

"I'm a platinum blond," she answered.

And as she said it her long pale locks immediately took on a picturesque quality. They really belonged with her fair skin and her very slender body.

The two women dropped back and the dark haired one said.

"Well, even if later she's a little conscious of her hair, it's much better to be a platinum blond than a towhead. When people used to say towhead to me, no matter how lovingly they said it, I always used to hate my hair. I always used to think of canal boats and ragged children. Even said lovingly, 'towhead' doesn't connote beauty or admiration. But platinum blond—that's 'something else again.' A child who's called a platinum blond isn't going to feel inferior about her hair."

A mother who has two children, the boy promising to be rather handsome, said to me the other day:

"I know perfectly well that Sonia is not going to be pretty or beautiful. But I am determined that she shan't think less of herself for it. So I'm picking out her good points, even now, and dwelling on them. I don't want to make her conceited, but I want her to be at least as aware of her good points as of her bad ones."

To "Point-Up" Appetite Just Stimulate Bowels

Whenever the end of the day finds you out-of-sorts; food doesn't tempt you and won't digest; breath is bad; tongue coated, just chew a candy tablet before bedtime. Tomorrow you'll be a new person!

A candy Cascaret clears up a bilious, gassy, headachy condition every time. Puts appetite on edge. Helps digestion. Activates bowels.

Cascarets are made from cascara, which authorities say actually strengthens bowel muscles. So, take these delightful tablets as often as you please; or give them freely to children. All drug stores sell Cascarets for a dime, and a dollar preparation could do better work.

Junior League Play May Get on Real Stage

HELEN TIEKEN has had her dramatization of the book, "The Strange Adventures of Dr. Doolittle," by Hugh Lofting, copyrighted, and it IS said several producers have read it and are contemplating putting it on the stage. If it does get a professional presentation, Miss Tieken and the junior league will get royalties from it. Meanwhile, casting and rehearsing, costume designing, scenery painting, and all sorts of work go on apace in preparation for the first Children's theater performance on Saturday morning, Nov. 7. Paula Wilms and Ruth Trabler have been designated to take care of the "props." Mrs. Harwood Platt is production manager; Mrs. Walter Paepcke, chief scene designer; Mrs. Shreve Badger is doing the costumes [all of them but Dr. Doolittle's are animal suits], and Isabel Bowler is in charge of makeup.

One of the affairs being given by the "Friends of Olivet Institute" as temporary measures for the Olivet permanent program to be given at Orchestra hall on Tuesday, Nov. 17, is a benefit luncheon at the Blackstone hotel, at which Harold F. McCormick, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Walter Borden, and Evan Evans are the hostesses. Sidearm chairs are to be provided, and the serveself lunch will consist of such dishes as fried eggs, creamed beans, and pie a la mode. Bess Ellis Lille, who is technical adviser for the tableaux vivants on the benefit program, was the chief guest at a luncheon Mrs. Borden and Mrs. Linn had at the Casino yesterday for some of the women who are working on the committee. Press reports about the benefit have Mrs. William Mitchell Kales's name on them as publicity chairman.

The Chicago Arden Shore association is to hold a meeting tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Lake Shore Athletic club. The provisional members are to be welcomed first, and then plans for the benefit on Nov. 14 at the Bendix galleries.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bradley Whittlesey of New Haven, Conn., announce the birth of a daughter last Wednesday. Mrs. Whittlesey was Miss Dorothy Hoyle before her marriage, and is the daughter of Mrs. Frank Ogden Hoyle of Winnetka and Chicago. Mrs. Hoyle is visiting the Whittlesays in the East.

Every Face Has Own Perfect Complement in Matter of Hats

ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Dear Miss Donnelly: While you are on the hat and profile subject, won't you give some of the salesgirls a forcible idea about putting in right sort of hat on women? Seldom they lie so deliberately and what's on the head before them. One wonderful you look,' they'll say and they're thinking the exact opposite.

This is a hobby with me. When I am in some millinery establishments and see the pressure brought to bear in selling terrible looking pieces of milliner to innocent women, I could get up and plead for mercy. But that would be interpreted as none of my business, which maybe it isn't. But, gentlemen, when a hat can do what it does to your looks and to your feelings, don't you think out of sheer humanity to women, terrible mistakes ought to be prevented by the salesperson?

I'm wondering how one of us, not depending on selling hats for our living, honestly would act were we in the salesperson's shoes. I, too, have wondered how a saleswoman has the heart to tell that an atrocious piece of headgear was becoming. But then, I won't be selling hats for a living. Maybe if my next pair of hose depended upon the sale, I'd tell the customer she looked imperial with a coal-scuttle on her head. I don't know. You can tell what you'd do under circumstances you've never tried?

But there is this about it. Once a saleswoman calls you a hat that does interest by you, she'd made a friend for life out of you. She inspires a certain confidence when she says: "No, that isn't as good on you." Especially if she hints that you have a style that should be played up.

But saleslolk aren't all born diplomats. And as things stand today a woman should be pretty well aware of her own requirements. She should know when looks good, bad, ridiculous, or grand on her. She should even have the courage to hold out against a judgment being forced upon her. If she is in doubt about a hat she should come back tomorrow for it. But shouldn't be a rush purchase. For instance it does make all the difference in the world in her appearance a woman should go in for more serious study of hat lines and what they can do for the face.

FASHIONS SHOWN AT BENEFIT FOR ST. LUKE'S

BY THALIA

NEARLY 1,500 women attended the St. Luke's benefit fashion show in the Stevens hotel ballroom yesterday afternoon, and another large crowd was present for the evening performance and dinner dance. Proceeds of the benefit haven't yet been computed, and none of the committee members would hasard an estimate further than to say that they'd probably clear an amount in 5 figures.

The promenade of young women wearing the newest, smartest, and costliest of garments, hats, shoes, furs, and jewels [to say nothing of the exquisite biscuit colored satin and lace robe de nuit that Mrs. William Mitchell Blair modeled] that 32 Chicago caterers to fashion could display, continued for 3 hours with a short intermission for tea and a burlesque modeling stunt by Beatrice Lillie.

As in previous years, the models descended from a high-up stairway at one end of the ballroom, paraded down the length of a long runway, illuminated from overhead, pausing here and there in their progress to wheel and show off the particular features of the things they were wearing.

Bevies of girls wended their way between the "boxes," which were divided off groups of tables and chairs, and the committee members, Mrs. John W. Gary, chairman of the Women's board, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr., Mrs. Charles Glore, were keeping an eye to the smooth running of the show, while Mrs. William L. Hodgkins was dealing with a number of complicated problems such as seeing about gowns that didn't arrive on time behind the scenes.

JEAN STEVENS. [Street suit.]

BETTY OFFIELD. [Winter sports costume.]

Further Details of Displays of the Latest Gowns.

The bridal party, always one of the most popular exhibits at the St. Luke's show, called forth the most "ohs" and "ahs" from the spectators. Mrs. Walter Field McLallen III. [Marguerite Watson] actually a bride herself a few weeks ago, wore the white satin wedding gown, a beauteous one made on trailing princess lines, with a train and voluminous chiffon veil so long that the two bridesmaid-models had hard work to keep it straight going down the runway. The bridesmaids, Miss Frances Weary and a substitute for Miss Beatrice Kirk, who didn't appear [nobody had found out at a late hour what caused such an unprecedented defection] wore green taffeta bustle frocks [called "Is That So?" dresses by the designers], tiny brown velvet hats, and carried huge rounds of massed tallsman roses.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne, probably the first grandmother to model in a style show, and certainly one of the most youthful, wore a full-skirted black chiffon evening gown, its only trimming a band of embroidered bead roses in pastel shades around the hips.

Some of the other St. Luke's mannikins and the clothes and accessories they wore included:

Mrs. Willard N. Boyden modeling an empire hat of brown felt with long brown ostrich plumes; Mrs. Press Hodgkins in a black velvet hostess gown with a band of ermine around the neckline; Joan Peabody, the Howard Peabody's small daughter, in a pale green coat and matching hat; Miss Barbara Neff in a graceful evening frock of mulberry chiffon, fulled at the back of the skirt and tiered with flat tucks; Miss Helen Stanley in a sapphire blue evening gown and jacket edged with ermine; Miss Florence Carr in a bright green four piece sports suit; Miss Caroline Smith in a flame colored skating outfit consisting of wool skirt and outer coat, an inner suede blouse, red woolly gloves, and a rolled red cap; Miss Jean Stevens, leading her animated canine on a red leash, in a street costume, a dark green coat and skirt and tangerine blouse to match her hat.

Miss Marjorie Horton, in a beige frock and a mink capelet and large muff that looked for all the world like the kind our mothers used to wear; Mrs. Harry B. Clow Jr. in a long, fitted ermine evening coat over a white satin dress; Miss Barbara Poole wearing a fortune in emerald and diamond necklaces, pearl ropes, diamond bracelets, and a baguette diamond watch.

Still others at the fashion show were: Mrs. William Mitchell Blair modeling, a shaded velvet evening gown in deep blue and flesh and a burgundy velvet cloak trimmed with blue fox; Miss Marietta Gillette, the only titian-haired model, in an ermine wrap trimmed with tabs of dyed Russian sable; Mrs. Howard Linn in a black chiffon dinner dress with myriads of ruffles; Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. in a black street coat and hat trimmed with Persian lamb and carrying a minute muff trimmed with a Persian lamb bow larger than itself.

Miss Betty Offield in a horizon blue and white skiing outfit, and Mrs. Walter Paepcke in a deep brown crêpe evening dress bordered with chinchilla and a long coat of brown broadcloth (a newly smart idea in evening coats) trimmed with the chinchilla.

Mrs. Lawrence Williams in an empire purple "7 to 11 o'clock" dress with a cape jacket of brown fox; Miss Elsa Armour in a white velvet and white fox evening cape over a white satin frock.

Mrs. Harold C. Strotz in a stunning gray tweed dress with four decided flares in the skirt, a three-quarter length jacket of two shades of gray astrakhan, and a gray tweed turban with a border of astrakhan; Miss Polly Perry and Miss Helen McCormick, both in black velvet dresses, and both modeling dazzling jewelry—diamond pendants, earrings, bracelets, and rings.

What Debutante and Her Mother Might Wear.

Later Mrs. Samuel Rinaker, and her debutante daughter, Miss Marjorie Horton, followed each other down the fashion show runway, dressed as a debutante and her mother might be dressed for a coming out party. Miss Horton's dress was a high waisted princess model of rust colored velvet with puffed sleeves and bands of ermine tails at the elbow. Mrs. Rinaker wore a black velvet gown with a line of brilliants across the shoulders and a picturesque looking hat with a wide brim and trailing ostrich plumes.

Jury Is Busy with Pictures, Statues for Art Institute Show

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

A modernist jury which will provide us with a modernist show is the consensus in regard to the various individuals from New York and Chicago who yesterday and today are busy in the Art institute passing upon the number of paintings and sculpture that challenge them. John A. Holabird is the one architect in the group of painters. Louis Ritman and Frederic Tallander are the two Chicago artists. From New York have come Guy Pene Du Bois, Kenneth H. Miller, and Francis Speight.

In sculpture the jury has a larger Chicago quota, including Albin Polasek, Elisabeth Haseltine, and Emory P. Seidel. Gleb Derujinsky and Benjamin T. Kurtz are the New York element.

Faced by such men as these with their well known stand on all matters artistic, it would be a rash conservative, indeed, who would dare think that academic work will be tolerated in the forthcoming forty-fourth annual exhibition of American paintings and sculpture at the Art institute. The exhibit opens next week, on Thursday, and with the festive activities which always grace the galleries on these occasions it may be said to be the first formal announcement that a new winter has begun.

Meanwhile, far into this afternoon the jury will work. Last year some three hundred paintings were salvaged from an offered twelve hundred. The figures this year have not so far been revealed.

Food Talk.

With the advent of winter many of the fresh fruits and vegetables, so necessary in the diet, disappear from the markets, and many families slight these extremely important essentials that should be present in all correct menus. Especially are these vegetables important during the coming winter as many families will of necessity be living on limited budgets. Prices, we are told, for most of the winter fresh fruits and vegetables, will be reasonable, and that is good news.

California has promised a big orange crop, so oranges should be within our reach.

ORANGE CHRYSANTHEMUM SALAD. [Individual service.]

Allow one orange for each person to be served, choosing clean skinned fruit. Cut through the skin of the orange three-quarters of the way down and in fine strips, being careful not to break the strips apart. These strips form the chrysanthemum petals. They should be separated and curled at the edges.

Remove the orange pulp and cut in pieces. Then place each orange in a bed of crisp shredded lettuce, and fill the center with the orange pieces and long, slender pieces of apple. Red skinned apples may be used and the skin left on the fruit to give additional color. Sprinkle the top of the chrysanthemum with a mixture of equal parts of shredded raw carrot and shredded cocoanut. Dust lightly with paprika, and serve with any desired dressing. [The carrot and cocoanut may be omitted and you will still have a delicious fruit salad.]

PINEAPPLE SPONGE.

1 tablespoon of gelatine
¼ cup of cold water
1½ cups of pineapple juice and water
¾ cup of sugar
2 tablespoons of lemon juice
½ cup of pineapple cubes.

Dissolve the gelatine in cold water. Add to the heated pineapple juice [water is added only when you have insufficient juice to make up the proportion of one and one-half cups]. Then add the lemon juice and sugar. Cool. When the mixture begins to thicken, beat with an egg beater until frothy. Add the pineapple cubes, and pour lightly into sherbet glasses. Serve with whipped cream.

THE marriage of Miss Florence Lowden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, to Dr. C. Phillip Miller, associate professor of medicine at the University of Chicago, took place yesterday afternoon at the Lowdens' Sinnissippi farm at Oregon, Ill. The Rev. The bride wore a gown of white satin with a court train of the satin, and the bridal veil of heirloom rosepoint worn previously by Mrs. Lowden and the two previous brides of the family, Mrs. Albert F. The Madleners' small daughter, Nancy, and the Drakes' children, Barbara and John B. Drake III., were also in the wedding party, wearing buttercup yellow frocks and suit. Dr. Franklin C. McLean was best man for Dr. Miller. Chicago relatives and friends who went by train and motor to the wedding included Miss Lowden's aunt, Mrs. William C. Pullman; the John B. Paris Hunting Costume for the Modern Diana

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — From Compiègne to Rambouillet and down into the stately valley of the Loire, the chateaux of France are being opened for the saison de la chasse.

Hunting is the favorite fall pursuit of the fashionable world of Europe, and whether they carry a gun or just "go along," smart women are getting their hunting ensembles ready. These ensembles take their cue from the brilliant plumage of the pheasant this fall, and are as vivid in color as the autumn woods around Rambouillet. Tweeds for the hunting outfit are not sober weaves of brown and beige or gray and blue, but woven with threads of orange, primitive green and maple-leaf red. These tweeds are also closely woven and heavy in weight.

The smart modern Diana wears a suit made of such tweed, with a top coat or cape to match, when she goes a-hunting in France. She carries with her an additional jacket or vest of bright colored suede, to wear when the topcoat or cape is left behind during the actual hunting.

The Maggy Rouff ensemble, sketched today, is the chic type of ensemble de chasse this fall. Its name is "En Foret," and the long cape is made of bright colored suede to wear when tweed, with wide tailored revers and collar, slits for the passage of the arms, and tucks down over the shoulders to the elbows.

Under this cape is worn a vivid green suede jacket with big patch pockets and a belt of suede. The skirt, which is a wrap-around, is tucked down the front closing, and is made of tweed. There is a vest of tweed and white crêpe de chine blouse with stock tie. The hat is green suede.

Others may look like Kotex

but how are they made?... where?... by whom? You have a right to know.

WHEN a substitute claims to be "just like Kotex," ask where it is made. How. By whom.

You will find the claim "like Kotex" usually means the pad merely looks like Kotex. That's not enough, when health is involved, as it is in your choice of sanitary protection. There's one way to be sure. Get genuine Kotex.

When buying sanitary pads already wrapped, ask the clerk, "Is this real Kotex?" Thus be sure you are getting no inferior substitute.

HELPS IN TRAINING YOUR BABY TO EAT NEW FOODS . . . . .

Give a very little of the new food for the first few days, until he gets used to it. ● Do not force him to eat it, if he refuses. But give him a teaspoonful or two each day until he learns to like it. ● Increase amounts very gradually. ● Have regular times for feeding. Never feed between meals. ● Vary the fruits, vegetables and cereals from day to day, so he will not get tired of any one and will learn to like all kinds.

Learning to take care of new foods is delicate business for a baby. During this period wastes often accumulate faster than inexperienced little organs can carry them off.

Then a little help is in order. Nothing harsh, nothing violent, but very gentle, very mild help. Just the urge to prompt, easy action that Castoria gives.

Castoria, you know, was formulated for just this purpose. Its regulative action is so mild, you can give it to a young infant suffering with colic. And yet, in larger doses, it is just as effective for older children.

You may be very sure that Castoria contains no narcotics, no harsh drugs. It is just a pure vegetable preparation specially made for babies' and children's delicate needs.

When you start giving new foods to your baby, or when you see a little cold or fever developing, give a first-aid dose of simple Castoria. Genuine Castoria always has the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

CHICAGO & NORTHWESTERN STAGES

SEEK RECEIVER FOR SHUBERTS' THEATERS HERE

Follow Petition Filed in New York.

A suit seeking an ancillary receivership for the Shubert Theater corporation properties in Chicago will be filed in the United States District court today, according to tentative plans of the law firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt.

The theater corporation was placed in equity receivership yesterday in the federal court in New York. The Chicago law firm represents Gerson, Beesley & Hampton, Inc., publicity agents, with offices at 119 North Clark street, which started the friendly suit in New York.

Blame Business Slump.

A decline in attendance and no reduction in operating costs since the stock crash in 1929 were given as the reasons for the action by Lee Shubert, New York, head of the corporation. The petition filed in New York asks that Mr. Shubert and the Irving Trust company of New York be appointed receivers. The publicity agents say that the corporation owes them $500.

In Chicago the theaters operated by the Shubert interests include the Selwyn, Harris, Garrick, Apollo, Grand Opera house, Great Northern and the Princess. The corporation owns or operates seventy theaters in large cities in all parts of the country.

Large Losses Cited.

The petition in New York sets forth that the net operating loss of the corporation for the year ended June 30, 1931, was $1,670,000 and the net operating loss for the year ended June 30, 1930, was $1,230,000. The corporation was organized in 1924 to take over all of the Shubert interests.

According to the petition, the corporation is without funds to meet current obligations, although it is solvent. The value of its assets greatly exceeds the liabilities, it is said. It was understood that the receivership action was taken to protect the creditors and stockholders.

HOBO COLLEGE OPENS; SLOGAN: MORE SOUP LINES

Mulligan Stew Keeps 'Students' in Classes.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The college for hoboes opened its fall session today in the annex to the Hotel Astoria—not too far from the Bowery and a considerable distance from the Waldorf Astoria. The college has a president, a dean, a faculty, a research laboratory and best of all nearby mess hall.

The matriculation this afternoon took place in the big loft room where the James E. How Memorial institute [the college has been named in honor of the millionaire hobo who recently died] will hold its classes.

Frank Skydrop, who has another name but prefers to be known as "Skydrop" in this instance, is president, chairman of the board of trustees and chief filler of the "mulligan pot" which will appease physical hunger after the thirst for mental knowledge has abated.

Mulligan Stew Follows.

John Cavanaugh is the dean of the college and Ralph Dalton, the organizer, is secretary of the institute. The college got away to a splendid start, there being a five dollar bill in the endowment fund.

Just before lunch time the students began wandering into the college quarters on East Fourth street from their campus on the Bowery and 50 of the first to matriculate dined magnificently, depleting the endowment capital.

The aims and purposes of the institute were discussed after classes by Daniel O'Brien, king of the hoboes and vice president of the college. Mr. O'Brien is known throughout the land as the originator of "Potatoes O'Brien."

H. O. Degree [Hand Out] Offered.

The fellows of the college, it was revealed, will work toward such degrees as M. O. H.—master of the hound; F. T. R.—freight train rider; H. O.—hand out; B. D. S.—backdoor spieler, and F. G.—food grabber. The college song will be "Pie from the Sky." The campus slogan—"More Soup Lines." There will be special classes for those who wish to specialize in working one hour a week.

The first O'Brien lecture was cut short by the savory odors of a stew being wafted into the classroom. It concerned a rather remarkable theory of how the business depression can be instantly ended.

Father of 5 Convicted of Rape; Gets Life Term

ROBBER BINDS MAID IN HOME OF C. W. SILLS

The three story home at 4939 Kimbark avenue of C. W. Sills, vice president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., investment corporation, and brother of the late Milton Sills, movie actor, was entered by a young robber yesterday. After tying up a maid he escaped with $150 and two rings worth $200 from the servants' quarters.

The bandit, dressed in a brown suit and topcoat, appeared at the side entrance of the house and thrust a revolver in the face of Miss Catherine Hession, 23 years old, a maid, when she answered the door.

He forced her to ascend to the third floor, where he tied her with rope he carried. Then he searched the room which belonged to Esther Peterson, 24 years old, another maid, who was on the second floor and was unaware of the robbery. On the first floor Miss Helen Anderson, the cook, was also unaware of the robber's presence.

Mr. Sills was at his office at 201 South La Salle street, and Mrs. Sills was shopping in the loop, and their son, Robert, 13 years old, was at school.

FIVE ALIENISTS TO TEST BELL, WHO ESCAPED CHAIR

Five alienists will make an examination tomorrow of Frank Bell, who was saved from death in the electric chair on an insanity plea last Thursday night. A jury will be called next Monday in Judge James J. Kelly's Criminal court to decide on the sanity of the convicted murderer.

Bell's attorneys, Joseph Nosek and Ralph Sharp, announced that the defense alienists will be Drs. James Whitney Hall, Orlando Scott, and Harold Hurlbert. Alienists for the state will be Dr. Francis J. Garty, superintendent of the psychopathic hospital, and his assistant, Dr. Harold Singer.

Bell was convicted of the murder of Chris Patras, north side restaurant owner, during a holdup. Bell's companion, Richard Sullivan, died in the electric chair early Friday morning.

TELLS OF NEW PRODUCTS TO BE ADVERTISED

New manufactured products will provide a boom in the advertising field during the next ten years, 75 members of the Newspaper Advertising Executives association were told at their annual meeting in the Stevens hotel yesterday. Alvin E. Dodd of New York was the speaker.

"Through research in the corn industry, dozens of new uses for corn products have been found," Mr. Dodd said. "Artificial woods and illuminating gas are only two of them. Some of the other developments under way are a concrete building material that 'rises' like bread and is very light; windowless factories and office buildings to keep out dust and noise; electronic tubes for a variety of uses; new ways of controling temperatures in houses; frozen foods."

Mr. Dodd asserted that advertising would be necessary in the publicizing of all these developments and that newspaper advertising would be especially needed.

4,200 CHELTENHAM DEPOSITORS WILL RECEIVE $109,000

The 4,900 depositors of the closed Cheltenham Trust and Savings bank, 2900 East 79th street, will receive a 40 per cent dividend next Monday, providing a court authorization of the payment is secured in the interval. This was announced yesterday by State Auditor Oscar Nelson.

Frank McKey, receiver of the Cheltenham bank, has $109,000 ready for distribution to depositors and checks are already being made out, the auditor said. The bank was closed on June 10 and so far has paid no dividend. The last detailed report of its condition listed $122,923 cash on hand with no bills payable.

Total resources were listed at $477,111 and $275,722 due creditors.

Emil Wentzlaff, receiver of the Boulevard State Trust and Savings bank, 621 Irving Park boulevard, announced that, with the approval of the court, he would pay a 10 per cent dividend to the 9,800 depositors on Monday. The disbursement amounts to approximately $90,000.

FRISCH NAMED MOST VALUABLE IN LEAGUE

ENTNER AND OLSON REJOIN PURPLE SQUAD

Killing Stars Will Oppose Ohio.

Full realization of the importance of Saturday's game with Ohio State manifested itself in Northwestern's drill yesterday. After an hour's scrimmage, the freshmen left the field thoroughly subdued.

A full complement of players reported for the first time in several days. Bob Peg Rentner and Ollie Olson, the two ailing regulars, were able to take their positions in the backfield. Bob Russell reported to practice for the first time since the Nebraska game, but he is not expected to take part in any hard work this week. There is a slight possibility that he will be available for the Illinois game a week from Saturday.

Stress Line Play.

With these two sure starters Saturday, Northwestern will present its strongest backfield. The other members of this rangy quartet are George Potter, quarter back, and Ken Meeker, half back. The group averages a fraction over an inch in height, a factor which should prove effective against Ohio's anticipated aerial attacks.

With the backfield shaping up well the line is receiving the bulk of attention this week. Considerable confidence exists in the ability of the line to withstand Ohio's thrusts. The fact that Northwestern has been scored upon only once in three games this year is sufficient proof of the impregnable qualities of the Purple forwards. The lone touchdown was scored on a forward pass.

Two Special Trains.

The line will be practically the same one which started the Notre Dame game. Capt. Dal Marvil and Jack Ryan, who played throughout the Notre Dame game, will be at the tackles. Jimmy Evans will be at one end with either George Dilley or Ted Stephenson at the other. Weidin will probably start at center with Rentner and Manske at the ends.

Two special trains, one for students and the other for alumni, will leave here for Columbus Friday night. The Northwestern band of 150 pieces also will make the trip.

OHIO FORGETS MICHIGAN

Columbus, O., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Satisfied it can cope with Northwestern's vaunted attack, Ohio State varsity today began final preparations for the Purple's invasion here Saturday.

All pleasant talk about the Michigan victory last Saturday has been dismissed and once more the Buckeyes are the underdogs preparing to oppose a superior team.

Coach Sam Willaman in today's drill stressed defense against Northwestern's known offensive. A long drill on blocking and two new plays were other parts of the day's preparation. Scrimmage against the freshmen completed the workout.

Outstanding among the day's developments was the success of the varsity's pass defense. Pass after pass by the freshmen using Northwestern plays was smeared. After a conference today, the coaches said there will be no changes in the lineup which started against Michigan.

Dwight Holcomb will start the game again, but will probably be relieved by Bill Carroll before the end of the period. His running mate at the half will be Bill Hinchman. Carl Diener, sophomore quarter back find, will start with Vuchinich at full back. Willaman had planned to keep his first string men out of any hard scrimmage during the week, but changed his mind late in the practice when a perfect a defensive formation. Light workouts are to prevail during the remainder of the week.

BLUENOSE BEATS THEBAUD AGAIN TO KEEP TROPHY

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Bluenose, Captain Angus Walters' Big Fish Basher from Lunenburg, N. S., retained her throne as queen of the North Atlantic fishing fleets today by defeating the American challenger, Francis L. Thebaud of Gloucester, Mass., in the second straight race.

The defending champion of the fishing fleets for ten years led the pride of Gloucester fleet home from a 36 mile open ocean course by twelve minutes. Yesterday she won over the same course by more than half an hour.

Tonight they dusted off a big silver cup, the international fishermen's trophy, forgotten, almost, for eight years, and presented it to Bluenose's very little skipper. The cup had not been played in competition since 1923, when Captain Ben Pine, Thebaud's then racing skipper, came to Halifax in the Columbia in an attempt to recover it. Owing to a dispute, that race remained unfinished and the cup was put away in a safe deposit vault when this year's race was arranged, as one could remember where it was and it was found after a painstaking search just in time for the title race. Columbia, regarded here as the most dangerous challenger ever sent to Halifax, since was lost at sea with all hands.

Captain Angus and his schooner have never met defeat in an international contest.

WHEN BABY RACERS HAD THEIR OUTING

Frosh Suffer as Wolverines Get Into Stride

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Michigan's regulars, handed a generous amount of criticism because of their sluggish performance against Ohio State Saturday, took out their spite on the freshmen in an offensive scrimmage this afternoon. They rolled up three touchdowns in less than 10 minutes, with Dee De Baker as the ball carrier on each of the final thrusts.

Jack Heston, Hudson, Everhardus, Hewitt, and finally De Baker got into the battle. Twice De Baker slanted through tackle, reversed his field, and sped away on long runs to the goal. His work may earn him a starting berth in Saturday's game with Illinois.

Coaches also gave the backs practice in running back punts, using Tessmer, Heston, and Everhardus as punters. Further practice in throwing and handling passes also was on the schedule.

Willie Heston, letter man for two years and relegated to the "B" squad this year, has dropped football, it was learned today.

HEDTKE IS ILLINI CENTER

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Bill Hedtke today participated in his first scrimmage since last week as Coach Zuppke accelerated the practice pace for the Michigan game here Saturday.

With Hedtke's return to center, Zuppke is using Bob May at guard, at which position he probably will start against the Wolverines.

Paul Carson and Fuzzy Evans, substitute backs who looked impressive against Bradley, may get a chance to share work at one position, rounding out a back field already composed of Gil Berry, Herman Walser, and Lind Murray.

Berry, because of his experience, probably will direct the team.

Quarter Mile Champion Has Acute Appendicitis

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Victor Williams, national intercollegiate and A. A. U. quarter mile champion, was taken to a hospital today following an attack of acute appendicitis. He was operated on immediately.

DANIELS STOPPED BY ROSENBLOOM IN 7TH ROUND

Florida Voters Ratify New Race Law, Poll Shows

Miami, Fla., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Florida's new law legalizing dog and horse racing with pari-mutuel betting by local option, apparently was ratified by wide margins in three county referendums today.

Incomplete returns showed racing favored for six tracks in Dade county; two in Palm Beach and one in Clay county, next door to Jacksonville.

The Rev. C. W. Duke, pastor of the First Baptist church of Tampa, announced that injunctions would be sought to prevent operations of tracks in any counties where the law is ratified.

INFANTS OF TURF TRY OUT THEIR RUNNING LEGS

Show Speed, Give Owners Hopes of Greatness.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Far from the maddening shouts of a crowd of racegoers there took place in a typical autumn setting over the training track at Arlington Park yesterday the final trials of many of Chicago's most fashionably bred yearling thoroughbred horses.

The cry of "They're off," and the shout "Come on, Somebody," wasn't once raised by the little band of Illinois owners and producers of thoroughbreds who lined the rail.

For this was a serious racing business—very serious for the group of onlookers. They have their money, their hopes, and their dreams of famous turf victories tied up in the young horses.

Yet it was more serious for the young thoroughbreds who were up for their final tests, passing in review for speed trials which were to indicate if they are to become famous horses, ordinary race horses, or merely plugs.

Homebreds from Leona Farm.

More than a dozen of the young horses were natives of Illinois, this cluster being the homebreds from Leona farm, maintained near Cary by Mr. and Mrs. John Hertz. Youngsters from Kentucky, Virginia, New York, and other thoroughbred production centers, owned by a half a dozen Chicagoans also went into action.

Most of the famous American sires were represented by sons and daughters in the trials, which gave a good indication of the importance the thoroughbred horse has taken in Illinois during the last few years.

The yearlings from Virginia, Kentucky, and all points north, east, south and west didn't have a thing on the young "hosses" from Illinois.

But there was a colt from down in New York, owned by Harry F. Sinclair, which fairly flew through the training drill. This youngster hasn't a name. The job of giving him a "handle" will be taken care of later. But he is a son of Lucellite-Budara. He galloped a quarter of a mile in :22 3-5, winning by a neck from a son of Stimulus-Susie. Both are owned by Morris Vehon. He bought them at the Saratoga sales in August.

May Get Eastern Trainer.

Vehon was a proud owner after the impressive trial and he indicated that he is coming into racing in quite an extensive way and will campaign young horses until he can build up the sort of a stable that can hold its own anywhere. There are reports that one of the most noted trainers in the country will come west from New York next spring to train Mr. Vehon's horses.

There was a son of Crusader-Penrose which Mr. Vehon tried that also was admired by everybody in the small gathering. If you ever saw Crusader, a son of Man o' War you will remember his easy way of going, his perfect action, and his gameness. That's the way this sleek brown youngster performed when he came up for his final trial. He ran nose and nose with a chestnut son of Polymellan-Gera and finished out the quarter of a mile in 23 seconds.

This fellow may be named "100 Per Cent." If he goes on from his yearling trials it is a good name.

"Steppin' High."

Now don't forget that name. He is a son of High Time-Grey Duchess. He is the fastest yearling among the Hertz youngsters. He beat Get Ready, a son of Stefan the Great-Inbound, by a big margin.

Horses You'll Hear About.

Just before Steppin' High was called out for his trial word was flashed from Maryland that French Duchess, a half sister to Steppin' High, had won an important 2 year old event at the Laurel track. Maybe the message inspired Steppin' High to his good trial.

You'll be hearing much about horses named Four Hundred, Straight Shot, Nimble Heels, Shady Play, Egotist, Frugal, Final Call, Guard, and Black Andy next year. They were some of the Hertz yearlings which worked impressively in the trials.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

PURPLE ON SPOT.

NORTHWESTERN'S Wildcats are on the spot, as they say in gangland, for their remaining games of the conference schedule. Before the season opened, we dopesters, so prone to error, figured that Northwestern, Michigan, and Purdue might come through the season unscathed to a triple tie for the Big Ten title.

Look what happened. In their first conference games, Michigan and Purdue, two of the approved three, took it on the chin from Ohio State and Wisconsin. Northwestern did not play a conference foe, else it might have fared likewise.

Now here is the point. Hanley's outfit has yet to meet Ohio State next Saturday, and Illinois, Minnesota, Indiana, and Iowa thereafter. As the now general favorite for first honors, Northwestern thus will meet each successive foe at not only its physical best but at its psychological best as well. In substance, that means each opponent will be trying its hardest against the Purple. That is the history of sport, to knock off the favorite—whether it be football, baseball, pugilism, or racing.

As The Wake remarked to Dick Hanley, "It looks as if they all would be good just about the time Northwestern meets them." "It's always that way," he remarked laconically. That, however, is the way of coaches.

Ohio State is a genuine menace to the Purple. We rather look to see Capt. Marvil and Riley at tackles give the Buckeyes some gridiron lessons. If they don't, write your own ticket.

Illinois is said to have a line at last. If it has, Zuppke will develop ground gaining plays for his backs. Minnesota, with its weight, is dangerous. Indiana long has been a Purple jinx. Iowa ought to be a good fellow if the Purple gets that far without defeat.

As The Wake sees it, Northwestern has three at least, possibly four games, which it might lose. Further injuries to a squad none too strong in replacements easily could be fatal. It is certain Northwestern is "on the spot" so far as efforts of opposing elevens to thwart the Evanstonians are concerned.

Missed.

We walked down the maple-shaded lane,
That day, long ago, when you went away;
And we two have never since met again,
Though friends and neighbors since childhood's day.

We waved farewell as you turned away,
And since your presence never made me glad,
I've been light hearted ever since that day;
But now that you're buried, I'm lonely and sad. E. M.

LOUIS COMISKEY DENIES REPORT FATHER IS SINKING

Reports last night from Eagle River, Wis., that Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, was "very low" were denied by his son, J. Louis Comiskey, treasurer of the baseball club, who is with his father at his Wisconsin summer home.

Mr. Comiskey has been under the care of doctors for several weeks, but his condition has shown improvement and yesterday he was resting comfortably, according to his son.

Mr. Comiskey is 72 years old.

KLEIN SECOND, TERRY THIRD IN WRITERS' POLL

Captain of Cardinals Gets 65 Points.

Honor Roll

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Players who have received recognition as the most valuable in the National league:

1924—Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn.
1925—Rogers Hornsby, St. Louis.
1926—Bob O'Farrell, St. Louis.
1927—Paul Waner, Pittsburgh.
1928—Jim Bottomley, St. Louis.
1929—Rogers Hornsby, Chicago.
1930—*Hack Wilson, Chicago.
1931—†Frank Frisch, St. Louis.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Frank Frisch, captain and second baseman of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, after rapping at the portals three previous times in vain, has smashed baseball's hall of fame as the National league's most valuable player for 1931.

Announcement of Frisch's selection, by vote of a committee of baseball writers, was made today by William J. Slocum of New York, president of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. The association is perpetuating the most valuable player poll, which was officially dropped by the National league in 1929.

Frisch emerged the victor in a three cornered battle of ballots with Chuck Klein, slugging outfielder of the Phillies, and Bill Terry, first baseman of the New York Giants. Out of a possible maximum of 80 points Frisch topped the list with 65. Klein received 55 and Terry 53. No one else was a real contender for the honor, Elwood English of the Cubs, in fourth place, collecting 30 points.

Runner-Up Last Year.

Seven years ago, 1924, when the first official National league award was made, Frisch registered his first bid by finishing third to Vance, who collected the winner's $1,000. Frisch then was with the New York Giants. After being traded to St. Louis, Frisch was runner-up to Paul Waner in 1927. He also placed second in last year's unofficial contest, trailing Hack Wilson.

Frisch and Terry this year were the only players who scored points on all eight of the writers' ballots. Klein placed on seven of the eight lists. Frisch had only one vote for first place, but piled up his winning total by getting five votes for second place, one for fourth and one for eighth. Terry had one first, one second, three fourths, one fifth, one seventh and one eighth.

The votes were tabulated on a basis of ten points for first place, nine for second, and so on down the list of ten. Beyond ten, honorable mention took the place of points.

Ignore World Series Heroes.

It was noteworthy that the three world series heroes of the Cardinals, Pepper Martin, Burleigh Grimes, and Bill Hallahan, received no points whatever. They won honorable mention, however, along with more than a dozen others.

Another striking feature of this year's balloting, done before the world series, was that no player received the top ranking on more than one expert's sheet. The eight players rated No. 1 on the most valuable player lists were: Frisch, Terry, Klein, Chick Hafey, Jimmy Wilson, Sparky Adams, Travis Jackson, and Red Lucas. Four of these eight were members of the world champion Cardinals.

Frisch, St. Louis	65	Bottomley, St. L.	6
Klein, Phil'delphia	55	J. Elliott, Phila.	5
Terry, New York	53	Quinn, Brooklyn	4
English, Chicago	30	Finn, Brooklyn	3
Hafey, St. Louis	29	Clark, Brooklyn	3
Wilson, St. Louis	28	Derringer, St. L.	3
Jackson, N. York	24	Root, Chicago	3
Grimm, Chicago	21	Bartell, Philadelp'a	2
Adams, St. Louis	18	Vergez, New York	2
Brandt, Boston	15	Fitzsimmons, N. Y.	1
Marnaville, Boston	13	O'Doul, Brooklyn	1
Cuyler, Chicago	13	Wright, Brooklyn	1
Traynor, Pitts'gh	12	Cuccinello, Cin'ti	1
Lucas, Cincinnati	10	Gelbert, St. L.	1
L. Waner, Pitts'h	8

Honorable mention: Meine and Thevenow, Pittsburgh; Bissonette, Brooklyn; Martin, Grimes, Johnson, and Hallahan, St. Louis; Hogan, Walker, and Mitchell, New York; Davis and Whitney, Philadelphia; Durocher, Hendrick, and Stripp, Cincinnati; Berger, Boston, and Hartnett, Chicago.

The baseball writers' committee consisted of James O'Leary, Boston; Thomas Holmes, Brooklyn; Edward Burns, Chicago; Frank Grayson, Cincinnati; Daniel M. Daniel, New York; Edwin Pollock, Philadelphia; Charles J. Doyle, Pittsburgh, and J. Roy Stockton, St. Louis.

Dempsey Starts Big Game Hunt in Wyoming Wilds

YARDS PONIES TO RUN TOMORROW IN CHARITY RACES

Expect 17,000 for Relief Program at Hawthorne.

The Stock Yards Derby, a comedy feature to most folks, but a matter of serious business to riders and owners of stock yards ponies, will be revived at Hawthorne tomorrow as an added attraction for charity day at the west side track.

Ask dad, or maybe grandpa, and he'll tell you that in the good old days at Hawthorne the Yards Derby was the race. Only ponies actually used at the yards are eligible, and many was the big wager made on the result by the sportsmen from the south side in the pre-mutuel times.

No Mutuels on Race.

There will be no mutuels on tomorrow's race. It is being inserted into the program as the third race. The distance is three-eighths of a mile. The field follows:

Horse.	Jockey.	Owner.
Little Matt	Steve Kissk	B. R. Walter.
Leader	Wm. O'Brien	James Tulley.
Meddling	John Franker	Tom Cross.
Sister May	Tom Devine	Wm. Wickman.
Lightning	C. Copeland	C. Copeland.
Star Light	J. Connelly	John Bowlin.
Pickle	W. Kvenaol	Monte Conklin.
Stanley	H. Conners	Sam Scott.
Little Man	J. Kops	Tom O'Neil.
Mickey	Joe Kolar	Tom O'Neil.

It will be Chicago's biggest turf charity day. It is known as Mayor Cermak's day for the joint relief committee of Cook county, and a committee headed by the mayor has launched a drive to sell 15,000 tickets. Reports to the track yesterday were that most of them were gone. Another 5,000 will be on sale at the gate, and it is expected that 17,000 people will respond to charity's call.

Under the Hawthorne plan every penny of profit, from the mutuels as well as the admissions, will go to the fund. In addition, all program money will be turned over and the charge for them that afternoon will be 25 cents.

The track is donating $5,000, has reduced the purses, and is paying for the printing of the tickets and the programs. The only expense will be the purses and pay roll. Season badges will be honored, but there will be no single dailies.

Hawthorne offered another all claiming card yesterday, with the third race the best. It was a mile and a furlong event, which was captured by Dr. Parrish, with Dabster, the favorite, second, and Searington third. Dr. Parrish, who quits or gets tired or something just before the payoff station is reached, forgot to do any of those things, and those patient souls who have been following the gelding were rewarded at the rate of $16.24 for each $2 ticket.

Dr. Parrish got off to a big lead and held an eight or ten lengths margin throughout. He was wabbling about a bit at the end and won by a scant length.

Martha D, from the Emil Denemark stable, upset the apple cart in the opening number with a surprise victory that apparently surprised even the Denemarks. The lads say that Emil and the stable connections had only a modest sentimental wager on the filly. She paid $82.14, Sun Testime, ex-stable mate of Sun Beau, was the favorite here, and ran unplaced, after shying at the head of the stretch.

Tarnish Beats Jack Crain.

Tarnish hung on gamely in the fourth race to outlast Jack Crain and Moderation and score the first win of the day for the track handicapper. The latter scored again in the fifth with Primeval, which was rapidly being overtaken by Herb Ashby.

Tom Proctor, held at better than 3 to 1, had to come from behind under a smart ride by Boganowski to account for the sixth, beating old Jack Alexander, which had held the lead from the start. Noel's First, a well meant good thing, could do no better than run third.

Joesting Leads Yellow Jackets Against Bears

Herb Joesting, one of football's great line plungers, will lead the Philadelphia Yellow Jackets against the Bears when they clash in a National Pro Football league game at Wrigley field Sunday.

Joesting, in his third year of the postgraduate game, ranks with Nevers and Nagurski in the ability to crash through for gains. Although the Philadelphia team has been on the short end of scores this year, the team has given Joesting good support.

In looking over figures of the game last Sunday with the Cardinals it is noted that Bronko Nagurski averaged 12.1 yards in gains from scrimmage. Bronko took the ball eight times and picked up 97 yards. Grange, however, was the hard workman of the afternoon, being given the ball 14 times. Red gained 106 yards from scrimmage, for an average of 7.5 yards. Lintzenich averaged 7 yards on four tries and Nesbitt averaged 6 yards on three attempts from scrimmage.

CARDS CHANGE FIELDS.

With a month of out of town games facing them the Chicago Cardinals changed their training quarters yesterday from Mills stadium to Wrigley field. The Redbirds will practice in the afternoon while the Bears will indulge in morning drills.

After a game with the Green Bush club of Rock Island, Ill., next Sunday the Cards begin their eastern trip, playing Brooklyn Nov. 1, at Philadelphia against the Yellow Jackets Nov. 7, and in Cleveland against the Indians Nov. 8.

The next home game is scheduled for Nov. 15, when the league leading Green Bay Packers furnish the opposition.

MAROONS ROUT FRESHMEN USING INDIANA'S PLAYS

Horwitz, Wien Forced to Forego Practice.

The University of Chicago football team and Coach Stagg yesterday forgot the gloom of the Yale defeat and went about the business of a long scrimmage in a cheerful and philosophical mood.

Two freshman squads coached on Indiana plays plugged up and down the practice field against an industrious varsity, the first string men rolling up scores at the rate of two touchdowns over the frosh.

The only untoward event of the day was an accident to Full Back Pete Elsmer, who sat on the helmet of a pert and fell, splitting his scalp, when its support was unintentionally removed. He will not scrimmage this week. Capt. Sam Horwitz and Bernie Wien continued to favor their sprains and bruises by abstaining from practice.

HOOSIERS BATTLE FROSH

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Freshmen elevens, using Chicago plays, battled the Indiana varsity until long after dusk today. Coach Hayes is not satisfied with the performance of his men, and the Chicago game at the Midway is only four days off.

Following the drill, the men were told they showed a woeful lack of fighting spirit in the Iowa game last week. Strengthening of the quarter back position also is being pushed by the Crimson coach. His quarter backs were drilled on field strategy and generalship. They were handed short written examinations asking what they would do under certain circumstances during a game.

EASE UP ON GOPHERS

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Scrimmage has been cut down to a minimum because of the poor physical condition of most of the Minnesota regulars. Walter Haas, right half back, spent the afternoon in the training room because of a kick in the groin. MacDougall worked out with his head in a sling. Robinson, Teeter, and Munn could only run signals. However, all of these regulars will be ready to play against Iowa Saturday.

Oehler made one change in his usual starting lineup when he sent Jim Swartz to the blocking back in place of Ubl. Quentin Burdick, chronic cripple, was out in uniform again today, but Crisler doesn't plan to use him Saturday.

CORRECT IOWA BLOCKING

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Poor blocking, held by University of Iowa coaches to be largely responsible for the Hawkeyes' failure to score in three games, received corrective attention in practice today.

Gordon Locke devoted most of the practice period to improving interference by Hawkeye backs, while Coach Burt Ingwersen worked on linemen.

Light scrimmage with reserves doing most of the work concluded the drill. Regulars were dismissed early after further grooming on new signals which have been revised for the Minnesota game Saturday.

Jerome Kriz, half back, abandoned practice with a strained back sustained in punting drill. Masden and Steely replaced him in the first string lineup.

LAYTON, ALLEN WIN AS REGION CUE MEET OPENS

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 20.—(AP)—The final playoff tournament of the southern region, the winner of which will be eligible for the national pocket billiard tournament, began here today, with Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo., and Jimmy Allen, Kansas City, winning in the opening matches.

Layton, once world champion, defeated Walter Franklin, Kansas City, 200 to 74, in 24 innings. Layton had a high run of 24 and Franklin 23.

Allen won from James Thompson, Tampa, Fla., 100 to 40, in 18 innings. Allen ended the match with an unfinished run of 40.

NAME ROSS HEAD OF CADET GAME EXECUTIVE BODY

Culver and St. John's Military academies' meeting on the Soldiers' field gridiron, Nov. 14, yesterday announced the appointment of Norman Ross as executive secretary of the committee in charge of the game and its attendant military pageant.

The entire profit from this game will go to the service fund of the Cook county council of the American Legion. Last year more than $13,000 was turned over for the relief of the soldiers in Cook county through the county council.

Major League Stars Whip Hawaiians, 10 to 0

HONOLULU, Oct. 20.—(AP)—An all-star team of major league baseball players defeated the All-Star Hawaiians, 10 to 0, in an exhibition game today before 12,000. Al Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics and Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees hit home runs. The major leaguers allowed Grove, French, and Cunningham, who allowed the Hawaiians four hits. The Americans made 10 hits.

Goalie Byrne to Rejoin Kansas City Hockey Club

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Signed by the National Hockey league team he played in an outlaw circuit, Paddy Byrne of the American league will return to Kansas City this season, he said today.

MAN OF THE HOUR AT OHIO

Mr. Harry Kipke of Michigan would like for you to meet the Ohio State football team—the "eleven" that whipped his Wolverines Saturday. That's it right above here. The other name is Carl Cramer, sophomore quarter back, once of Dayton, O., now of Columbus.

Stop Cramer or Be Beaten—That's the Wildcats' Problem

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Carl Cramer, Ohio State's sophomore quarter back, defeated Michigan. Review of statistics on the Michigan-Ohio game impresses that fact.

Consequently Northwestern, the other half of the combination which owns the 1930 Big Ten championship and which meets the Buckeyes Saturday, must prepare for Cramer.

Ohio State defeated Michigan 20 to 7. The third touchdown and the one which clinched the victory was scored by Cramer on a 42 yard return of Jack Heston's punt. It was individual work, for he received no help from his mates.

Now consider Cramer's contribution to Ohio State's third quarter attack which scored after a drive of 46 yards. Cramer's brilliant generalship and his ball carrying and passing were responsible for the touchdown which gave Ohio a 13 to 7 lead.

That third quarter drive needed 17 plays to advance 46 yards. Twice it was fourth down with 5 yards to go and on each occasion Cramer called the play which crossed up Michigan's defense and made that yardage.

First down—Carroll gained 4 yards. Second down—Michigan is offside; Ohio gained 5 yards by penalty. Second down—Hinchman lost 4 yards. Third down, five yards to go—Cramer gained 7 yards. Ohio's first down on Michigan's 34 yard line.

First down—Carroll failed to gain. Second down—Lateral pass from Carroll to Cramer gained 5 yards. Third down—Cramer plunged for 5 yards and first down on Michigan's 24 yard line.

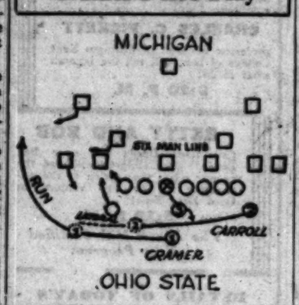
First down—Hinchman gained 2 yards. Second down—A triple pass in the back field lost a yard. Third down—Cramer plunged for 3 yards. Fourth down and five yards to gain—Cramer threw a short pass to Hinchman for a 6 yard gain. Ohio had the ball on Michigan's 13 yard line.

First down—Carroll gained a yard. Second down—Hinchman gained 2 yards, fumbled and recovered. Third down—Forward pass from Cramer to Hinchman behind the line of scrimmage let Hinchman gain 5 yards off Michigan's left tackle. Fourth down—Vuchinich plunged for first down on Michigan's 2 yard line.

First down—Hinchman failed to gain. Second down—Vuchinich plunged for one yard. Third down—Michigan drew in close in the line, but Cramer sent Carroll wide at Michigan's right tackle for the touchdown.

In this drive, Cramer carried the ball, passed it or received a pass for gains of 31 yards out of 46 yards. He selected the correct play on fourth down on two occasions.

Cramer's Ace Play



Passing Plays Keep Badgers from Loafing

Madison, Wis., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's varsity got off with another light drill today. The only real work was a brief drill on forward passing plays and a session on pass defense. Coach Thistlethwaite made no changes beyond alternating Thurner and Haworth at left end. Doug Simmons was still with the varsity at center.

The second team with Krueger at center; Wolfe and Bucci, guards; Stout and Bratton, tackles; Catlin and Vallier, ends; Facetti, quarter back; Linfor and Schiller, half backs, and Strain, full back, had a short scrimmage.

PENN REGULARS LOSE

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—The Pennsylvania football team scrimmaged for half an hour against the second team today, using new plays it expects to spring against Wisconsin Saturday. But when the half hour was completed, the score was second team, 6, first varsity, 0.

It looks as if Coach Harvey Harman has an ace in the hole for Wisconsin in the person of Robert D. Onderdonk of San Antonio, Tex. Onderdonk can pass, run, kick, block, and do all the things a coach asks, yet he has not seen much action. But this afternoon Coach Harman put him at left half back in place of Jerry Ford.

Although "Bud" Smith was calling signals for the first varsity, Bill Graupner probably will do the barking Saturday. He followed the team during signal practice and listened in on all the huddle pow-wows. Coach Harman is taking no chances on getting him injured.

SHIFTS AT PURDUE

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Coach Noble Kizer today started reconstructing his crippled Purdue eleven for Saturday's game with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh. With the back field riddled by injuries, Kizer made experimental shifts in several positions. Providing Jack White is able to resume his duties at quarter back Saturday, there is a possibility that Paul Pardonner will be called upon to perform at right half back.

Ben Merz, reserve end who made a great defensive showing against the Badgers, was moved up to the first string, supplanting the veteran Paul Calvert. Kizer also devoted attention to other sophomore linemen, including Emmons and Febring at tackle, and Peters and Febel at guards.

CARNEGIE IS WARY

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Although they are apparently the underdogs, the Titans of Carnegie Tech believe they have a chance to take the measure of Purdue here Saturday. The locals are hard at work brushing up their running and passing game and devising ways and means of stopping the Boilermakers' dangerous combined running and passing assault. Tech rested last week-end in preparation for the Purdue game.

FOOTBALL PLAYER DIES.

Cards Are Best Team; Deserved Title, Says Mack

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, told Temple university students today the St. Louis Cardinals were the better team in the recent world series and deserved to be the world champions.

Mack drew a parallel of the fine physical condition required of present day ball players and the stamina and vigor persons in the business world must have to survive.

"The day is gone when managers must watch baseball players off the field," said the veteran leader. "That kind of fellows did not last a season. The championship teams of the last ten years have been composed mostly of players who attended strictly to business."

Mack referred to Burleigh Grimes, the St. Louis pitcher who, he said, spent more time jeering the Athletics in the 1930 series than he did pitching with the result he lost two games.

"This year," he said, "Grimes attended to business and won two games, the last being the seventh of the series which gave the championship to St. Louis."

Mack said the 1929 series with Chicago, in his opinion, was the most thrilling ever waged in baseball history. One of the thrills, he said, was the pitching of Howard Ehmke.

Title at Stake in Suburban League Battle

Football championships aren't usually determined in October, but in the South Suburban league, Thornton Fractional High of Calumet City, with three consecutive victories, will meet Thornton at Harvey in its last league game of the season Saturday afternoon in what may be the deciding game.

Fractional, by winning from Thornton Saturday, will clinch the title. It has defeated all other members of the league. Thornton won its opening league game against Bloom.

Thornton's starting backfield will be Ring at quarter back; Klein at left half back; Duett at right half back, and De Witt at full back. Two of Fractional's backfield stars, Martin and Dalkamp, also will be in the starting lineup.

Several drum and bugle corps of the American Legion will participate in a parade, which will precede the De La Salle-Mount Carmel game at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon. Proceeds from the game will go to the building fund of the Sisters of Mercy. Leadership of the south section of the Chicago Catholic High School league will be at stake. Both teams have scored two victories.

Another heavy practice session will be held at St. Rita this afternoon for the St. Ignatius game Sunday at St. Rita field, 63d street and Oakley avenue. St. Rita is undefeated thus far, while St. Ignatius has suffered two setbacks.

Irish Scouts Baffled by Foxy Panthers

The varsity, retaining the four lineup changes made last week, will scrimmage tomorrow. It worked on defense in dummy scrimmage today.

Pitt Covers Attack.

Pittsburgh in its four victories over Miami, Iowa, West Virginia, and Western Reserve has shown only one formation from which only a few plays were run. Last year, Coach Jock Sutherland uncovered five different formations previous to the Notre Dame game and against the Irish used only the one shown this year. Sutherland now is expected to open up with some new formations, including the double wingback.

Weak on Passes.

The shock troops, having seen variations of the Warner system in their games with Indiana and Northwestern, stopped Pitt's running attack in scrimmage, but were weak against passes.

Bernie Leahy, one of the sensations of last Saturday's Drake game, was at full back. Charlie Jaskwhich was at quarter back, Mike Koken at left half, and Carl [Stumpy] Cronin at right half.

PITT DRILLS LATE.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Pitt's Panthers remained on the practice field until after dark tonight drilling for the Notre Dame game at South Bend next Saturday. The freshmen, who used Irish plays, were scrimmaged against. Jimmy Clark, who scored twice on the Notre Dame reserves last year, may play full back this week in place of Johnny Luch.

BERZ, MAYFIELD, MAHLKE TO BE AT SKATE MEETING

Harry Berz, Edward A. Mahlke, and Harry Mayfield will represent the Illinois-Western Skating association at the annual meeting of the Amateur Skating Union of America at Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 7 and 8. This was voted at the meeting of the board of control of the Illinois group yesterday at the Norwegian-American Athletic association clubhouse.

Other Chicagoans who will attend the meeting include Frank Kalteux, member of the Olympic skating committee, and Julian T. Fitzgerald, honorary president of the Amateur Skating Union of America. Plans for the winter Olympic games, which will be held at Lake Placid, Feb. 4 to 12, 1932, will be discussed.

Lincoln Park Boat Club Retains Commodore Prost

Theodore P. Prost was reelected commodore of the Lincoln Park Boat club at the annual meeting of officers yesterday. Thomas J. Doyle was named vice commodore. Other officers: Ralph E. Kerwin, secretary; Raymond Kerwin, treasurer, and Douglas MacMelledge, captain.

De Paul Loses Rold, Guard, for Hastings Game

Fearing a let down which may prove costly against Hastings college, Coach Anderson admonished his De Paul university eleven yesterday as he pushed practice for their charity game at Soldiers' field Saturday. Dr. Anderson reminded the Blue Demons that Hastings defeated Cotner, Nebraska state conference champion last Saturday and would like nothing better than a chance to upset De Paul.

Les Rold, one of the Demon guards, was a victim of yesterday's scrimmage. He suffered a chipped bone in his ankle and will be out for several weeks.

Jim Condon continued to make a determined bid for the full back berth yesterday. Ted Jablonski, regular full back, is still on the injured list, and Art McGivern is nursing an injured foot.

Two reserve guards who have impressed are John Bosquette and Ray Schuster. They are giving Capt. Everett McClane and Emmet Cowhey a battle for their positions.

Street Asked to Referee 15 Round Stribling Bout

Springfield, Mo., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—Gabby Street, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, tonight was asked to referee the 15 round bout in convention hall next week between W. L. [Young] Stribling and an opponent to be named tomorrow. Street has had some experience as a referee and the fact that he is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars organization here caused the vets to select him.

FLEMING, HALL OPEN BILLIARD SERIES TODAY

Frank L. Fleming of Champaign, Ill., national amateur three-cushion billiard champion, will make his first appearance of the season in Chicago when he opens a four block handicap match against Allen Hall at Mussey's, 131 South Wabash avenue, this afternoon. Hall, runnerup for the world's professional three-cushion crown last winter, will play for 50 points to Fleming's 40 in each block.

In the first half of the match played at Champaign ten days ago Fleming won by 2 points, scoring 160 points to Hall's 197 in 194 innings. The scores of the blocks follow: Fleming 48, Hall 41; Fleming 40; Hall 34; Fleming 40, Hall 32; Fleming 40, Hall 60.

This will be Hall's first appearance of the season in Chicago, and is part of his practice campaign for a match with Arthur Thurnblad, world's champion.

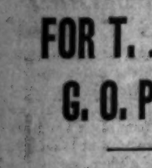
FUNERAL FRIDAY FOR T. J. HEALY, G. O. P. LEADER

Dies in Milwaukee After Breakdown.

Funeral service for Thomas J. Healy, banker, attorney, and for many years a power in the Deneen Republican organization, will be held Friday morning at St. Ambrose church, 47th street and Ellis avenue. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.



T. J. HEALY.

Mr. Healy's body was brought back last night to his home at 5039 Ellis avenue from the Sacred Heart sanitarium at Milwaukee, where he died at 10:35 a. m. yesterday. Death was attributed to a nervous breakdown and heart weakness. He was 56 years old.

The son of a locomotive engineer, Mr. Healy grew up in the stockyard district, earning his way as a newsboy and later as a messenger in the packing plant of Morris & Co. From his $3.50 weekly salary he saved sufficient to pay his tuition in law school.

Friends of His Youth.

In the stockyards district the boy made the acquaintance of two youths of his own class, Thomas E. Wilson, now head of his own packing plants, and Edward R. Litsinger, now a member of the board of review. Their friendships lasted until his death.

Winning success as a lawyer, Mr. Healy organized the Southwest Trust and Savings bank and the West Side Atlas National bank. Mr. Litsinger became a vice president and director of both institutions. They were closed by the state auditor a week ago.

Suffering from worry and overwork for many weeks and confined in the sanitarium at the time the banks were closed, Mr. Healy died without knowing the institutions had failed. His relatives withheld the news, fearing the effects of the shock.

In Politics Many Years.

Mr. Healy had been in politics since he was 24. At that time he invested a $500 legacy to run for supervisor of the town of Lake. Defeated, he ran again, was elected, and served two terms. Later he became an assistant state's attorney under the then prosecutor, Charles S. Deneen, served a term as sanitary trustee, and in 1928 was delegate at large to the Republican convention in Kansas City. He was a member of the Union League and South Shore Country clubs.

Surviving him are the widow, Mary, who was at his deathbed; two sons, Dodd, an assistant United States attorney, and John, a senior at the University of Chicago, and two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Keele and Miss Katherine Healy.

AUTO FATALITIES IN COOK COUNTY PASS 1,000 MARK

Six Deaths Increase Toll to 1,003.

The 1931 death toll from automobile accidents passed the 1,000 mark yesterday, indicating that the fatality total for the year will attain a new high record in Cook county. Six deaths in the last 24 hours raised the toll to 1,003.

This is the first time in the county's history, Coroner Bundesen said, that the 1,000 mark has been reached so early in a year. Last year 1,000 deaths were not recorded until Nov. 28, and in 1929 it was Dec. 20 before the fatalities had attained that figure. The death toll for 1930, the highest so far in county history, was 1,136.

Hit-Run Car Kills Woman.

Mrs. Jane Leonard, 60 years old, 1017 East 45th street, was fatally injured last night when she was struck at Drexel boulevard and 45th street by the automobile of a hit and run driver. She was taken to the Chicago hospital where she died.

H. J. Streibick, 438 Oakwood boulevard, saw the accident and pursued the hit and run driver in his automobile. At Woodlawn avenue and 57th street he lost sight of the car but he furnished Hyde Park police with the license number which was traced to A. H. Tomlinson, 7701 Rhodes avenue. Tomlinson told the police that his son, Kent, 18 years old, a freshman at the University of Chicago, had been out in the car, and young Tomlinson was taken to the station for questioning. He said that Mark Green, an Englewood High school student, was riding with him when the accident occurred, but he did not know where Green lived.

Five Other Auto Deaths.

Five other deaths were caused by automobile accidents. The victims:

August Delmont, 51 years old, 635 North Hamlin avenue, a laborer employed by the west park commissioners. He was run down at Homan avenue and Lake street and died of his injuries in the Garfield Park hospital. The driver, Mrs. Bertha Vodak, 4304 South Manson avenue, Congress Park, was held.

Niels Paulson, 56 years old, 2325 Harrison street. Died at the county hospital of injuries suffered on Monday when he was struck at Western avenue and Flournoy street. The driver was Joseph Girardi, 2718 Flournoy street.

Michael Lorek, 75 years old, 3243 North Oakley avenue. Died at the Martha Washington hospital of injuries suffered on Oct. 15. He was run down at Western avenue and Melrose street. The driver was Frank Masloney, 720 Clark street, Evanston.

H. J. Streibick, 438 Oakwood boulevard, saw the accident and pursued the hit and run driver in his automobile. At Woodlawn avenue and 57th street he lost sight of the car but he furnished Hyde Park police with the license number which was traced to A. H. Tomlinson, 7701 Rhodes avenue. Tomlinson told the police that his son, Kent, 18 years old, a freshman at the University of Chicago, had been out in the car, and young Tomlinson was taken to the station for questioning. He said that Mark Green, an Englewood High school student, was riding with him when the accident occurred, but he did not know where Green lived.

Michael Meckel, 65 years old, 6610 South Paulina street. Died at the Holy Cross hospital early today of injuries suffered Monday morning when he was struck at 66th street and Ashland avenue by an automobile driven by Miss Helen Hodges, 16 years old, 324 West 55th street. The girl has been held in custody at the Juvenile Detention home and will appear this morning for the inquest at 1503 West 51st street.

Quong Wing, 20 years old, a Chinese of 212 West 22d street. Died early this morning in the Peoples hospital of injuries he received yesterday when he slipped from a safety island at 22d street and Wentworth avenue and was run over by a truck driven by Edward McDermott, 2537 South Union avenue.

Boy, 13, Drives Stolen Auto Over Curb; Injures Woman

Walter Wawrzyniec, 13 years old, 2312 West 19th street, stole an automobile last night in front of St. Anthony's hospital. As he was driving it along Rockwell street at 21st street he lost control of the steering wheel, ran up on the curb, and struck a woman, who was seriously injured. She is Mrs. Mary Mus, 44 years old, 2602 West 21st street. Young Wawrzyniec was pursued and arrested by a police squad two blocks farther south. Mrs. Mus was taken to St. Anthony's hospital.

New York, Oct. 20. — [Special.] — Henry Miller, the actor-manager who died April 9, 1926, after a career of nearly a half century on the stage, left an estate with a gross value of $287,491 and $148,651 net, according to the appraisal filed today in the Manhattan Surrogate's court.

The appraisal specifies the amounts of the bequests contained in Mr. Miller's will, filed shortly after his death, in which he cut off one of his two sons, Henry Miller Jr., from whom he was estranged and who was at the time serving a six-month jail sentence in California for violation of the anti-narcotic laws.

The widow, Mrs. Helene Miller, the former Bijou Heron, herself an actress, receives an annuity of $3,000. The other son, Gilbert Miller, who was his father's business manager for many years, was left a life estate in $66,488.

ELKS' OFFICIAL KILLS HIMSELF IN WOMAN'S FLAT

Geo. Hasselman Found Dead of Gas.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in its investigation into the death of George Hasselman, 43 years old, copy writer for the Williams & Cunnyngham Advertising agency, 6 North Michigan avenue, and secretary of the Illinois organization of the Elks. He was a former editor of the LaSalle [Ill.] Tribune.

Hasselman's body was found yesterday morning in the apartment of Mrs. Florance Morgan, a divorcée, at the Patrician apartments, 401 Fullerton avenue. His head lay on a pillow in the oven of the kitchen range and all the gas jets were open.

At the inquest, Hasselman's widow, Meta, disclosed to Deputy Coroner E. F. Ingles that she had been planning to divorce her husband. She said that he had not appeared at their home, 549 Addison street, for a week.

Woman Tells Story.

Mrs. Morgan told the jury that Hasselman came to her apartment at midnight in an intoxicated condition. He was allowed to enter. At 3 a. m., Mrs. Morgan testified, she told him never to come back again, and left him on the couch when she retired for the night. She found the body when she got up in the morning, according to her testimony.

A canary in a covered cage, 15 feet away from the body, was still alive.

Janitor Is a Witness.

George Beglin, janitor of the building, said that he received a complaint that gas was escaping on the seventh floor. He traced the fumes to Mrs. Morgan's apartment and rapped on the door. A woman's voice answered the knock. When he asked about the gas the woman said, "Wait a minute." A moment later she said, "It's all right."

Mrs. Morgan told the deputy coroner that she knew at this time that something was the matter with Hasselman, but that she was trying to bring him to consciousness. Miss Mary McClure, who lives with Mrs. Morgan, said she knew something was wrong, but left for work.

Following a meeting yesterday between representatives of the allied independent owners and the union Thomas Maloy, business agent of the union, stated that both groups were in accord and only minor details remained to be settled. Both groups will make an inspection of playhouses to decide which will operate under one operator and the owner and to prorate reduction schedules. All theaters in Chicago will be affected by the reductions, Maloy said.

WM. A. ROGERS, CARTOONIST, DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—[Special.]—William A. Rogers, 77, noted veteran cartoonist, died of heart disease at his Georgetown home here today.

Mr. Rogers numbered among his personal friends such men as President Theodore Roosevelt, President Grover Cleveland, and Jules Jusserand, former French ambassador to the United States. It was at the suggestion of former Ambassador Jusserand that he was made a chevalier in the French Legion of Honor for a cartoon published in the New York Herald during the world war.

Born in Springfield, O., May 23, 1854, Mr. Rogers was a son of William Allen and Elizabeth Smith Rogers. He began his career as an illustrator and cartoonist for the Daily Graphic in New York in 1873. Subsequently he was on the staff of Harper's Weekly, Harper's Magazine, Life, St. Nicholas, Century, the New York Herald, and the Washington Post.

Mr. Rogers is survived by a daughter, Mrs. W. W. Buckley of Washington and a son, Harry A. Rogers of Wilton, Conn. Funeral services will be conducted in Springfield, but the date remains to be determined.

How One Woman Lost 47 Lbs of Fat

In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at druggists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Attention to diet will help—go light on potatoes, pastry and fatty meats—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat. Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back.

BOY BOARDED OUT NEARLY 4 YEARS; HUNT HIS FAMILY

A search for the parents or other relatives of William Ballantyne, 8 years old, has been started by Harry Hill, chief probation officer of the Juvenile court.

Mr. Hill said he had been informed that on Jan. 20, 1928, the boy had been given into the care of Mrs. Mary E. Drewett by a man who said he was Mr. Drewett's father, F. F. Smith, at 7635 Cottage Grove avenue, and had advertised in her father's name that she would board children.

Ballantyne refused to give an address for himself, Mrs. Drewett told Mr. Hill, but until Feb. 14, 1931, he sent $30 a month by money order to pay for the boy's keep. Payments were made from various cities, including Freeport, Ill., Milwaukee, and Chicago. Mrs. Drewett, who now lives at 1233 West 103d place, has a 13 year old son of her own and can no longer continue to care for the Ballantyne boy, according to Mr. Hill.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

PLEDGE THIRTY MILLIONS FOR CREDIT POOL

Expect This Amount Will Be Increased.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Organization of the Chicago-Illinois banking group to participate in the National Credit corporation, which is designed to lend money to banks with frozen assets throughout the country, was completed yesterday. At a meeting of city and state bankers in the Federal Reserve building, officers were chosen to represent the Illinois banks and a general committee to handle subscriptions and pass on applications for loans was named.

Pledges received from Chicago and downstate banks exceeded $30,000,000 and the amount is expected to be considerably augmented in the next few days. At the same time it was announced that plans for forming state committees in Iowa, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin, which are the other states in the Chicago federal reserve district, were going forward.

Traylor Heads Committee.

The general basis for subscriptions is an amount equal to 10 per cent of capital and surplus. If all banks of the district should subscribe in this proportion, the total would exceed $60,000,000. It was not considered likely, however, that this sum would be pledged. When the National Credit corporation was launched it was thought that a fund of $500,000,000 would be ample. The proportion of such a fund to be furnished by the Chicago reserve district would be between $30,000,000 and $60,000,000.

The Chicago-Illinois committee was completed with the appointment of Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, as chairman; James B. Leavell, president of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, as vice chairman, and Clarence A. Bestel, president of the Phillips State Bank and Trust company, as secretary and treasurer. The other members of the committee, which will meet in Chicago, are the same as were named at the preliminary meeting ten days ago.

Representatives from the other states in the district attended the meeting and discussed the general plan for organizations. H. S. Cross, representing the Indianapolis banks, suggested that Indiana might wish to join the Illinois group. However, it was the consensus that groups should be formed in the five states to facilitate the work of passing on loans sought by local banks. Moreover, the state committees could save time by forwarding their recommendations on loans direct to the national headquarters in New York, which makes final determination how the funds of the National Credit corporation shall be distributed.

Will Call on Groups.

"The bulk of subscriptions should be in within the next week and then the National Credit corporation will call on all groups for equal amounts," George M. Reynolds, chairman of the national corporation, and directors from the Chicago reserve district, explained. He also is chairman of the executive committee of the Continental Illinois bank.

"Probably only a small percentage of the subscriptions will be required at first. The loans will clear through New York and interest rates which borrowing banks will pay will be determined by the national directors. No loans will be made to insolvent banks but loans will be made to banks that have good assets which require time to liquidate."

Form Iowa Group.

Loans will be made only to banks that have joined the pool but it is not necessary to join immediately. Each local group will guarantee loans made to banks in its locality.

A group for Iowa was formed yesterday and Wisconsin bankers will meet tomorrow to form their group. Michigan bankers also are forming a state group. In the Minneapolis reserve district a group was formed yesterday with the election of C. T. Jaffray, president of the Soo Line railroad, as chairman. The Boston banks started to organize a group, as also did Virginia bankers.

Wheat Prices Nearly Steady Despite Heavy Realizing

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Extremely heavy profit taking developed in wheat yesterday as the result of the advance which has lifted prices around 9c from the recent low, but the market absorbed the selling in a manner that resulted in the holding of prices within a range of around 1c for the day, and the finish was at net losses of ⅛@⅜c.

Outside trade has broadened to such an extent that it was possible yesterday to sell large amounts of wheat futures without materially affecting prices. May held within a range of 56⅝@57⅜c, the outside figure being made at the opening, which put it at a new high on the present movement. The finish was at 57¼@57 3-8c on the December, with May at 56⅝@56⅞c, and July, 57⅜c.

Expect Big Wheat Sales.

Rumors that there was a possibility of large sales of farm board wheat to various European countries continue in circulation, but again lacked confirmation. President George S. Milnor of the Grain Stabilization corporation was in Washington. There were intimations received from the seaboard that negotiations were under way for sales of wheat to both France and Germany, and the representative of the German company, who was responsible for the recent sale of 7,500,000 bu of government wheat to that company, was said to be in Chicago.

An excellent class of buying was in evidence at Winnipeg where houses with seaboard and foreign connections took hold freely, and December there sold at 6c over Chicago at one time against 4c recently, and the finish was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with the October leading.

December Closes Higher.

December closed at 58⅝c in Canadian funds, which were about 10½ per cent discount as compared with American. A Chicago operator was also said to have been a free buyer. Buenos Aires closed ⅛@⅜c higher, with December at 46⅛c. A sharp advance in sterling was partly responsible for a decline of 1@1¼d in Liverpool quotations, but the actual price was ⅛@⅜c per bu lower, with December closing at 56⅜c on the basis of $3.94 for sterling.

The world's available supply of wheat, as compiled by Bradstreet's, showed an increase of 6,812,000 bu last week, which resulted in the total in sight being raised to 440,952,000 bu. However, the estimate fell 1,620,000 bu under the aggregate holding of a year ago, the first time in several years that such a condition has existed. Reports to the Modern Miller indicate a good reduction in the winter wheat acreage for the 1932 crop, while the Burlington railroad was reported as estimating a decrease of 15 per cent in the acreage in Nebraska.

Corn Has Firm Undertone.

Corn developed independent strength yesterday, with buying of corn against sales of wheat by spreaders a factor. Final trades were at net losses of ⅛@⅜c, with December closing at 36⅝@37c; May, 41⅛@41½c, and July, 42⅜c. Despite the advance of around 5c which has occurred of late the country showed little disposition to sell to arrive, and purchases were estimated at only 60,000 bu, while the shipping demand was considerably better, with sales of 168,000 bu. Charters were made for 120,000 bu to Buffalo.

Foreign buying of rye futures was reported yesterday and there was also a fair run of local and commission house buying which lifted the March and May to a new high on the crop. Scandinavia was reported as after Canadian rye, and the trade had a belief that Germany would shortly be in the market owing to the small crop in the latter country. The close was ⅛@⅜c higher on the active futures, with December closing at 40⅜c, and May, 45c, while March was up 2c at 44⅛c.

Commission house interest in oats was larger, while locals and cash interests sold. Final trades were unchanged to ⅛c lower with December, 23⅛c, and May, 25⅜c.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Earnings of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company for the third quarter of this year showed an improvement over the two previous quarters.

A statement issued today by A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board, showed net income of the parent concern and subsidiary companies for the third quarter as $992,632, compared with $826,604 in the second quarter and a loss of $2,385,945 in the first quarter.

Net sales billed in the quarter ended Sept. 30 was given as $27,230,402, against $32,147,158 for the quarter ended June 30. Net operating profit for the third quarter, however, was $838,199 as compared with $302,359 in the preceding three months. This was offset to a large extent by other income, listed as only $154,423 in the quarter just ended and as $824,249 in the quarter ended June 30.

Cost of sales billed including depreciation and general expenses, and provision for employes' service annuities, reserves and all taxes was given as $26,392,203 in the third quarter and $31,844,799 in the second.

ITALIAN DEFICIT SHOWS INCREASE IN SEPTEMBER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 20.—The Italian government treasury statement, issued today, shows that the deficit, which at the end of August was 521,000,000 lire, approximately $26,050,000, has increased to 912,000,000 lire, approximately $45,600,000, at the end of September, which marks the end of the first quarter of the fiscal year.

One month ago a 15 per cent surtax on imports was levied to fill a part of the growing gap. It was then estimated that this tax would bring in 800,000,000 lire more revenue, approximately $40,000,000.

Revenue Freight Loadings for Week Are 763,864 Cars

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 20.—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on Oct. 10 totaled 763,864 cars, the car service division of the American Railway association announced today.

This was a decrease of 13,973 cars below the preceding week, 190,918 cars below the corresponding week last year, and 415,676 cars under the same week two years ago.

Miscellaneous freight loading for the week of Oct. 10 totaled 288,646 cars, a decrease of 3,638 cars below the preceding week this year, 89,710 cars under the corresponding week in 1930, and 190,366 cars under the same week in 1929.

Large Replacement Demand for Autos Is Seen by Childs

BY HAL FOUST.

A. W. Childs, chief of the automotive division of the department of commerce, arrived in Chicago yesterday for a two days' conference with exporters of automotive products regarding foreign markets. He told manufacturers that a growing premium on swift and convenient transportation such as furnished by the motor car assures the automobile industry of a promising future as soon as general economic conditions improve.

A. W. CHILDS.

In Position to Benefit.

"A considerable portion of the world's 35,000,000 automobiles are due to be replaced," he continued. "The great economic importance of motor transportation throughout the world must eventually be reflected in a strong demand for new automobiles to replace those worn out.

"With low inventories, the industry is in a position to enjoy fully and immediately any improvement in buying. The effect of trade revival will be communicated quickly to the factory and transmitted into stimulated production and increased employment.

"In the six year period, 1925 to 1930, exports of automotive products from the United States produced the tremendous revenue of more than $2,230,000,000. This export business provided work for tens of thousands of employés, thousands of plants, extended a far reaching beneficial influence upon our economic life and provided both a stimulus and a stabilizing force in one of the world's greatest industries.

Plan for Future.

"The growing interest of foreign countries in highway development is striking proof that they are planning their future with a view to the continued development of automotive transportation. It follows that these markets will present promising sales opportunities for the world's manufacturing countries.

"Unless we are willing to deny the future of motor transportation, we must recognize the great opportunities which must present themselves sooner or later in the automotive field, both at home and abroad."

SOUTHERN BANKERS AGREE ON PLAN TO MAKE COTTON LOANS

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Southern bankers agreed today to make or renew loans, with cotton as security, to mature not earlier than July of next year, thereby officially approving a plan whereby approximately 7,000,000 bales of cotton would be kept off the market at least until July 31, 1932.

The bankers had been called into meetings in their respective states to approve or reject the plan developed at a conference in New Orleans of federal farm board members, American Cotton Coöperative association officials and a group of southern bankers.

Loan extensions by southern bankers on 3,500,000 bales of cotton would be followed by continuation of American Cotton Coöperative association obligations by the farm board on approximately 2,000,000 bales, it was decided at the New Orleans conference. In addition, the federal farm board announced it would keep 1,300,000 bales off the market until 1933 if legislatures of states having 75 per cent of the cotton acreage passed laws reducing the 1932 acreage.

SEPTEMBER NET OF UNION PACIFIC IS $3,918,381

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 20.—The Union Pacific railroad last month cleared net operating income of $3,918,381, against $5,477,526 in September, 1930. The gross operating revenues totaled $14,574,426, compared with $19,439,437 for September of last year.

The shrinkage in gross revenues resulted largely from the downward trend of shipments of grain, grain products, live stock, forest products, coal, iron ore, and miscellaneous freight. Operating expenses were slashed heavily.

For the nine months ended with September the gross revenues of the Union Pacific amounted to $117,711,302 compared with $.38,762,178 for the corresponding period of last year. Net operating profits for the nine months were $13,602,089, against $22,196,475 for the like part of 1930.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 20.—In blissful ignorance of what the interstate commerce commission had in store for it, the stock market worked itself into a state of buoyancy today, scoring gains of from 1 to 5 points or better. As one commentator sagely observed, "Wall street felt better" than it has for some time. How it may feel in the morning when the trading gentry wake up and read the headlined accounts of the commission's substitution of a limited increase in freight rates for the carriers' petition for an all around 15 per cent increase is another story.

Maybe the shock won't be so terrible, at that. The market long ago developed a sturdy reputation for being able to take it on the chin now and then and come up smiling, and it may be that the unexpected will once more happen and the list may go on ahead just as though the rails were making capital out of every little misfortune that keeps coming their way.

At any rate, this group was almost offensively strong today. Atchison, New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Rock Island, Baltimore and Ohio, and others which have been stepping so high when in the mood to do it of late were strong throughout the session and wound up with a flourish befitting their five hour performance. The net advances averaged from 2 to 4 points, with laggards few and far between.

Cause a Mystery.

Exactly what inspired the sudden buying spurt is something of a mystery. Sentiment no doubt was helped somewhat by strength in the London market, which was taken as indicating a more favorable view of next year's general elections by the business world. The lessening of tension in the far eastern crisis also figured as a factor of some importance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

This is an increase of 1 per cent from the rate that was put into effect on Sept. 1. Other banks throughout the city are expected to take similar action owing to recent firmness of the money market.

The present 2 per cent on thrift accounts was established by the National City and other banks two months ago when it was thought that a prolonged period of easy money had begun.

Mother Lode Coalition Mines.

Will you please send me some information regarding Mother Lode Coalition Mines listed on the New York exchange? I would like to know the condition of it and if I have a possible chance by keeping the stock to sell at a little higher or should I sell it now to avoid a greater loss.—J. L.

Mother Lode Coalition Mines company is controlled by Kennecott Copper corporation.

In June, 1931, it was estimated that present ore reserves were sufficient for only about three years' operations. Exploration work in 1930 revealed no new ore bodies. Results for the last few years have been before computations of depletion and depreciation. Earnings for 1930 reflect the unfavorable condition of the copper market due to overproduction and low price. For 1930 net income was $455,102, or 10 cents per share, against $692,599, or 20 cents per share, for 1929. Net income for 1928 was $1,036,849 and for 1927 $1,183,936. The downward trend evidenced since 1926 was continued into the first half of 1931, when profit before depreciation and depletion was $71,902, against $249,918 for the first half of 1930.

On June 30, 1930, current assets were $969,795 and current liabilities were $204,932. Cash was $377,958. Mining properties less depletion were $983,864, against $1,483,137 the year before. Buildings and equipment account has been entirely depreciated.

No dividend has been paid on the capital stock since a 10 cent disbursement on June 30, 1930. Capitalization consists solely of 2,500,000 shares.

Utah Gas and Coke.

Will it be possible to give me any information regarding Utah Gas and Coke company first 5s due Jan. 1, 1936? Interest on these bonds has never been defaulted. Are they sound?—W. J. E.

Utah Gas and Coke company is controlled by Western Public Service corporation [Del.]. It supplies natural gas to Salt Lake City and vicinity.

In 1930 the company suffered a loss of $204,637 before fixed charges of $290,430. Only 79 per cent of fixed charges were earned in 1929. In 1928 fixed charges were covered 1.11 times, against 1.55 times in 1927.

They are speculative.

CHICAGO STOCKS ACTIVE; PRICES FINISH HIGHER

Improved Tone of News Results in Rally.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Trading on the Chicago exchange expanded sharply yesterday in common with other security markets and stocks showed more buoyancy, thereby confounding the ticker dopesters—amateur and professional—who had shown remarkable unanimity in declaring that the market was in for a long siege of dullness.

The decidedly better character of the day's run of news was responsible for the mild rally. The announcement of the interstate commerce commission's decision on the rate case came too late in the day to find reflection in stock movements.

Net gains recorded on the Chicago board were moderate. Advances ranged from fractional improvement among the lower priced utility stocks to 2 points or so among some of the higher priced utility issues and miscellaneous shares. Great Lakes Dredge, Commonwealth Edison, and Walgreen were conspicuous on the upside.

Changes in Q. R. S.

The sweeping reorganization in directorate and executive personnel of the Q. R. S. DeVry corporation effected yesterday had little appreciable influence on the market action of the firm's stock yesterday. The issue was quoted at 1¾ at the end of the day, a slight gain over previous closing price. Recent buying in the issue has lifted the issue out of the penny class. It had sold below 1 earlier this year.

Banking interests and investment houses are represented on the new board which was elected yesterday. J. R. Cardwell, formerly a director, was made chairman. Other new board members are Delano C. Letts, vice president of the Chicago Bank of Commerce; Franklin B. Evans, partner of Bacon, Whipple & Co.; Skeldon Clark, Morris Towney, E. A. Kieselhorst, Col. John R. Roberts, Max W. Zabel, and Joseph Kleckner.

Kleckner Now President.

Mr. Kleckner, who was made general manager of the company last spring as a representative of banking interests, was selected president of the company to succeed T. M. Pletcher who is severing all connection with the concern. Other officers named are: Malcolm J. Peary, vice president; Paul A. Gilcrest, treasurer, and W. W. Kieselhorst, secretary.

Hard pressed for working capital in recent months, the company plans the sale of an additional 100,000 shares of stock. Shareholders yesterday approved an increase in the authorized stock from 400,000 to 500,000 shares. Directors were authorized to negotiate for the sale of the stock and also the camera division of the company.

BELGIAN COPPER MEN WILLING TO SLASH OUTPUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 20.—Belgian copper producers arrived in this country today on the steamship Majestic and immediately expressed their willingness to curtail the production of copper in the Katanga mines of Belgian Congo a further 25 per cent. This offer to cooperate with American and Canadian producers was made by Emili Franqui, Belgian minister of finance and managing director of Union Miniere du Haut Katanga, who spoke for his government as well as for the company, a majority of the stock of which is owned by the government.

There was a general revision of live stock prices yesterday in which beef steers and yearlings were carried to new highs for the season, while fat lambs were marked back to the previous lowest levels since 1911.

Average Down 15 Cents.

Unevenness in the hog market ranged from steady to 25c lower, a big share of the day's offerings selling on a 10@20c lower price basis, with underweights and pigs that scored the sharpest gains the day before, coming down hardest yesterday. Most light tumbled 25c, 120@160 lb averages selling largely at $5.00@5.10.

The extreme top for 260@290 lb butchers showed 5c loss at $5.55, being 15c above the low spot of the season established last week, while the general average lost 15c, all of Monday's gain. The average at $5.15 was the same as last Friday and Saturday.

Winter Bids Plentiful.

There are many buyers placing bids for winter hogs at $4.50, but no offers to sell have been made lately. Some buyers advanced their bids for January mediums to $4.40 without attracting an offer. All October bids were at $5.00. On the "to arrive" market mediums for today carried bids of $5.50 and light $5.25.

Lively competition featured the cattle trade and almost 200 steers and yearlings averaging 1,014@1,384 lbs sold at $10.70@10.75, the new high prices which go back to last March for a higher figure. The $10.80 mark, the previous high point of the season, proved a common price yesterday, the top end of the bulk of sales extending up to that line, while cattle selling below the $10.00 line were classed below "choice." However, thousands of medium to good 700@1,500 lb cattle went at $8.00@9.75 and the poorest grades of beef steers ranged downwards to $4.75.

The spread in prices is narrower than it was at this time in 1930. Common to best steers are selling within a $6.00 spread. A year ago the range was $7.35.

Lambs Back at Bottom.

In contrast to trading in other branches of the market fat lambs sold slowly at mostly 25c lower prices, and, considering the harder sorting, the market is back at the lowest levels since 1911. The extreme top to city butchers at $6.60 paid for "hand picked" selections shows $1.50 drop compared with last Thursday, but it is still 10c above the low spot two weeks ago, when sorting was much lighter.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was easier today under increased offerings, with spots declining to 3.88c. Final prices were unchanged to 5 points lower, with the December position showing the maximum loss. Trading was more active with sales approximating 21,750 tons. Prices follow:

COTTON MAKES NEW HIGH; REACTS ON PROFIT TAKING

Good general buying of cotton during the early trading advanced prices 2@4 points early to a new high level on the present upturn. There were buying orders from English interests, Japan, mills and commission houses, the latter taking distant months. Short covering was on at the same time and an increased business resulted. December was the most active month handled in all markets, reaching 6.90c in Chicago, while May was up to 7.36c. In the late trading weakness developed and a good part of the early gains were eliminated. At the close prices were around the lowest, with net losses on Chicago futures 13@17 points. New Orleans lost 12@16 points; and New York 6@13 points. Spots in the latter market dropped 10 points to 6.85c, with New Orleans off 15 points to 6.40c, while Galveston was 6.35c and Houston, 6.40c. Liverpool closed 14@15 points net higher in spite of the advance in sterling. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Cotton goods were in fair demand today with gray cloths of odd constructions and widths being bought more freely. Finished goods showed a little gain in demand, but prices were unsatisfactory. Wool goods for immediate cutting were selling in small lots the cooler weather creating a flurry among cutters. Silk goods were quieter and production is being checked. Rayon sales showed a little gain, but were still hampered by uncertainty of prices. Burlaps were in moderate demand.

FURTHER FOREIGN PURCHASES OF BILLS OCCUR IN NEW YORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 20.—Further purchases of bills for foreign account took place here today. The market assumed that the source of the orders was again French, following buying of $20,000,000 bills by the Bank of France yesterday. Orders placed today were somewhere close to the same figure.

Local banks which have large sums of foreign money on deposit at interest stated today that they were flatly opposed to making any further increase in interest rates on foreign bank balances. Last Friday the unofficial committee of bankers, which established such rates in conformity with rates for deposits established by the clearing house committee on domestic deposits, raised the rate paid on foreign balances by ½ per cent. Foreign central banks under the new schedule are paid 1½ per cent on demand accounts and 2 per cent on time deposits.

In routine manner the decision of the committee was cabled to foreign banks. The Bank of France, it is reported, in acknowledging word of the increase intimated that the demand rate should have been ½ of one per cent higher.

The local banks took the view that this was an expression of opinion on the part of the French bank and not an attempt to suggest to them what rate should be fixed on foreign balances.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A bid of $7,000 was made yesterday for a Chicago Board of Trade membership. The previous sale was at $6,500 net to the buyer.

Realizing of profits yesterday was the heaviest of any time since the advance in prices started about two weeks ago and was up in the millions of bushels, as prices have advanced fully 9c a bushel from the recent low point, and the market displays more snap than at any time in months, having numerous sharp upturns, due to absorption of offerings by new interests. Professionals are said to be well out of their wheat on yesterday's bulge, the grain having passed into new hands, with eastern and foreign speculators taking the place of local traders, who were largely responsible for a good part of the recent advance. Traders said that an important factor in the market was the limited short interest and light hedging sales.

The fact that May corn went from 10c under May wheat to more than 16c discount is considered by some traders as a point in favor of the buying side of corn. At the same time it is said that the cash demand may not continue in fair volume in case of a material upturn in prices.

Miscellaneous.

—MEN—

MANY MEN ARE UNAWARE THAT THEY COULD ADAPT THEMSELVES TO SPECIALTY SALES WORK AND MAKE FROM $5,000 TO $12,000 A YEAR REGULARLY. WE HAVE OPENINGS FOR MEN OF CHARACTER WHO WOULD LIKE TO LEARN TO DO THIS WORK AND WHO WILL ADAPT THEMSELVES TO THE REQUIREMENTS OF THESE POSITIONS.

ADAPTABILITY AND CHARACTER are the two prime qualifications for the man who would learn to do our work successfully, and to succeed permanently. It is not so much a question of ability as one of adaptability. Sometimes this takes time and practice, and those who apply for these positions must be willing and able to get along on nominal earnings while learning.

TO SOME MEN, at the beginning, this means only $150 or $200 per month. Unfortunately, some are mistaken in their qualifications, do not grasp even the rudiments of the instruction, or do not manifest any adaptability—and fail outright. Others immediately make $300 to $400 and some as high as $1,000 the first month.

THE FIRST REQUIREMENT, therefore, is adaptability. Then, after some skill is acquired and a man is successfully under way, it is more largely a matter of character, for men work by themselves under their own direction. They must go out and interview prospective buyers through their own initiative and of their own volition. This requires self-reliance. A good salesman, to work most to be done every day, regardless of success or disappointment. This requires courage, optimism and industrious habits of thought. These things are matters of character, and a man must possess or cultivate these qualifications to secure success in this work.

DO NOT apply for a position or do not pursue this work under a mistaken impression that it is easy or that there is some easy way to do it. It is not "easy"—and there is no "easy" way; but, after you have learned it, it must certainly is not hard, for the man who knows that one must work if he is to make $5,000 a year, and that one must get out and work hard—something if he is to make $10,000 or $12,000 out of it, regardless of what it is.

IN OUR CHICAGO organization we have the above qualities and qualifications in the most remarkable degree—undoubtedly the most harmonious, the happiest, and the most successful assemblage of specialty salesmen in the world. At no time during the entire time our company has been in business has it been so successful as at present. This is true of our Chicago office, of our national business from coast to coast, and likewise of our world business. But such progress has been the history of our business since the invention of this wonderful product.

THE FIRST MODEL of this product was introduced in Europe and captured one market after another as fast as organizations could be employed and manufacturing facilities built. Today we have five great European factories, and our sales there are greater than the combination sales of all other companies attempting to compete in those markets.

LESS THAN TWO YEARS AGO the present model of this product was introduced in the United States and the results to date are of most astonishing success. September of the twenties' successive record sales month, and October already assures another record. It is predicted the American factory will surpass the combined output of the European factories.

WITH SUCH A PRODUCT in an unlimited market there is unlimited opportunity for the man who has adaptability and the character to make himself go ahead daily. Below are the things he learns how to do successfully. In this branch there is mutual respect and confidence between employer and employee, an attitude of management and habits of thinking which engender good will; a manifestation of character throughout the established institution that is supportencouragement and inspiration for the new man—an organization that takes pride in itself and in its business.

IF YOU QUALIFY for such opportunities and would like to secure a permanent place with a successful specialty sales work, SEE: Mr. M. M. Meadows, 7341 Cottage Grove-av., Suite 240; Mr. John M. Wright, 1046 Wilson-av., Suite 215; Mr. L. W. Faulkner, 5067 W. Madison-st., Suite 11-14 (east end of hall); Mr. Geo. Bohen, Olympic Bldg., Hall No. 2, 2nd floor, 2421 W. SALESMAN—YOUNG, OUT OF STATE, $35 & $50 a week and some as high as $1,000 the first month.

THE FIRST REQUIREMENT, therefore, is adaptability. Then, after some skill is acquired and a man is successfully under way, it is more largely a matter of character, for men work by themselves under their own direction. They must go out and interview prospective buyers through their own initiative and of their own volition. This requires self-reliance. A good salesman, to work most to be done every day, regardless of success or disappointment. This requires courage, optimism and industrious habits of thought. These things are matters of character, and a man must possess or cultivate these qualifications to secure success in this work.

DO NOT apply for a position or do not pursue this work under a mistaken impression that it is easy or that there is some easy way to do it. It is not "easy"—and there is no "easy" way; but, after you have learned it, it must certainly is not hard, for the man who knows that one must work if he is to make $5,000 a year, and that one must get out and work hard—something if he is to make $10,000 or $12,000 out of it, regardless of what it is.

IN OUR CHICAGO organization we have the above qualities and qualifications in the most remarkable degree—undoubtedly the most harmonious, the happiest, and the most successful assemblage of specialty salesmen in the world. At no time during the entire time our company has been in business has it been so successful as at present. This is true of our Chicago office, of our national business from coast to coast, and likewise of our world business. But such progress has been the history of our business since the invention of this wonderful product.

THE FIRST MODEL of this product was introduced in Europe and captured one market after another as fast as organizations could be employed and manufacturing facilities built. Today we have five great European factories, and our sales there are greater than the combination sales of all other companies attempting to compete in those markets.

LESS THAN TWO YEARS AGO the present model of this product was introduced in the United States and the results to date are of most astonishing success. September of the twenties' successive record sales month, and October already assures another record. It is predicted the American factory will surpass the combined output of the European factories.

WITH SUCH A PRODUCT in an unlimited market there is unlimited opportunity for the man who has adaptability and the character to make himself go ahead daily. Below are the things he learns how to do successfully. In this branch there is mutual respect and confidence between employer and employee, an attitude of management and habits of thinking which engender good will; a manifestation of character throughout the established institution that is supportencouragement and inspiration for the new man—an organization that takes pride in itself and in its business.

IF YOU QUALIFY for such opportunities and would like to secure a permanent place with a successful specialty sales work, SEE: Mr. M. M. Meadows, 7341 Cottage Grove-av., Suite 240; Mr. John M. Wright, 1046 Wilson-av., Suite 215; Mr. L. W. Faulkner, 5067 W. Madison-st., Suite 11-14 (east end of hall); Mr. Geo. Bohen, Olympic Bldg., Hall No. 2, 2nd floor, 2421 W. Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signatures of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner, at the Reduced Rate. A charge is only while you keep the money.
